Big Rush Is On; May Pay National Debt.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SYDNEY, Australia, Nov. 13.—Lured by a sensational discovery of gold, hundreds of Australians are dicing with death in a supreme effort to wrest riches from the great central Australian desert.

This desolate region, larger than the state of Texas, shunned by the white man ever since Australia was colonized, is now being attacked by at least six expeditions, using airplanes, tractors, motor trucks, camels and horses.

A rich gold discovery was made recently in a section of the desert known from its rock formation as the Granites, which is about 6½ miles long. Assayists report that the field contains enough gold to pay off Australia's national debt, which aggregates approximately $5,000,000,000. The commonwealth government has already registered 150 leases showing assays of from 5 to 28 ounces of gold to the ton.

Death Hazards Prospectors.

But the Granites, in a wild tropical region smothered by sand and spinifex—grass with stiff, sharp pointed leaves—is not easily disgorging its store of gold. Death lurks for the unwary prospector in its barren expanse, with hunger, thirst and spears from aboriginal blacks as weapons.

The Granites is 400 miles northwest of Alice Springs, the nearest settlement, and more than 1,000 miles north of Adelaide, the nearest large city. Its skies are hot and brazen. One small water hole at present slakes the thirst for the hundred men already at the field. The supply is dribbled out by ration. Rain visits the region in only two months of the year, and then in violent thunderstorms.

Tinned food, flour and tea, but no vegetables, compose the bill of fare at the Granites. Camels, pack horses and planes convey the food from Alice Springs.

The crawling, biting flies which infest the camp are sheer torment. They drown in water cups as the men drink and attack the men's eyes at night. That means sores known as "barcoo rot."

"Blacks" Are a Menace.

The "blacks" who frequent the Granites, fearful of the "stealing" of their territory by the white men, do all in their power to make life miserable. And they are not above killing to gain their ends.

The field, as a matter of fact, has been discovered before, but always it has been able to fight off its exploiters by its dangers, its barrenness and its inaccessibility. The Laurie brothers, first finders of the field nearly 30 years ago, were attacked and driven off by the "blacks" on five occasions before they gave up. Other men have more recently left behind their bones to tell tales of defeat in their hunt for the gold secreted in the Granites.

It was also near the Granites that a prospector named Lasseter, hero of Jon L. Idriess' story, "Lasseter's Last Ride," died from thirst and starvation in 1930. His camels bolted from him just as he was nearing the rich gold reef.

Attack by Modern Methods.

The present onslaught, however, promises to be more successful, for it is distinctively modern. For the first time modern machine age methods are being employed. The expeditions, well organized, are backed by more than $4,000,000. The government has established a tent postoffice at the Granites and is boring more water holes. Emergency airports and supply bases are being established, spaced 100 miles apart between Alice Springs and the Granites. Additional planes and trucks are being pressed into service. Sluices are being completed and operated.

A stream of gold is already coming from the "diggings." Gold dust is used for money at the nearest settlements. Gold mine shares have boomed in value. Shares selling for $5 in the company which obtained the first options in the field have lately soared to $210. It is expected that within a month the number of men at the field will have mounted into the thousands. A tent city has sprung up and application has already been made for a hotel license.

Second Rush Also "On."

Another gold rush, albeit a more conservative one, is on at present to Cracow in southern Queensland, where gold lodes have been found and claims pegged out for immediate development. The greatest hope for an "El

WOMEN RECORD 265 IN HOUSE AS WET; SENATE, 55

Mrs. Sabin Predicts Beer This Session.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 13.—[Special.]—Modification of the prohibition laws at the short session of congress was predicted today by the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform on the basis of a poll of the membership of the lame duck session.

MRS. CHARLES H. SABIN.

The count, according to Mrs. Charles H. Sabin, chairman of the women's wet organization, indicated a wet strength of 55 votes in the senate and 265 votes in the house in the short session. Forty-nine votes constitute a majority in the senate and 218 is a majority in the house.

Results of the poll substantiated in actual figures the assertions made this week by wet congressional leaders that wet gains in both houses have virtually insured passage of beer legislation at the lame duck session—possibly before Christmas. From various sections of the country and from their offices in Washington wet leaders of both houses have urged modification at the short session.

Radical Drys to Fight.

At the same time evidence began to pile up that the radical diehard drys in congress will fight to the last ditch to prevent passage of beer or repeal legislation at this session.

Under the leadership of Senator William E. Borah [Had Rep., Idaho], the prohibition forces are planning an attempt to block passage of wet legislation by a senate filibuster.

Backed by the tremendous blow struck at prohibition on election and by the urgent need for new revenue, leaders of the wet forces are certain that enough votes will rally to their support to defeat any such tactics on the part of the drys.

While Mrs. Sabin declared herself inclined to believe that modification will be effected at the approaching lame duck session she felt, she said, that repeal legislation will have to await the Seventy-third congress. Passage of a resubmission amendment, she pointed out, requires a two-thirds vote in both houses.

Expects Change in Attitude.

"It is impossible to predict what we can expect from the Seventy-second congress in regard to national prohibition for the reason that these gentlemen were not elected on the prohibition plank of either party platform. However, with the great sweep of prohibition repeal from all over the country I think we can expect that many of them will climb on the band wagon and rush to become identified with the wet cause."

"In this day of economic distress and unemployment," she add "modification would help to alleviate the depression and provide much needed revenue. Pending repeal it would be a step in the right direction."

Mrs. Sabin declared her organization will not be satisfied with any wet action which does not "submit the question of straight repeal and the restoration to each state of its former power to regulate the liquor traffic without federal interference."

With this in mind, she said, her organization will continue to work and increase its membership in order to talk "to these gentlemen in the only language which they seem to understand—votes."

BROKEN MONOCLE ENDS AMERICAN'S DIPLOMATIC TILT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Nov. 13.—The new or open style of diplomacy as distinguished from the kid glove technique practiced before the war was introduced into Franco-American relations last night without any great success by Frederick Leclercy of Charleston, S. C., who spent several years with the American foreign service and the state department. The negotiations took place under the marquis of Queensbury protocol outside of a Montmartre night club. Police intervened when Leclercy sustained a fractured monocle.

According to the police, gendarmes apprehended two men who were fighting in front of the night club. One was a Frenchman, named Peres, and the other Leclercy, who declared he was a diplomat and won his release.

Leclercy told police he was not brawling, but was chastising a ruffian who had insulted his wife and had refused to offer an apology. He further declared that Peres violated the Geneva protocol by using his feet and walking on his [Leclercy's] monocle without first removing it from his face. Leclercy said Peres was assisted by two friends, who had also been insulting his wife. Leclercy has not been connected with the diplomatic service since 1929.

BOMB DAMAGES COBBLER'S SHOP IN ROGERS PARK

A black powder bomb was exploded early this morning at the front door of the shoe repair shop of Jack Golder at 7005 Glenwood avenue in Rogers Park. The blast aroused scores of residents in the Lunt avenue neighborhood and more than fifty of them left their homes and assembled at the scene. No one was injured, although Golder, his wife, and their six months old child were shaken severely and sprinkled with falling plaster. They live in the rear of the shop. The interior of the store was wrecked and the estimated damage was $1,000.

Business rivalry was advanced by Rogers Park police as the motive. Detectives Hecht and Lavin learned that when Golder opened his shop a year ago the landlord of the building was warned not to rent the place to him because there were already too many shoe repair shops in the district.

CAPTAIN OF SHIP VANISHES WHILE CRAFT IS AT SEA

San Pedro, Cal., Nov. 13.—(AP)—William Evans, chief officer of the Pacific Ranger, which arrived here today, said the captain, Alfred E. Bailey, had disappeared at sea.

Evans said Bailey was missed Oct. 31 in Mona channel in the Caribbean sea. His home was in Whitley, Yorkshire, England.

Within 20 feet of a policeman three bandits held possession of the United Air Lines ticket office at 400 South Michigan avenue for 40 minutes yesterday afternoon. They bound two employés and a third man with adhesive tape and escaped with $300 to $400.

The bandits entered singly. The first asked Allen E. Towne, manager of the office, for rates to St. Louis. He continued the conversation as the second bandit came in and engaged the attention of David Rotroff, 809 Seward street, Evanston, a clerk. The third robber followed his companions closely and approached Charles Boehm, 216 Elm street, a taxicab driver who was in the office on business.

Policeman Directs Traffic.

Out on the boulevard a south park policeman directed the heavy Sunday afternoon traffic. A steady stream of pedestrians passed by the office, which is on the first floor of the Chicago Club building at the southwest corner of Van Buren street and Michigan avenue. Suddenly the three bandits drew revolvers after eyeing the policeman. The employés were cautioned against shouting for help and were told to keep their hands at their sides so as not to attract the attention of the policeman who continued to direct traffic.

The three men were ordered to walk slowly to the washroom in the rear of the office, where they were bound.

Bandits Search for Money.

The robbers coolly removed their coats to play the rôles of the employés as they searched for money. Towne said he heard them answer inquiries from six persons, who entered.

Three persons asked when they might expect transportation to the airport. These were told, Towne said, that the automobile shuttle service maintained by the company had broken down and were advised to take taxicabs to the Chicago airport at company expense.

After a half hour the bandits fled in a sedan parked in Van Buren street. The three victims loosened their bonds a short time later and notified the South State street police.

CAPTURE 2 EX-CONVICTS

Two former cellmates in an Iowa penitentiary who came to Chicago to continue their career of crime were shot and captured early yesterday after committing a series of holdups during which one of their victims was shot and seriously wounded. Strangely the first name of all three principals is Vernon.

The robbers are Vernon Guthrie, 30 years old, 1517 North La Salle street, and Vernon Munder, 29 years old, 161 West North avenue. Their victim is Vernon Koskela, 36 years old, 1419 North La Salle street, an automobile mechanic. Koskela was shot when he resisted robbery in the hallway of his home.

Guthrie was shot in the thigh when the two ex-convicts tried to hold up the cigar store of Hubert Walton at 113 West Oak street. Munder took his wounded companion to his home and set out alone in a car they had stolen from George Wellborn, 1216 North Dearborn street. He met Koskela and shot him in the thigh when he resisted robbery.

Fleeing from this holdup Munder was pursued by Policemen Frank H. Perkins and Herbert Preston in a squad car. At Clark and Center streets Munder drove his car into a safety island and fled on foot into Lincoln park where Preston shot him. Munder was taken to the Bridewell where he confessed and implicated Guthrie who was seized in his home.

FORECAST SNOW AND COLDER FOR CHICAGO TODAY

Subfreezing temperatures and snow storms will strike Chicago and the middle west today, W. P. Day, official weather forecaster, predicted. In Chicago a shift of wind from the south west to the northwest will bring the falling temperatures, turning rain into snow.

The snowstorm, starting in the northern plains area, is expected to strike the whole middle west and upper great lake region by evening today. High winds will probably make Lake Michigan unsafe for small craft today, Mr. Day said.

WANTS PRESIDENT ELECT TO JOIN DEBT PARLEY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 13.—[Special.]—The governments of Great Britain and France today called upon the United States to agree to a reconsideration and modification of the international war debts agreements under which European powers are obligated to pay this country 11 billion dollars in principal and 10 billions in interest over the next fifty-eight years.

In formal notes so similar as to disclose joint action the two powers suggest an immediate exchange of views in Washington looking toward the arranging of an international conference, at which the whole regime of existing international financial transactions would be reviewed in the light of present day world economic conditions. Both powers asked suspension of all war debt installments, including those due Dec. 15, pending outcome of the debt discussions suggested.

BRITISH NOTE TEXT

The full text of the British note as handed to the state department follows:

"It will be remembered that on June 22, 1931, his majesty's government in the United Kingdom subscribed wholeheartedly to the principle of the proposal made by the President of the United States on the preceding day for the postponement during one year of all payments on intergovernmental debts.

"1. The object of this proposal, as stated at the time, was to relieve the pressure on the difficulties resulting from the fall in prices and lack of confidence in economic and political stability, and to assist in the reëstablishment of confidence.

"2. The hopes which were early raised by the President's initiative have unfortunately not been realized, and the economic troubles which it was designed to alleviate have not come to an end. Indeed, in October of last year, the communique published at Washington on the occasion of M. Laval's visit already recognized that prior to the expiration of the Hoover year some agreement on intergovernmental obligations may be necessary covering the period of the business depression. The initiative in this matter should be taken early by the European powers principally concerned within the framework of the agreements existing prior to July 15, 1931.' Today many thoughtful men throughout the world are convinced that if the depression is to be overcome further remedial measures must be sought.

Hold Lausanne Meeting.

"3. It was in accordance with the recommendation quoted above that in June last the European creditor powers met at Lausanne to agree on a lasting settlement of the problem created by intergovernmental payments in respect of reparations. The series of agreements reached on July 9 aims at the ultimate termination of all reparations payments. It represents the maximum contribution in the field of intergovernmental finance which the governments concerned have so far been able to make toward that early restoration of world prosperity in which the people of the United States, no less than those of the British commonwealth of nations, have so deep an interest, and for the achievement of which the coöperation of the United States is essential.

"4. On the nature of the remedial measures that may have to be adopted it is not proposed now to say more than that, in the recent past, his majesty's government in the United Kingdom have frequently expressed their view, and that neither in the realm of theory nor in that of fact are they able to find any reason for amending it.

"They believe that the régime of intergovernmental financial obligations as now existing must be reviewed. They are profoundly impressed with the importance of acting quickly; and they earnestly hope that the United States government will see its way to enter into an exchange of views at the earliest possible moment.

Object of Present Note.

"5. The immediate objective of the present note, however, is of a more limited nature. On Dec. 15 the next installment of the British war debt is due to be paid. It is not possible to hope that agreement can be achieved in five weeks on matters of

BY JOHN HERRICK.

Aboard President Hoover's Special Train, Nov. 13.—[Special.]—A precedent in the conduct of American government was set today with the transmission of a telegram from President Hoover to Gov. Roosevelt in which the outgoing executive invited his successor in office to join in devising the future policy of the United States in respect to war debts, world economic stability, and disarmament.

The President invited the President elect to meet him in a conference at Washington the latter part of this week, and to bring to the meeting the Democratic congressional leaders and party advisers who will control the conduct of the government during the coming four years.

Precipitated by Debt Note.

The telegram was prepared yesterday and was sent late last night while the President was engaged in the inspection of Boulder dam. Its text was given out today as the Hoover special train, on its way back to Washington was crossing the parched waste of the lower California desert.

In his message, the President explained that the situation had been precipitated by the recent British note of which Secretary of State Stimson had forwarded a copy.

In that note, the British government declared flatly that a revision of the present debt agreements must be made, and asked that a conference to this end be held at the earliest possible moment.

During the period of the conference, or for any other period agreed on, the President's telegram noted, the British government asked suspension of debt payments including the 95 millions due to be paid the United States on Dec. 15.

Copy Sent to Roosevelt.

The President said he had asked Secretary Stimson to transmit a full copy of the British note to Gov. Roosevelt. Then he listed other pressing factors in the debt situation. Other foreign governments, he said, were prepared to follow the British lead, one debtor nation had already defaulted: still another had already served notice of incapacity to pay.

"Thus," said President Hoover, "our government is now confronted with a world problem of major importance to this nation."

The President reviewed the negotiation of the one year moratorium and asserted that it had resulted in "very substantial progress" being made in European intergovernmental adjustments and toward reduction of armaments.

But he pointed out that in passing the moratorium resolution, congress had added a proviso declaring emphatically against cancellation or reduction of debts.

No Understandings, He Says.

The President made it clear that the United States would enter any negotiations with foreign governments unhampered by any prior discussions or understandings. He declared:

"Any commitments European governments may have made between themselves could not be based upon any assurances of the United States. Moreover, the tenor of negotiations goes beyond the terms of the congressional resolution referred to."

President Hoover outlined his own position on the debts as being one of opposition to cancellation "in any form," but with two important provisions.

As first stated in his Des Moines campaign speech he asserted that the United States should be receptive to proposals by the debtor nations to pay in increased trade opportunities for American products instead of in cash. He also linked debts and disarmament directly together. He said that a reduction of armaments and a consequent lessening of the world's burden of taxation should be given distinct consideration in taking up the debt question.

Discussions to Be Lengthy.

Any settlement of the debt problem, President Hoover declared, must be the result of protracted negotiations reaching beyond the remaining days of his administration. It must also be passed upon by the next congress which will be under Democratic control and which will be guided, the message told Gov. Roosevelt, by members "who recognize you as their leader."

"I am loath to proceed with recommendations to the congress until I can have an opportunity to confer with you personally at some convenient date in the near future."

In addition to the debts, Mr. Hoover explained, there was the question of "world economic stability." The coming international economic conference likewise will run beyond March 4. The disarmament conference is still in progress with no end yet in view.

Time of Great Importance.

"Time is of great importance in all these questions," the message concluded, "and I understand that you are planning to come through Washington some time during the latter part of next week, and I hope you will find it convenient to stop off long enough for me to advise with you. I should, of course, be only too glad to have you bring into this conference any of the Democratic congressional leaders or other advisers you may wish."

TEXT OF TELEGRAM

"The secretary of state has informed me that the British ambassador, on behalf of his government, has handed him a note stating that 'they believe that the régime of intergovernmental financial obligations as now existing must be reviewed, that they are profoundly impressed with the importance of acting quickly, and that they earnestly hope that the United States government will see its way clear to enter into an exchange of views at the earliest possible moment.'

"The British government further asks for a suspension of the payments due by the British government to our government for the period of the discussion suggested or for any other period that may be agreed upon.

"This last suggestion clearly relates to the payment of $95,000,000, which will fall due on Dec. 15, 1932. I have requested the secretary of state to transmit you a full copy of that note.

Similar Requests Coming.

"The secretary of state has also just been informed that similar requests are to be made by other debtor governments which likewise are obligated to make payments to the United States on Dec. 15 next. One debtor nation defaulted on a payment due Nov. 10, and another debtor nation served notice on our government of its incapacity to make a payment due in December. Thus our government is now confronted with a world problem of major importance to this nation.

"The moratorium which I proposed a year ago in June, that is, the year's postponement of intergovernmental debts and the spread of the deferred payment over ten years, was approved by congress.

"It served a great purpose in staying destruction in every direction and giving to Europe a year in which to realize and so modify their attitude on solely European questions as to support their credit structure from a great deal of further destruction. They have made very substantial progress during that year in financial adjustments among themselves and toward armament reduction.

Settlements Made by Commission.

"Practically all of our world war debt settlements were made not by the executive, but by the commission created by act of congress, and all were approved in the form of legislation enacted by both houses.

"A year ago in recommending to the congress ratification of the moratorium I presented a statement of my views as to the whole of the relationship of ourselves to our debtor countries and pointed out that debts to us bore no relationship to debts between other nations which grew out of the war.

"At the same time I recommended to the congress that a new debt commission be created to deal with situations that might arise owing to the temporary incapacity of any individual debtor to meet its obligations to our country during the period of world depression.

Congress Passes Resolution.

"Congress declined to accede to this latter recommendation. It passed a joint resolution reading in part as follows:

"'It is hereby expressly declared to be against the policy of the congress that any of the indebtedness of foreign countries to the United States should be in any manner canceled or reduced; and nothing in this joint resolution shall be construed as indicating a contrary policy or as implying that favorable consideration will be given at any time to a change in the policy hereby declared.'

"The limitation to purely temporary and individual action as to those incapable of payment during the depression, expressed in the communique referred to in the British note and in my recommendation to the congress, was evident in these documents.

"The refusal of the congress to authorize even the examination of this limited question, together with the above resolution, gave notice to all debtor governments of the attitude of this government toward either cancellation or reduction of existing obligations.

Made with Eyes Open.

"Therefore any commitments which European governments may have made between themselves could not be based upon any assurances of the United States. Moreover, the tenor of negotiations asked for by the debtor governments goes beyond the terms of the congressional resolution referred to.

"I have publicly stated my position as to these questions, including that I do not favor cancellation in any form, but that we should be receptive to proposals from our debtors of tangible compensation in other forms than direct payment in expansion of markets for the products of our labor and our farms. And I have stated further that substantial reduction of world armament which will relieve our own and world burdens and dangers has a bearing upon this question.

"If negotiations are to be undertaken as requested by these governments, protracted and detailed discussions would be necessary, which could not be concluded during my administration.

Limited by Congress.

"Any negotiation of this question on the basis of requests of these governments is limited by the resolution of the congress. And if there is to be any change in the attitude of the congress it will be greatly affected by the views of those members who recognize you as their leader and who will properly desire your counsel and advice. This outlines where the question stands at the present moment.

"I am prepared to deal with the subject as far as it lies in the power of the executive, but it must be our common wish to deal with this question in a constructive fashion for the common good of the country. I am loath to proceed with recommendations to the congress until I can have an opportunity to confer with you personally at some convenient date in the near future.

"There are also other important questions as to which I think an interchange of views would be in the public interest.

Need for Economic Conference

"The building of world economic stability is, of course, of the greatest importance in the building up of our recovery.

"As you know, a world economic conference will be held during the course of the coming winter. Already two American experts have met with the technical experts of other governments to prepare tentative agenda. While this conference may be begun during my administration, it is certain that it will not complete its labors until you have assumed office.

"Parallel with this, of course, is the disarmament conference in which the United States has taken a leading part. This also has a great economic purpose as well as the advancement of world peace.

"Time is of great importance in all these questions and I understand that you are planning to come through Washington some time during the latter part of next week, and I hope you will find it convenient to stop off long enough for me to advise with you.

"I should, of course, be only too glad to have you bring into this conference any of the Democratic congressional leaders or other advisers you may wish."

Roosevelt Refuses Comment on Invitation from Hoover

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 13.—[Special.]—President Elect Roosevelt was still keeping to his regimen of rest today. He denied himself to all callers and refused even to issue any comment on the invitation from President Hoover for a conference on the war debt emergency.

Although the President's invitation asking the President elect to meet him in Washington next week for a conference on "intergovernmental debts and other matters," was telegraphed to Gov. Roosevelt today from President Hoover's special train, no direct admissions could be obtained at the governor's mansion here that the message had been received. But from other sources it was learned that the governor did receive the invitation, and is debating what course he shall take in the matter.

Probably Not Welcomed.

One of the governor's advisers was of the opinion that Mr. Roosevelt would be not particularly pleased with the invitation from Mr. Hoover. He felt that Mr. Roosevelt would have preferred to have had the President thrash the debt question out with congress. In such a situation he could have exerted his influence through Democratic leaders of congress without appearing actively in the picture at this time.

Mr. Roosevelt has stated that until his inauguration he has no intention of assuming any direct effort at national authority, and it was plain that whatever actions he wishes to be taken would be directed through congressional leaders.

As to what response Mr. Roosevelt will make to the President's invitation, none of the governor's advisers was willing tonight to make any forecast. It is expected, however, that Mr. Roosevelt will send his reply promptly, probably tomorrow.

Two Views on Debts.

The President elect has been represented as desirous of having the whole debt question put over, by a temporary extension beyond the Dec. 15 due date and until after March 4, when he will be inaugurated. If this is done, he will be free, as President, to use the debt issue as a trading point in his negotiations with the foreign nations over tariff agreements.

Some of the governor's advisers, however, are stated to be of the opinion that such a trading point would not be particularly advantageous and that it would be better for Gov. Roosevelt's position if the Hoover administration negotiated a definite settlement of the debt question independently.

President Hoover's invitation indicated that he hoped Mr. Roosevelt would stop at Washington for the conference on his way from Albany to Warm Springs, Ga., his winter home. The governor has not yet fixed a definite date for his departure for Warm Springs, but tentatively he planned to go on next Sunday or Monday.

If he accepts Mr. Hoover's invitation, the extraordinary conference between the outgoing and the incoming Presidents of the United States will be held at the beginning of next week.

Gov. Roosevelt's plans called for one more day of complete rest, tomorrow, and then on Tuesday morning to plunge actively into the work of preparing the New York state budget.

Plans Two Weeks in Georgia.

Gov. Roosevelt was hopeful of getting the budget matters in such shape by Friday that he could leave for a two weeks' stay at Warm Springs, where he had planned to take up with Democratic leaders of congress the issues which will come before the short session of congress next month.

The task of making the New York state budget this year is a difficult one, because at the present time the state is running in the red almost at the rate of fifty million dollars a year, and by June, the end of the fiscal year, will have piled up a two year deficit of a hundred million dollars.

How the governor will attempt to meet this deficit, and whether he will carry out his campaign declarations favoring the balancing of all governmental budgets, is a matter arousing great interest in the state.

Hearings on the budget, in which the governor will summon department heads for conferences as to their needs for the coming year and what economies can be effected, are scheduled to commence Tuesday, and the governor has wiped everything else off his calendar for the rest of the week.

Recovers from Cold.

Mr. Roosevelt's personal secretary, Miss Marguerite Lehand, said today that the governor's recovery from his cold was complete, but that he was spending most of his time in bed, "reading newspapers and correspondence." She said the governor was determined to adhere to his original program of "keeping the lid on" until Tuesday morning, but she would not say whether a response to President Hoover's invitation would be delayed until that time.

BRITAIN, FRANCE CALL ON U. S. TO CUT WAR DEBTS

such vast scope. Confronted last summer with a similar difficulty the conference of Lausanne found it necessary, in order to allow its work to proceed undisturbed, to reserve, during the period of the conference, the execution of the payments due to the participating powers. His majesty's government in the United Kingdom hopes that a similar procedure may now be followed, and asks for a suspension of the payments due from them for the period of the discussions now suggested or for any other period that may be agreed upon.

"6. His majesty's government in the United Kingdom believes that the proposed discussions could best begin in Washington and if this suggestion meets with concurrence, they are prepared to provide me with the necessary instructions. On this point, however, as well as on the other points touched upon in the present note, they await an expression of the views of the United States government.

"I have the honor to be,

"With the highest consideration, sir,

"Your most obedient, humble servant,

VIEWS OF FRANCE

The state department announced the views of the French government were contained in a memorandum the translation of which follows:

"Paris, Nov. 10, 1932.

"Memorandum of the French government.

"The French government, seriously concerned with the effect that the problems arising from the intergovernmental debts are having on the world-wide depression, deems it of vital importance to approach the government of the United States, asking it to cooperate in examining this question in the spirit of frankness and true friendliness.

"During the months of June and July last, the governments of Europe assembled in Lausanne with a view to averting to the very best of their ability the difficulties arising from the payments which these debts entail.

"Basing its action upon the principles which were expressed in the joint communique issued on Oct. 25, 1931, by President Hoover and Mr. Laval at the conclusion of their discussions, and which were the logical development of the proposal made by the President of the United States in June, 1931, the French government, certain of being in close accord with the ideas of the American government, voluntarily agreed to very heavy sacrifices at Lausanne, hoping thereby to appease resentment existing among nations, and at the same time to make a contribution toward economic recovery and toward the consolidation of peace.

"Important as were the effects of the Lausanne conference, it must be said that the economic and financial difficulties which stand in the way of a resumption of normal relations between nations are still present, and that a further effort must be made to put an end to them in the interest of all.

Seeks Economic Recovery.

"The attitude which France displayed at Lausanne and at Stresa is proof of the active interest which she attaches to the prompt economic recovery of Europe and of the effort which she still contemplates making toward fulfilling this task. France is no less anxious to cooperate in bringing about the success of the world-wide economic and monetary conference.

"It is in this very same spirit that the French government today proposes to the government of the United States to join with it in a further study of the debt question. Inasmuch as such a study will, by virtue of the circumstances, require too much time for a speedy conclusion to appear probable, the French government asks that, in accordance with the process followed at Lausanne, an extension of the suspension of payments may be granted to the French government in order that the study of the present serious problems now under discussion may be continued and completed in the necessary atmosphere of mutual trust. The French government is further convinced that such a step would have the most helpful effect on the monetary crisis which threatens so many nations.

"Trusting in the high wisdom and the spirit of justice of the American government, the French government is convinced that its point of view will be understood and that the request contained herein will be favorably received."

Virtual Repudiation Asked.

The effect of the startling proposals was to confront the United States with a request on the part of erstwhile world war allies that this government agree to a scaling down of the 11 billion war debt to a point amounting to practical repudiation, thus transferring these debts from European to American taxpayers. It was suggested the scaling down could be done either at the approaching league economic and monetary international conference or through some other means.

Britain owes $95,500,000 Dec. 15, and France $19,261,423. The entire British debt today is four billion 398 millions and that of France 3 billion 864 millions. To date the British have paid 263 millions in principal and France 161 millions.

The sweeping character of the British-French appeal for a breakdown of American opposition to debt revision or the linking of the debts with reparations came as a jolt to congressmen in Washington awaiting the opening of congress.

In the Democratic quarters great surprise and some irritation was expressed over the fact that Great Britain and France had attempted so quickly after the election to rush President Elect Roosevelt into a decision on a question fraught with so much political dynamite.

Great Britain and France based their appeal on a commitment which they intimated had been made by President Hoover in the joint statement he issued after conferring in October, 1931, with the then Premier Laval of France. Then the President's statement read:

"The initiative in this matter should be taken early by the European powers principally concerned with in the framework of the agreements existing prior to July 15, 1931."

This was taken by the powers, it was intimated, as a hint of further arrangements during the depression.

DEBT REVISION IS URGED BY GROUP UNDER A. P. SLOAN

Al Smith Among Indorsers of Report.

New York, Nov. 13.—[Special.]—Reconsideration and revision by the United States of the war debts in a manner "as would best advance the interests of American trade and promote the prosperity of the American people" is recommended in a report made public yesterday by the committee for the consideration of intergovernmental debts headed by Alfred P. Sloan, president of the General Motors corporation.

A. P. SLOAN.

Rejecting complete cancellation as "neither an economic necessity nor a practical political possibility," the report suggests extension of the moratorium to give time for negotiations looking toward readjustment of the war debts.

Such readjustment, the report contends, is made necessary by the world situation as it has developed since the funding of the debts, the reduced capacity to pay of the debtor nations, the direct economic interests of the United States, and the destructive consequences that would accure upon failure to reach an understanding in harmony with the economic and financial factors involved.

Corollary to Lausanne Pact.

The suggested readjustment is regarded as a necessary corollary to the Lausanne agreement marking the settlement of German reparations.

The report was prepared under the auspices of the Twentieth Century fund by a group of eminent economists and endorsed before publication by 51 business, farm, and labor leaders and men prominent in political, international, and civic affairs.

Among those who endorsed the report were former Governor Alfred E. Smith, whose previously enunciated principle of war debt revision as a means of facilitating American trade, is clearly implicit in the report; Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university; George W. Wickersham, former attorney general, and James M. Cox, former Governor of Ohio.

The compilers of the report approach the question from an objective business and scientific point of view, a point of view which, they maintain, alone makes possible a realistic understanding of the problem as it affects the interests of the United States and the world in general. The economists declare that "a reasonable readjustment of intergovernmental debts promises far greater material benefits to the American people than the direct income which would be received if payment could be made in full."

"A realization of the consequences to American well being of excessive demands upon our debtors makes a reconsideration of existing debt agreements necessary," the report declares.

The positive consequences of a war debts readjustment, the economists declare, would be an increase in employment and earnings of American labor, strengthening of the security of private investments in European countries, and of foreign bonds now held by American investors and automatic increase of tax receipts accompanied by reduction of the taxation burden.

Three Recommendations.

The report makes three recommendations:

1—That the elected representatives of the American people recognize this vital and delicate problem as a nonpartisan issue to be settled strictly on its merits in the best interests of the United States.

2—That congress authorize, by the recreation of the world war foreign debt commission or otherwise, such reconsideration and readjustment of the debt funding agreements as would best redound to the economic advantage of the United States.

3—That congress extend the moratorium for a sufficient period to give time for the negotiations necessary for the proposed readjustment.

The economists who signed the report are James W. Angell of Columbia university; Ernest Minor Patterson of the University of Pennsylvania; Edwin R. A. Seligman of Columbia university; Frank W. Taussig of Harvard university; Rufus S. Tucker, consulting engineer, New York City; Jacob Viner of the University of Chicago, and John Park Young of Occidental college.

JAREKI TO LOOK INTO MANGANO, ADDUCCI BONDS

County Judge Jarecki said last night that when "Dago Lawrence" Mangano, Capone syndicate chief, and James Adducci, his lieutenant, appear before him today on election charges he will investigate the bonds on which they were released Saturday night.

The bonds were furnished by the Public Indemnity company. On Saturday Chief Justice Prystalski of the Criminal court refused to approve a bond submitted by the same company, stating that the concern had been placed on the bond black list because of a forfeiture entered against one of its clients. Judge Jarecki said yesterday that the Public Indemnity company was on the approved list of bondsmen in the County court, and that he had not heard of Judge Prystalski's action when he approved the bonds for Mangano and Adducci.

They were arrested Wednesday following the brief kidnaping of John J. Touhy Jr., son of the sanitary district trustee. Mangano was released Saturday on that charge, but arrested a few hours later on a charge of fraudulent registration. Three charges of election violations were also placed against Adducci, who was still in custody in the Touhy case.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WARSAW, Poland, Nov. 13.—Eighteen persons were killed and 17 seriously injured as a result of the walls of the Haderbusch & Schiele brewery, the largest in Poland, collapsing on an adjacent house today.

Anticipation of prohibition repeal in the United States precipitated the catastrophe. The brewery was glutted with more than 1,000 tons of barley and hops.

All tenants of the house were asleep. When victims were extricated it was found only two were killed by the masonry and 16 were suffocated by the barley.

JAIL 22 SWISS SOLDIERS; TO BE TRIED FOR MUTINY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, Nov. 13.—Twenty-two young Swiss soldiers were jailed here today to await court martial proceedings on charges of mutiny. When the soldiers were mobilized yesterday to handle the general strike which was precipitated by Wednesday's shooting of eleven civilians by recruits from a machine gun company they refused to obey their officers. The 22 are alleged to be the ringleaders of Genevese troops who threw down their rifles, broke barracks windows, sang the "Internationale" and called their commander an assassin.

Swiss authorities now claim that a communist plot is at the bottom of the turmoil in Geneva. So this afternoon the police arrected extremist leaders, whether they were involved in the riots or not. They will be expelled from the canton. If they are foreigners they will be deported together with 35 other arrested rioters. Among the latter is a 19 year old American medical student, Karl Hersheff, San Diego, Cal. He is being held in jail incommunicado on charges of insulting the Swiss army and hitting a policeman.

Although Geneva authorities are shaken over the unreliability of local troops in facing what is called here "the Red menace," they have managed to restore order by demobilizing and sending away the troops imported from the backwoods and relying solely on the capable local police.

GREEN LEAVES TODAY TO FIGHT CAPONE RELEASE

United States District Attorney Dwight H. Green will leave this morning for Atlanta to oppose attempts of counsel for Al Capone to win the gangster's freedom at habeas corpus proceedings. The hearing on the petition is set for Wednesday.

Prosecutor Green was largely responsible for the successful prosecution of the gang leader for income tax fraud. He will take all records of the case to Atlanta.

Capone is serving a 10 year sentence for tax frauds during the years 1925, 1926 and 1927. Attorneys William E. Leahy and William Hughes of Washington, representing Capone, argue that the years in question were outlawed by the statute of limitations. Government officials, who expect the habeas corpus petition to be denied, contend that the question of the statute of limitations should have been raised in a demurrer to the indictment and is not timely in the present action.

Spanish Premier Denies Seeking France as Ally

VALLADOLID, Spain, Nov. 13.—(AP)—Premier Azana denied today that Spain is seeking warlike alliances with France or other countries, in an address before several thousand of his constituents. The premier said that Spain "has an international destiny which she cannot and should not escape fulfilling."

BRITISH SILENT ON DEBT; 'NOTE SPEAKS FOR SELF'

Allies Expected to Ask for Separate Talks.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 13.—The text of the British note to the United States asking for a revision of the war debt agreements was given out in London this evening simultaneously with its release in Washington, D. C. All comment was refused, official circles declaring the note spoke for itself.

The only explanation offered for the seemingly improper haste in presenting the note two days after the American presidential election was that the debt matter was urgent and that the time for discussion before payment was due on Dec. 15 was short.

Document Expected by U. S.

There were indications, however, that the document was expected by Washington and probably was the result of informal discussions which had been going on with the American administration for some time.

No opinions were offered in authoritative circles as to how it proposed to get around the rider to the Hoover moratorium bill passed by congress forbidding further revision or extension of the debt without its consent. As congress does not meet until the beginning of December, it is difficult to see how the British can expect $50,000 falls due unless secret assurances have been received.

It is understood that the present intention of the British and other governments is to hold a series of separate conversations with the American government and that no general conference with Washington has been suggested. It might not be equally true to say that no general conference is desired, but it is believed here that such a matter is up to the American government to decide.

The line of argument, which will be followed by the British negotiators with Washington, will be that the transfer of these vast sums choke the channels of trade and are largely responsible for the economic disturbance in the world today. The volume of international trade, it will be argued, has fallen by one-half since 1929. There are 25,000,000 unemployed persons in the world, of which nearly half are in the United States, and hence it would be to America's interest to forget the debt and help get the world trade started again, the British will say.

Note Approved in France.

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, Nov. 13.—All parties in France will approve the text of the French debt note to Washington, D. C., which was published here this evening. The note exactly presents the attitude and argument which has developed here ever since the Hoover moratorium threw the mechanism of the Young plan out of operation and established a real link between German and other intergovernmental payments.

To that link another was added by the interpretation here of the Hoover-Laval communique of last October. Then followed the Lausanne conference which took the first step to suspend all payments immediately due on the expiration of the Hoover moratorium to the amount of $45,000,000 so as to permit the conference to continue the work of revising German reparations payments without the embarrasment of any pressure.

Point to Hoover's Statement.

The British and French requests to the United States are, in French opinion, a logical sequence in the forging of these links. The French also point to President Hoover's statement published June 21 of last year in which he said:

"I am sure the American people have no desire to attempt to extract any sum beyond the capacity of any debtor to pay, and it is our view that broad vision requires that our government should recognize the situation as it exists."

It is on that authoritative estimate of the American position that the French are now relying to obtain just the same postponement of imminent payments during a discussion looking towards a new settlement as they accorded Germany and other debtors at the outset of the Lausanne conference.

MRS. ROOSEVELT WILL NEED BIG TABLE FOR NEBRASKA EX-HOSTS

Waterloo, Neb., Nov. 13.—(AP)—The Gus Sumnicks, thirteen strong and "just folks," plan to visit the Franklin D. Roosevelts in Washington next summer.

And Mrs. Roosevelt, as White House hostess, will have to spread out the official linen and silverware if she expects to show this Nebraska family as good a time as she and her campaigning husband had on the Sumnick farm.

There the President elect tackled a farm cooked chicken dinner with evident satisfaction, had his soiled campaign hat covered with chaff from a threshing machine, and Mrs. Roosevelt shinned over a barbed wire fence when she found a locked gate barring her progress. The entire Roosevelt party had a most enjoyable visit when the Democratic presidential nominee paused at the farm on Sept. 29.

"Come to Washington some time as my guest," the future President entreated Gus and his white haired wife as the Roosevelts prepared to return to Omaha, twenty miles east, to catch a train.

So now, father and mother Sumnick and their eleven children—six boys, five girls—are making plans to accept the invitation.

AUTO PLUNGES IN CROWD; KILLS MARINE OFFICER

Major Frederic Kensel, Retired, Hit Leaving Ball

Maj. Frederic Kensel, 53 years old, a retired officer of the marine corps, was fatally injured by an automobile early yesterday as he was leaving a military ball in the 124th field artillery armory, at 52d street in Washington park. Police arrested the driver of the car, John Owens, 5838 Prairie avenue, a Negro, and charged he was intoxicated.

Maj. Kensel, who had been director of Sherman park for eleven years, had escorted a number of young women, members of the park sports club, to the ball. He was assisting them into an army lorry, used as a bus, which was to take them to their homes, at the time of the accident.

Drives Car Into Group.

Owens side swiped a parked car and then drove directly into the group about the truck. The young women leaped aside but Maj. Kensel was trapped. He died three hours later in the Chicago hospital.

Maj. Kensel was the son of Col. George Amos Kensel, a regular army officer and a professor at West Point. Maj. Kensel attended West Point after serving in the Spanish-American war, and was graduated in 1904. He was transferred to the marine corps shortly after his graduation and retired in 1911 after service in the Philippines and the Canal Zone. He returned to active duty during the world war, being detailed as judge advocate at Norfolk, Va.

His widow, Mrs. Betsy Clark Kensel, survives. Their home is at 5100 Cornell avenue.

Lake Forest Woman Killed.

Mrs. Helen Johns, 28 years old, of 1228 Gregory avenue, Wilmette, died last night in the St. Francis hospital, Evanston, of injuries received in an automobile collision at Main street and Central avenue, Wilmette, Wednesday night. She was in a car driven by William W. Lange of 946 Spanish court. No Man's Land, when the car was hit, police said, by the automobile of Miss Louise Burrows, 51 years old, of 550 East College road, Lake Forest. Miss Burrows was charged with reckless driving and is out on $300 bail and scheduled for court hearing Nov. 16.

Miss Burrows is a daughter of Mrs. Annie Burrows, widow of the late William F. Burrows, a Union stockyards official, and a sister of William F. Burrows of the brokerage firm of Scott, Burrows & Christie, 208 South La Salle street. She is well known in Chicago and Lake Forest club and society circles.

Celebrates Loss of Job.

Peter Christian, 32 years old, 3617 South Wells street, was discharged from his job as a garage attendant Saturday night and started out with two women to do some drinking, police said he admitted after his arrest early yesterday. He drove his automobile into a group of men repairing street car tracks at Lake and Wells streets, seriously injuring six of them.

The injured were Joseph Lutrich, 50 years old, 240 West 22nd street, fractured collar bone; Nathan Bailey, 41 years old, 3313 Calumet avenue Negro, spine injured; Nathan Hill, 31 years old, 3802 Federal street, Negro, internal injuries; John Della So, 39 years old, 7032 South Hermitage avenue, broken leg; Michael Mrdulas, 53 years old, 548 West 37th street, broken leg, and Joseph Selminale, 52 years old 2710 Lowe avenue, internal injuries. Miss Bonnie Irwin, 26 years old, 6127 St. Lawrence avenue, one of Christian's companions, was cut and bruised.

The death of Maj. Kensel and one other increased the Cook county motor death toll for 1932 to 980. The other victim:

Dee Four, 37 years old, a Negress, of 5742 Calumet avenue. Killed early this morning when an automobile in which she and three other persons were riding crashed against the side of a building in 64th street near Morgan street.

WIFE CHARGES SHOE SALESMAN WITH BIGAMY

Marc Mogi, 22 years old, of 5726 Winthrop avenue, a shoe salesman de luxe, was arrested by police yesterday as an alleged bigamist. Police said he married two women named Ruth. His first wife was Ruth Marcus and his second Ruth Schwartz, they said. He married the first Ruth in the latter part of 1931. They separated shortly afterward. He married the second Ruth last August.

Mogi is scheduled to appear in the Felony court today, and it is possible that both wives will appear against him. The bigamy complaint was signed by the second wife.

DIVORCEE PLANS FIGHT ON LOVE TANGLE CHARGE

Defends Affection for Married Professor.

Attorneys for Frau Alexandra Seldowitsch, daughter of the late Admiral Wilhelm von Rittscher of the old Russian imperial navy, are preparing their answer to a petition which was filed in the Superior court Saturday in behalf of her former husband, George Seldowitsch, of Berlin, Germany, who seeks to set aside a divorce decree which she won here on Sept. 3.

The petition charged that Prof. Vladimir N. Ipatieff, distinguished Russian refugee who is now a chemistry instructor at Northwestern university, although himself married and living with his wife in Chicago, stole the affections of Frau Seldowitsch.

Three Live Together.

The petition also charges that Mrs. Varia Ipatieff, wife of the professor, encouraged what are described as illicit relations between her husband and Frau Seldowitsch, and even encourged the latter to come to the United States and live with the couple here.

These allegations were denied Saturday and again yesterday by the professor, his wife, and Frau Seldowitsch, all of whom live together in an apartment at 190 East Pearson street.

Included in Seldowitsch's petition to have the divorce reopened are translations of several letters alleged to have been written by Frau Seldowitsch to the professor while she was in Germany. Frau Seldowitsch declared yesterday that the letters were incorrectly translated.

Calls Relation Friendship.

"All my former husband wants is money," she asserted. "He has threatened the professor before. Prof. Ipatieff and his wife and I are friends. My friendship with him is platonic. I love him and I love his wife, but I do not love him in the way my former husband intimates."

Prof. Ipatieff scoffed at Seldowitch's accusations. He pointed out that he is 63 years old, and "in love with my wife." His real love and time are for his work, he asserted. The professor said that he brought Frau Seldowitsch to Chicago in 1931 at the request of his wife who sympathized with the Russian woman's marital woes.

DIES AS AUTO HITS FREIGHT CAR.

Urbana, Ill., Nov. 13.—(AP)—Merle Dick, 28, of near Urbana, died today in a Danville hospital of a fractured skull suffered last night when his automobile plunged off a highway east of here and struck a freight car.

LAKE SHIPPERS FIGHT CANADIAN WATERWAY PACT

St. Lawrence Route Under Attack.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cleveland, O., Nov. 13.—[Special.]—First organized opposition to the treaty for joint action between the United States and Canada in development of the St. Lawrence waterway comes from the major shipping interests of the great lakes.

The Lake Carriers' association, owners of the principal freighters operating all over the lakes, with grain, ore, coal and general cargoes, has adopted resolutions through its executive committee, that will be presented to the congressional committee that will deal with the treaty.

Will Present Figures.

Figures in detail will be offered at the same time to attack the pending proposal. The resolutions assert:

"That the vessel interests represented by the Lake Carriers' association are opposed to the proposed improvement of the St. Lawrence waterway for reasons which will be compiled and presented to the congressional committee to which the proposed treaty has been referred."

"Less than five per cent of the total tonnage handled in great lakes traffic in a normal season needs an outlet to the seas," Capt. Joseph S. Wood, president of the association said in commenting on the resolution. "This being the case, there surely can be no imperative need in the immediate future for an extension of the present water transportation facilities. The saving to be effected on transportation has been exaggerated greatly and the extent this saving will go to the farmer is debatable.

Deny Saving to Farmer.

"In fact, there is an amusing angle in the claim of the proponents of the waterway to assert the farmer would save 10 cents on the bushel for grain transportation, when, as a matter of fact, the present rate from Lake Superior to Liverpool is only from 10 to 11 cents a bushel, and the saving, it is claimed, would go to the farmer.

"It would be a great mistake to commit this government to the huge expenditure that would be necessary to make the waterway possible, especially when the federal government is being urged to reduce expenditures.

"At present ocean ships clear from Montreal and the present grain rate from the Canadian head of the lakes to Montreal is 4½ cents a bushel. How are they going to save 10 cents on that rate? Besides, there are a number of foreign ships that now come through the new Welland ship canal and take their cargoes at Fort William and Port Arthur. No additional facilities are needed for those ships."

CAPITAL HEARINGS ON SEAWAY TREATY TO BEGIN TODAY

Washington, D. C., Nov. 13.—[Special.]—Senate hearings on the controversial treaty providing for joint construction of the St. Lawrence seaway for navigation and power begin tomorrow before a subcommittee of the foreign relations committee headed by Senator Borah [Rad. Rep., Idaho].

Inclusion of a section in the treaty drastically limiting the Chicago water diversion and making Lake Michigan a boundary water is expected to prove one of the major obstacles to ratification of the pact at this session of the senate. Organizations opposing the treaty have advised Senator Borah that they believe this part of the treaty should be deleted.

REDUCTIONS

In September business halted in its temporary upward swing . . . and in October . . . and to date . . . has continued to decline. The result is that the O-G Costume Bootery is heavily overstocked, simply because the supply has greatly exceeded the demand . . . due to these economic conditions.

Do not get the idea that the footwear featured in this sale is end of season styles or undesirable for any of a dozen reasons . . . because all such O-G shoes (every pair of them) were sold very recently to Wanamaker's of New York City. Therefore all O-G shoes are brand new, highly desirable and splendid examples of style and quality.

You may wonder at the words super stock. Super ordinarily means over, above or in addition to when applied to quantity . . . and it also means superior, superfine, superb and supreme when applied to quality . . . all of which fittingly describe this merchandise.

DRIVE ON TODAY FOR $7,500,000 WELFARE FUND

All County Urged to Pledge Six Months' Aid.

The public drive to raise the $7,500,000 fund that is needed as a supplementary budget to carry on the work of 99 charity organizations in Cook county this winter, begins this morning with 5,000 workers for the Emergency Welfare Fund of Cook County, Inc., starting out to solicit contributions. The fund is being raised for welfare work other than relief of the idle.

DR. GILKEY.

Contributions totaling $1,776,119 have been raised by the preliminary gifts division in the last month. Additional gifts to that division are expected to be announced at a luncheon at the Chicago club today. Unless the total equals $3,000,000, however, the drive for large gifts will be continued until that quota is reached, it was announced.

First Reports Tonight.

The first reports on the public drive will be made tonight at a dinner at the Congress hotel, by the 48 group chairmen of the trades and industries division, of which Joseph T. Ryerson is chairman. Speakers will include Robert A. Gardner, chairman of the campaign; the Rev. Charles W. Gilkey, dean of the chapel, University of Chicago; Melvin A. Traylor, president of the First National bank, and R. Douglas Stuart, president of the fund.

The 5,000 workers starting their canvass today will seek pledges from all employés and companies for a six months' period. Officials of the campaign have estimated that with $4,500,000 to be raised in the public drive the quota will be reached by the contribution of every employed person in Cook county. Payrolls in the county now total $80,000,000 a month.

Seek Aid of Corporations.

Corporations will be asked to match the donations of their employés, and individuals in the higher salary brackets will be asked to donate as much as 3 per cent of their salaries for six months, campaign officials announced.

The public drive has been divided into six sections headed by W. C. Batchelder, General Electric company; Clarence W. Sills; F. O. Hale, president, Illinois Bell Telephone company; J. L. Beven Sr., vice president of the Illinois Central system; F. H. Massmann, vice president National Tea company, and George W. Young, vice president Marshall Field & company. Under their direct supervision are the 48 group chairmen, then come 480 subchairmen and then there are 4,800 workers.

Vivian Johnson, 29 years old, 730 Barry avenue, and his wife, Harriet, 25 years old, who were arrested early yesterday by Sergt. H. G. Vance of the Wilmette police, when they tried to steal an automobile for a joy ride in front of 3107 North Clark street, were held yesterday for further investigation. Johnson was wounded in the left hand when he tried to escape. The automobile belonged to Samuel Conoscente, 3107 North Clark street, whom Sergt. Vance was visiting.

SCHOOLS TO PAY OFF '31 SALARIES IN TAX WARRANTS

Scrip to Be Exchanged Also This Week.

The school board this week will make 1931 tax anticipation warrants available to school board employés for balances due them on 1931 salaries, according to Arthur Sweitzer, assistant business manager of the board.

The total amount thus owed is $336,065. Of this amount $271,466 is owed employés who have never applied for tax warrants or scrip. Of the remaining $564,599, $78,000 is the balance due on scrip and $486,599 is due on tax anticipation warrants.

The school board generally is able to realize a certain amount of cash in the exchange of its warrants. As the smallest warrant is the $50 denomination claims which do not balance are settled by the creditor paying the difference in cash. Warrants are now quoted on the market at between 81 and 85, and school officials do not believe creditors will accept settlements where the cash difference they would have to pay amounts to more than $10.

Last spring when a similar settlement plan was used the school board took in more than $80,000 in cash, which represented the "change" returned by creditors. This money was used to pay 1932 salaries.

School Auditor Harry Brackett, said yesterday that he would ask the city controller today to withhold in the future all such "change" and apply it to 1931 bills.

King Expected to Back Coalition Rule in Iceland

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

REYKJAVIK, Iceland, Nov. 13.—King Christian X. of Denmark and Iceland is expected to approve the appointment of an Independent party member as minister of justice today, in order to maintain a coalition cabinet at least until the opening of Iceland's parliament in February. In an effort to prevent further communist disorders, which broke out last week, the government has ordered all arms and ammunition confiscated by the police.

4 JUDGES REACH RETIRING AGE IN SUPREME COURT

Roosevelt May Have Some Seats to Fill.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 13.—(AP)—Two-thirds of the members of the United States Supreme court will have become eligible for retirement by the end of the Roosevelt administration. The Democratic President-elect, during his term, may have occasion to make some court appointments.

Four justices—Van Devanter, McReynolds, Brandeis and Sutherland—are eligible for retirement now. During the next administration Chief Justice Hughes and Justice Butler will become so.

Appointed for Life.

A member of the Supreme court, although appointed for life, may retire on full pay after having reached the age of 70 and served 10 years on the federal bench.

Only congress, however, can force a justice to take off his judicial robes and then only for malfeasance in office or because of physical or mental disabilities.

Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes, the last member of the court to resign and go on the retired list, served as long as his physical strength would permit. He quit at 91.

Justice Brandeis has remained on the bench 16 years and shows no disposition to lay aside his judicial duties. Justice Van Devanter became eligible for retirement two and a half years ago, and Justice McReynolds last February. All of these are enjoying good health.

Sutherland Recently Ill.

Justice Sutherland became eligible to retire Oct. 2 and has not been in the best of health, although his physical condition is better than a year ago.

No one in the conddence of the four justices now eligible for retirement will attempt to forecast their plans.

The present membership of the court consists of five Republicans—Hughes, Van Devanter, Sutherland, Stone, and Roberts; and four Democrats—McReynolds, Brandeis, Butler, and Cardozo.

SHIPS CRASH IN NORTH SEA FOG; CREW IS SAVED

FLUSHING, Holland, Nov. 13.—(AP)—The American ship City of Alton today rescued part of the crew which abandoned the Dutch steamer Rozenburg after it collided with the Greek ship Mount Helikon in foggy North sea waters, and brought them here.

A few hours later the stricken ship was towed into Flushing roads and apparently was still afloat.

Most of the Rozenburg's crew was picked up by the Mount Helikon, which limped into Dunkirk after abandoning its voyage from Rotterdam to Buenos Aires.

The Rozenburg survivors were astonished when told their badly damaged ship was still afloat. The City of Alton had picked up the master, chief engineers and several members of the crew before daylight, a few hours after they abandoned the ship as certain to sink.

Dr. Browne Speaks

At the annual Armistice Sunday service held in historic St. James Episcopal church, Wabash avenue and Huron street, yesterday morning, the Rev. Dr. Duncan H. Browne told a congregation of 1,200 that the unique contribution of the present day is the almost universal attention given to human welfare.

Among those attending the service were Lewis Barnays, British consul, and his staff. Representatives of many military and patriotic orders were also present, including American, British, and colonial war veterans and members of the English Speaking union, American Order of St. George, and Daughters of the British Empire.

Dr. Browne, a veteran of the world war, who twice was cited for bravery, asserted that the years following the war have witnessed the birth of a new world order. In the new era, he said, national isolation will be impossible.

WINKLER IS SUED FOR $50,000 BY ROBBERY VICTIM

Gus Winkler, Capone gangster, charged with two bank robberies, who was released from the Kane county jail Friday on $40,000 bonds, is being sought again, it was learned yesterday. Charles M. Jones, cashier of the Plano State bank of Plano, which was robbed of $9,000 in December, 1930, filed a $50,000 personal injury suit against Winkler in the Kane county Circuit court on Saturday. Jones charged that he was struck over the head and seriously injured by Winkler during the Plano bank robbery.

POPE TO CONFER HIGHEST ORDER ON KING ALBERT

Fifth Knighted by Pius XI. in Order of Christ.

BY ANN SOMERS HOUSE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BRUSSELS, Belgium, Nov. 13.—Dressed in white satin knee breeches, a red coat with white broadcloth collar and cuffs, white silk stockings and a white befeathered two cornered hat, King Albert of the Belgians soon will receive the cross of the Supreme Order of Christ, which was founded to save Portugal from the Moors some 600 years ago.

KING ALBERT. [Acme Photo.]

Knighthood in the order, which is also called "the Very Noble Order of the Militia of Jesus," now is bestowed by the pope and is reserved for crowned heads, princes and chiefs of governments.

Conferred on Five Men.

Pope Pius XI. has conferred this knighthood on only five men: President Dr. Epitacio da Silva Passoa of Brazil in 1922; the late President Augusto B. Leguia of Peru in 1928, King Victor Emmanuel and Crown Prince Umberto of Italy in 1932, shortly after the reconciliation of the Vatican and the kingdom, and now King Albert, whose daughter Marie José married Umberto.

The apostolic nuncio to Belgium, Msgr. Macara, soon will carry from Rome to Brussels the precious emblem—a golden chain with a red and white cross—to confer it upon King Albert.

Back in the 14th century when armed Moors overran Spain and seemed invincible, the king of Portugal founded the Order of Christ to defend all Christendom against Islam's onslaught.

Survives in Portugal.

The Moors were driven from Spain but the order survives. Republican Portugal confers lower grades of its knighthood upon privileged sons, but oddly enough the late ex-King Manuel of Portugal was not privileged to administer the order his predecessors founded.

The highest rank of the order is conferred only by the pope. Its goal is no longer to oust Mohammedanism from Europe, but to distinguish the highest ranking knights in the service of his holiness.

DEPUTIES BLOCK ESCAPE OF 19 IN JOLIET JAIL

Find Hole Cut Through Concrete Floor.

An attempted delivery of nineteen prisoners in a cell block of the Will county jail at Joliet was frustrated yesterday by deputy sheriffs. The deputies heard scraping noises in the cell block and entered as Maurice Canfield, alias Albertson, ex-convict under indictment for murder, was lowering himself through a hole in the concrete floor into the basement of the jail.

Four other prisoners, all holdup men, were preparing to follow Canfield. The remaining prisoners were edging toward the hole.

Captives Work All Night.

From the basement the prisoners could have worked their way up toward the office of the lockup keeper. Here they might have escaped by seizing the keeper and taking his keys.

Canfield was named by the other prisoners as the leader of the plot. He had removed a bit of loose steel from the frame of his cell door. With this he attacked the crumbling floor of the cell. He worked through the night in relays with other prisoners. By morning the hole was large enough for a man to pass through.

Awaiting Trial for Murder.

Canfield was arrested in Chicago on Oct. 24 when he and two companions were caught removing two suitcases from an automobile. Records at the detective bureau revealed he was wanted in Joliet for the murder of George Saunders, 55 years old of Minneapolis. Saunders was killed for the $206 he carried, and his body was flung into the Illinois-Michigan canal near Channahon.

After the body was discovered, Claire Lyngen was arrested in Chicago. He confessed to a part in the holdup, but named Canfield and Canfield's brother, Lawrence, a beer flat owner, as the killers. Lawrence Canfield, who was arrested later, named his brother as the slayer. Lyngen and Lawrence Canfield are serving sentences in the Joliet penitentiary.

'DOCTOR' JAILED AFTER RAID ON ABORTION MILL

Secretary Tells of Dozen Operations in Month.

"Doctor" Armin L. Kruetzer, 44 years old, was arrested yesterday in an expensive residence at Winthrop Harbor, just south of the Wisconsin state line, and charged by State's Attorney A. V. Smith of Lake county with operating an abortion mill there under the name of the Harbor View Maternity home.

Two women patients were in the place. It was raided at the request of Milwaukee authorities who informed Col. Smith that John Bolish of 608 Somers avenue, Cudahy, a Milwaukee suburb, had accused Kruetzer of performing an operation on his wife, Anna, at the Winthrop Harbor house. Mrs. Bolish was reported in a serious condition at a Milwaukee hospital.

Kruetzer was released from the Milwaukee workhouse six weeks ago, after serving an eighteen months' sentence for the same offense. He also has been prosecuted several times in Milwaukee for practicing medicine without a license, Col. Smith was told by Police Chief John Medrow of Cudahy, who participated in the Winthrop Harbor raid.

"Doctor" a Veterinarian.

Kruetzer formerly was a veterinary surgeon, Medrow said. He was arraigned yesterday before Justice of the Peace Harold J. Tallett at North Chicago and committed to the county jail at Waukegan in default of a $20,000 bond.

Eleanor Panelli, 1654 North 5th street, Milwaukee, was found in the Winthrop Harbor establishment when it was raided. She made a statement to Col. Smith, stating that she was Kruetzer's secretary. He arranged to buy the house a month ago, she said, for $50,000. During the month, she said, he performed criminal operations on a dozen or more women whom he brought there from Milwaukee.

The two patients found in the place were Mrs. Charlotte Freckl, 3252 South Austin street, Milwaukee, who was sent to a hospital in that city, and Mrs. Katherine Mogay, 113 West Dewey place, Milwaukee. Mrs. Mogay, who is soon to become a mother, told State's Attorney Smith that Kruetzer had promised to deliver her child and "give it away." She and her husband are too poor to care for a baby, she said.

Milwaukee authorities said they understand that Kruetzer has a number of men and women soliciting patients for him in that city and its suburbs. Warrants for the arrest of these people probably will be issued this week, they said.

They also charged that Kruetzer maintained a branch of his Winthrop Harbor establishment in Cudahy. His patients were sent there and later transferred to Winthrop Harbor by bus, it is charged.

M. J. RENCH KILLS HIMSELF DESPITE DAUGHTER'S PLEA

Martin J. Rench, 42 years old, a former trustee of the village of Stickney, shot and killed himself last night in his Stickney home at 7124 West 40th place. A few minutes earlier his daughter, Aldina, 18 years old, had disarmed him and then had returned his revolver to him on his promise not to use it.

Rench, a brother of Anton Rench, former mayor and chief of police of Stickney, returned home at dinner time last night. His wife, Josephine, was out visiting friends, and this appeared to worry him. Josephine, he told his children, "doesn't love me any more and I have a notion to shoot myself." Then he got a revolver.

Aldina took the gun away from him and threw it into the yard. Later Rench calmed down and asked his daughter to retrieve the gun she had thrown away so he could put it back in his room. She did so and handed the weapon to him. He ran into his bedroom and fired a shot into his head after locking the door.

WM. S. BROCK, NOTED AVIATOR, TAKEN BY DEATH

William S. Brock, aviator, who in 1927 attempted a flight around the world, died at the Presbyterian hospital last night after an illness of several months. He entered the hospital on Sept. 23 for treatment for cancer. He was 36 years old and lived at 6437 Kimbark avenue.

At Mr. Brock's bedside were his wife, Mrs. Dolly Brock; his stepfather, Augustus Campeau of West Liberty, O., and his physician, Dr. James B. Eyerly. News of his death was given immediately to aviation veterans in Chicago and it was later announced by Capt. Homer Berry that all ocean flyers would be asked to attend the funeral services at Holy Name cathedral. The services will be held probably on Wednesday.

Enters Aviation at 16.

Mr. Brock was born in Gladstone, O. When he was 16 years old he took up aviation. During the war he became a civilian flying instructor, and was later commissioned a lieutenant. From 1925 until 1927, when he and Edward F. Schlee attempted their world flight, he served in the air mail service.

Their flight was one of the most ambitious in aviation records. They started out in their plane, the Pride of Detroit, on Aug. 27, 1927, from Harbor Grace, Newfoundland. They crossed the Atlantic to London, then flew over Germany, Turkey, India, and China to Tokio, Japan. They abandoned their scheduled flight from Tokio across the Pacific at the pleas of friends and returned to the United States by steamer.

Set Cross-Country Record.

In 1930 Brock and Schlee established a new record for the round trip flight across the country, traveling from Jacksonville, Fla., to San Diego, Cal., and back again in 31 hours and 55 minutes. In 1931 Mr. Brock came to Chicago as pilot for George F. Harding.

Surviving Mr. Brock beside his widow and his stepfather are his mother, Mrs. Helen Campeau, who is an invalid at West Liberty; a daughter, June, 11 years old; a son by a former marriage, William S. Brock Jr., 16 years old; and a brother, Foster Brock. Mr. Brock was a member of several aviation organizations, among them the Aviation post of the American Legion, the Early Birds, and the Quiet Birdmen.

BOY SHOT BY PLAYMATE.

Edward Duoba, 15 years old, 3590 Parnell avenue, suffered a scalp wound yesterday when he was accidentally shot by Daniel O'Malley, 16 years old, 3550 Parnell avenue, as the boys were playing with a .22 caliber revolver in the basement of the O'Malley home.

WIGAN, England, Nov. 13.—(AP)—Bodies of 25 miners had been removed tonight from the Edgegreen colliery at Ashton-in-Makerfield. An explosion early yesterday wrecked their pit and trapped them under debris.

Army Flyer Is Killed; Plane Hits Power Line

San Antonio, Tex., Nov. 13.—Lieut. Walter Andrew Oglesby, 23, of the 8th attack squadron, Fort Crockett, was killed by the crash of his plane into a high tension power line about five miles from Randolph field today.

9 STATES STUDY METHOD TO FREE DRY LAW VICTIMS

Imprisoned for Deeds No Longer Criminal.

New York, Nov. 13.—[Special.]—Nine states in which the voters last Tuesday eliminated state dry laws from their criminal codes are struggling this week with the problem of what to do with men and women serving time for a deed no longer considered a crime. The states are meeting the problem in a varied manner, a survey reveals.

In Michigan, once most severe in its punishment of liquor violators, the Democratic governor elect has announced his intention to grant general amnesty to the 297 prisoners, 23 of them women, now behind the bars of its penitentiaries for liquor felonies.

Arizona intends to do the same with its much smaller number in county jails.

California's laws prevent Gov. James Rolph Jr. from following the idea of a general amnesty to the 1,000 dry act violators in his state and he now plans to grant individual pardons. The fate of New Jersey's sole prohibition prisoner in the Trenton penitentiary—Giuseppe Calizze—will be decided next week.

Uncertain as to Policy.

Washington and North Dakota have not yet been able to decide on a policy, but Colorado has turned thumbs down on either general amnesty or wholesale pardons. Prisoners there will be released as soon as eligible for parole.

While the nine states are struggling with the immediate problem prisoners convicted under state law various organizations have started a campaign to free federal prisoners. Latest figures show there are approximately 21,000 persons confined by the federal government for liquor law violations.

Rogers Park Appeal.

An appeal to President Elect Roosevelt was made last night by telegram from the Rogers Park Civic league of Chicago, pleading for presidential pardons for all federal prisoners convicted because they were found with liquor in their possession.

"These persons cannot be deemed criminals insofar as an extent to wrong society is concerned," Roosevelt was told in the wire.

The legal problems raised in the states which have found their dry laws removed, and their dry prisoners still confined, has resulted in a private exchange of views among the legal chiefs of several states.

The Arizona board of pardons and paroles, of which the attorney general is a member, summed up its attitude with the question:

"How can we hold a man prisoner if the people of the state vote that the offense for which he was convicted was not a crime?"

Most noted of Michigan's liquor law violators was Mrs. Etta Mae Miller of Lansing, mother of twelve children, who was sentenced to life imprisonment for a fourth liquor offense under the habitual criminal law. Later the law was changed and her sentence was commuted to 7½ to 15 years. Mrs. Miller was freed two years ago.

Two other Michigan dry law cases were those of Fred Palm of Lansing and Tony Popiss of Manistique. Both were sentenced to life as fourth offenders. Their sentences were later commuted to from 7½ to 15 years.

COUPLE ROBBED BY TWO GUNMEN.

Two Negro gunmen forced the automobile of Benjamin Slotnick, 1519 Washington boulevard, Maywood, to the curb at Washington boulevard and Hermitage avenue early yesterday and robbed Slotnick of $37 and his wife of a fur coat valued at $1,000.

NAB GANGSTERS' KIN IN DRIVE ON GLASS SMASHERS

Three men were arrested by Des Plaines street police last night for questioning about recent window smashings. They are Joseph Catuara, 27 years old, of 2540 Emerald avenue, said to be a chauffeur for James Belcastro, public enemy and alleged bomber; George Fanelli, 25 years old, of 1011 Polk street, brother of Rocco Fanelli, hoodlum, and brother-in-law of Belcastro, and William Morrotti, 24 years old, of 907 Lytle street. They were arrested in Morrotti's car by Detectives Roger L. Powers and Frank McCormick.

Three other youths suspected of smashing a window were arrested last night at 67th street and Artesian avenue by Policeman James Gorman of the South Park force. They are Joe Ulberkis, 23 years old, 7019 Rockwell street, Zigmund Valentenas, 18, of 6919 South Talman avenue, and Bruno Baltius, 20, of 2607 West 69th street. Policeman Gorman charged that the trio broke a large display window in the market of Victor Patkus at 2500 West 69th street.

Legs Paralyzed, Man Burns to Death in Home

Altoona, Pa., Nov. 13.—(AP)—Paralyzed below the hips, Patrick Carrig, 68, of Dogtown, burned to death as fire destroyed his home late today, powerless to leave the flaming building. Carrig, an invalid since suffering mine fever eight years ago, was alone in the house as a stove exploded, causing the fire.

Goes on Trial Wednesday for Nick Coin Slaying

Davenport, Ia., Nov. 13.—[Special.]—Twenty-two state witnesses will be called to testify in the trial of Louis Spridgen of Muscatine, charged with the murder of Nick Coin, tri-city liquor dealer. Coin was slain here May 25 last. The trial will start Wednesday.

COLORADO RIVER IS HARNESSED BY ENGINEERS

Boulder City, Nev., Nov. 13.—(AP)—The muddy waters of the mighty Colorado river were turned through a hole in one of its mile high canyon walls today—a man-made hole burrowed in one year to remove the river from the bed it has been carving deeper, year by year, for ages.

The diversion of the river is the first step in the $165,000,000 project to harness it definitely, through the construction of the Boulder dam, to work for the good of man.

Turned from its "grand canyon" through a black hole in the Arizona wall—a bore 50 feet in diameter—by a blast of dynamite at 11:30 this morning, the river plunged underground to skirt the site of the greatest dam ever planned by man, to permit excavation, first, for the dam foundation and, later, its construction.

As the waters surged into the tunnel to a five-foot depth, great power shovels bit away the debris from the blast and hurled it into the river bed.

Other big steam shovels were on the trestle bridge across the river busily engaged in completing an earthfill dam so all of the flow would be forced into the diversion tunnel.

Thus, after a year's work, the engineers will succeed in turning the river from its bed for nearly a mile, pipe lining it through the canyon walls entirely around the dam site.

CENTRAL WEST DEMOCRATS TO WORK FOR UNITY

Map Four Year Program of Co-operation.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

French Lick Springs, Ind., Nov. 13.—[Special.]—Big plans on a four year scale began to take form here today at the most important Democratic post election conference held in this section of the country in many years.

The ultimate goal is close association of Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Wisconsin and possibly other neighboring states in Democratic party affairs that will make the central west a power four years from now and possibly many years thereafter not only in party business but in national business.

There is even a possibility that efforts will be made to bring Kentucky into the midwest federation. Urey Woodson, for sixteen years Kentucky's member of the national committee and for eight years secretary of the committee, was among the arrivals today. He was much pleased with the project outlined to him and indicated he would "talk it up" when he returns to his editorial office in Owensboro.

Want Section Recognized.

The immediate aim is recognition of this section by the incoming administration as the result of cooperation among these states. The initial step has been taken by a reapproachment between the current conference of Illinois leaders and a meeting of Indiana chieftains which is just starting.

But even without waiting for the arrival of other Hoosier leaders, the way for united action has been opened by preliminary talks between Mayor Cermak of Chicago, national committeeman for Illinois, who is considered the most powerful Democrat in that state, and T. D. Taggart, known as "Young Tom," national committeeman for Indiana who brought order out of chaos among the Democrats of his state this year.

A specific subject already under consideration is the desire of the Illinois group for the appointment of Bruce A. Campbell of East St. Louis, as attorney general of the United States. There has been no commitment in advance of the Indiana pow-wow by Taggart who, as the owner of the big Springs hotel has had daily contact with the Illinoisans, but the proposal of Campbell's name has started a definite movement on his behalf.

Labors for Roosevelt.

He ran for the governorship in the primary last April but after Judge Henry Horner won the nomination he came right back into regular organization harness, became the downstate campaign manager, and was given much of the credit for Roosevelt's sweeping victoriously through that normally Republican territory.

There also has been some talk of a federal place for Michael L. Igoe, another primary candidate for the governorship, but this has not taken definite form. Igoe arrived here today and was closeted with Mayor Cermak for some time.

Illustrative of the national scale contemplated for the operations of the middle western Democrats henceforward is the fact that Edward J. Kelly, president of the Chicago South Park board, has been in the east for several days gathering information concerning the country-wide situation and resuming connections established during the national convention last June.

Symptomatic of the situation this year it has been pointed out is the difference of atmosphere between this conference and those former years. This meeting of the leaders has had almost none of the old jollification character of its predecessors. The first and almost exclusive business for three days has been the discussion of ways and means of reducing the cost of government. It has been a business round up and not so much a celebration, although the victory was the biggest in the history of the state.

NEW YORK RATES FOR TAXIS FIXED AT 30C FIRST MILE

New York, Nov. 13.—[Special.]—The board of taxicab control made public today the governing code for the industry in the city, to go into effect on Dec. 15 of this year. The board in one short paragraph eliminated the high rate cabs and substituted as the maximum rate the "fifteen and five" rate now charged by most of the city's taxis. The rules on rates make the maximum charge thirty cents for the first mile, and twenty cents thereafter; five cents for each two minutes of waiting time; one dollar for each trunk, and no charge for hand baggage. Another provision prohibits the use of taxis for expressage. Rates may not be changed without the consent of the board.

KILLS HIS BROTHER.

NEW YORK POLICE HOLD SUSPECT IN CHICAGO KILLING

Harry Severino, 21 years old, was held by the New York police yesterday as a suspect in the slaying of Policeman Martin Knudson of the Austin station in a gun fight with bandits last February.

At the request of Chief of Detectives William Schoemaker, Chief Inspector John O'Brien of the New York force ordered Severino held for extradition. The youth was arrested several days ago for questioning about a $2,800 New York robbery.

The slaying for which Severino will be returned occurred in a garage in the rear of 856 North Trumbull avenue when three gunmen tried to hold up officials of a newspaper circulation agency. Policeman Knudson defied the hoodlums and shot it out. He was killed, but not until after he had fatally wounded one of the robbers. This man was later identified as James J. Stewart, 18 years old. Lieut. Maurice Byrne of the Austin station said last night that the arrest of the third bandit is expected soon.

MIDWEST TRADE TO PROTEST U. S. RIVALRY TODAY

Shannon Committee Opens Midwest Hearing.

A demand that the government get out of business wherever it is in unfair competition with private industry will be made today before a congressional committee which begins a three-day hearing at the Palmer house. Announcement to this effect was made yesterday by the Illinois Manufacturers' association through its counsel, David R. Clarke.

The committee consists of Congressmen Joseph B. Shannon of Kansas City, Mo., chairman; E. E. Cox of Georgia, Samuel B. Pettengill of Indiana, William H. Stafford of Wisconsin, and Robert F. Rich of Pennsylvania. It will hear the testimony and complaints of the merchants and manufacturers of the middle west who object to federal rivalry in trade.

Compete in 106 Lines.

In hearings held by the committee in other cities it has been disclosed that the national government engages in the sale of many commodities and that in at least 106 lines of endeavor the federal army of bureaucrats are competitors of merchants, manufacturers and professional men and women.

"We are going to point out," said Mr. Clarke, "that the unemployment situation in this state is one of our most vital problems and that our national government has a large share of responsibility for this condition through government distribution and production of materials.

"We know that the government distributes manufactured articles without regard to the actual cost of manufacture, a method which causes increased taxes."

Instances were cited yesterday by the Illinois Manufacturers' association where the government is able to undersell private enterprise because of convict labor in production, the use of government employes in distribution and the use of government funds in advertising. All of these costs come from budget items apparently intended for other purposes.

Business Needs Legitimate Field.

"We are going to ask that the government officials be forced to disclose all the figures regarding government ventures into private business, and wherever such an invasion of manufacture and commerce cannot be justified, to discontinue it," Attorney Clarke said.

"Some of the commodities in which our Illinois industries must compete with the government are gunpowder, small arms, tents, awnings, clothing, shoes, paint, varnishes, steel castings, blue print paper, printing and binding, distribution of envelopes and many others.

Evidence of Losses.

"The government has the evidence of the losses it must incur in this unfair competition. It is difficult for us to produce this specific evidence, so we will ask the committee to uncover the information, and then to take the proper steps to relieve us from this government encroachment."

A dispatch from New York last night stated that opposition to further operation of the Panama railroad steamship line by the government, its owner, would be voiced before the Shannon committee today by the American Steamship Owners' association. The association arguments will be presented by R. J. Baker, executive secretary, and others.

Shannon Knows Plight.

Congressman Shannon, chairman of the committee, is known to be in sympathy with this plight of industry and commerce.

Hearings already have been held in Kansas City and South Bend. At the present hearing opportunity is to be afforded to all industries to cite the extent of the competition they are meeting from the government.

NEGRO PHYSICIAN ATTACKS DIVORCE BY FOLLIES GIRL

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 13.—[Special.]—Helen Lee Worthing, former Follies beauty, is scheduled to appear before Superior Judge Thomas Gould tomorrow morning in connection with the legal attempt of her ex-husband, Dr. Eugene C. Nelson, Negro physician, to set aside the divorce she obtained from him last year. If successful he plans to press a plea to have the marriage annulled.

Miss Worthing went before Superior Judge Dudley Valentine and won a divorce and an award of $200 a month alimony.

Dr. Nelson now seeks to have the decree set aside and the marriage annulled on the grounds that the residential requirements of the Mexican law were not complied with at the time their ceremony was performed in Tia Juana, June 28, 1927.

HASTE DEFEATS JUSTICE, COURT RECORDS SHOW

Probations Increase When Trials Are Hurried.

When cases in the Criminal courts are speeded up to the maximum, criminals' chances of getting out on probation instead of going to prison are increased. This was revealed in statistics made available yesterday by Chief Justice John Prystalski of the Criminal court. The figures show that Judge Prystalski and his five associate judges during the month of October performed more work than was done during the same period in the preceding year.

JUDGE PRYSTALSKI.

The marked difference in the quality of justice is shown by a comparison of statistics for the months of September and October in the number of cases disposed of and the number of probations granted. The comparative statistics for the months of September, 1931, and September, 1932, also indicate that when the judges rush through cases they grant more probations.

Result of Haste Shown.

For instance, during last September when the judges disposed of only 316 cases, probations were granted in approximately one out of every nine cases. During October, when the judges disposed of cases faster than the grand jury could return indictments, the statistics show that one defendant was granted probation in about every seven cases.

In September, 1931, when the judges then in the Criminal court disposed of 394 indictments, which is considered a large number, the chances of probation were also better, the figures show. During that period 73 probations were allowed, on approximately one in every fifth case.

The quality of justice in the Criminal courts was the subject of conversation among the court attachés during September, 1932. This was when Judge Prystalski took over the chief justiceship. Statistics were not available yesterday, but veteran probation officers and court attachés remarked that probations were comparatively few in that month, and that waivers of charges in favor of other charges carrying lighter punishments were also not so common.

Sentenced for Crime Charged.

"During that month, if a man was charged with robbery and was sentenced to the penitentiary, he invariably was sentenced for the crime charged," said one probation officer. "It is true that in many cases the gun count was dropped, but that is all. This made a difference only in the maximum punishment possible, reducing it from life imprisonment to 20 years. The minimum in both charges is the same—one year."

It was pointed out that before this a common practice was to change robbery charges to larceny, which carried a 1 to 10 year prison sentence. This practice was also more prevalent, it was pointed out, during the recently concluded October term of court when the judges disposed of 501 indictments while the grand jury was returning 394 new indictments. The disposition of indictments during the October term is believed to be a court record.

Two Months Compared.

The effect of speed on justice is shown by a comparison of statistics for the months of September, 1931, and September, 1932. The penitentiary and Pontiac reformatory sentences were more numerous and more severe when justice moved more slowly. Although the sentences show an increase in number in October, 1932, because of the increased number of cases tried, the years of imprisonment imposed were much less. The following table shows the number of cases tried, the sentences imposed, and the probations granted in the three months:

	Sept., 1931.	Sept., 1932.	Oct., 1932.
Cases tried	394	316	501
Penitentiary	34	72	66
Pontiac	27	41	76
Bridewell	56	64	83
Probations	73	58	73

"The answer is that more judges should be placed in the Criminal court and cases should be disposed of more painstakingly," said one official. "Speedy punishment is one of the best deterrents of crime known, but the punishment should be not only speedy but commensurate with the crime."

NO PHYSICAL TYPE OF 'SOUTHERN GIRL,' SCIENTIST ASSERTS

New Orleans, La., Nov. 13.—(AP)—Science has shattered another treasured illusion of the southland. Romancers who praised the "southern type" of woman will be surprised to learn that, physically, there is no such type. Dr. Harley Gould, biology instructor at Newcomb college in New Orleans, dispelled the glamorous belief after an exhaustive study of representative types on the college campus.

"If we could stand together, side by side, the average girl of old southern ancestry and the average girl of about the same age from general old American ancestry, most of their body measurements would be as much alike as if they were identical twins," he explained.

The only possible way to identify the traditional "southern" woman would be by "what she said or did, and not because of what she looked like," he said.

"There are, however, some differences between the southern girl and the average American girl," he said.

"The southern girls are more slender, weighing on the average nearly six pounds less for the same height. Their chests are smaller and flatter, and their hands are a little narower in proportion to their length. These are probably environmental differences. The smaller chest denotes, perhaps, the less active life, and the narrower hand less useful labor."

Dr. Gould brought out the yardstick and scales and applied them to several hundred co-eds of representative southern ancestry. He then compared his findings with the measurements and weights of the average American girl as reported by Dr. Ales Hrdlicka, anthropologist of the Smithsonian institution.

AUSTRALIA FINDS RICH GOLD REEF; SCRAMBLE IS ON

Should these hopes be realized, the Granites will go down as one of three great gold discoveries in Australian history. The first was at Ballarat in 1849 and the second at Coolgardie in western Australia in 1894. Both, incidentally, came during years of depression.

It is held entirely possible that successful development of the Granites will be the means of opening up much of the interior of Australia to civilization, as happened in the west, where Victoria once subsisted solely on its gold production. Much of Central Australia, which is the southern half of Northern territory, is not unlike Texas and conceivably could be converted into cattle lands.

Region "Browns" Quickly.

During the two months of rain central Australia is not such a forbidding place. The water holes fill up, the spinifex greens, birds swarm around, kangaroos appear and emus come stalking about. Soon, however, the ground browns again and the water swiftly passes away.

At present Northern territory is the most "man forsaken" area in Australia. It has only 4,772 inhabitants on its 523,620 square miles, and the males outnumber the females by nearly 2 to 1. In 1929 there were only 20 marriages, and the deaths exceeded the 53 births by 12.

Australia's total gold production in 1929 was valued at $8,879,535, of which $7,796,920 worth came from west Australia. The United States in that year produced gold valued at $42,514,300.

(Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.)

PARIS, Nov. 13.—In spite of the economic depression, the sharp reduction in the number of tourists during the past year and the high cost of living in France, the French people seem to be able to continue to practice their traditional economy. At a trade banquet of shopkeepers of Les Grands boulevards today Minister of Labor Albert Dalimier said that since the first of January this year deposits in savings banks had exceeded withdrawals by 2,900,000,000 francs ($113,680,000).

Meat Dealers' Official and Two Aids Arrested

Patrick Sullivan, 61 years old, business secretary of the Meat Dealers' association, and two employés, Jerry Cronin, 30, of 6307 Wentworth avenue, and John W. Riley, 28, of 6512 Harvard avenue, were arrested yesterday on charges of assault to murder. The complaint was signed by Stephen Fisher, of 2559 Throop street, a wholesale meat dealer. Fisher charged that Sullivan had tried to induce him to join the Meat Dealers' association and that he was beaten after he refused.

DEPRESSION ACTS TO SAVE MILLIONS FOR DRAIN BOARD

Lower Labor and Material Cost Aid Taxpayers.

The financial stringency which has retarded progress of the sanitary district's 10 year sewage disposal program may be indirectly responsible for saving taxpayers of the district more than $33,000,000, President Thomas J. Bowler said yesterday.

On the basis of 1929 estimates $169,052,000 must be spent on sewage projects to comply with the decree of the United States Supreme court. But virtually nothing has been done since last January for want of cash.

On the basis of declining cost of labor and materials, a new estimate completed last month now puts the total cost for the remaining work at $145,540,000, a reduction of $23,512,000.

As a result of experiments with a new type of sewage disposal, according to Mr. Bowler, additional savings of $9,775,000 may be made on the remaining work. This would make a total saving of $33,000,000 as compared with the 1929 estimates.

"The complaint of Wisconsin, Minnesota, Ohio, and Michigan now pending before the United States Supreme court charging us with violation of the decree has no foundation in fact," Mr. Bowler said. "To begin with we are not actually behind in our program.

"We have asked the Reconstruction Finance corporation for $36,450,000 for this work. That would carry our program through 1934. If we get it within a reasonable time the district will still be able to complete its construction program by December, 1938, as the decree requires."

Under the reduced estimate on work yet to be done the total of $145,540,000 is allocated as follows:

Calumet project	$ 12,775,000
North side project	5,500,000
Southwest side project	64,104,000
West side project	51,961,000
Chicago river controlling work and miscellaneous	11,200,000
Total	$145,540,000

From this total, $9,775,000 is to be deducted as saving on the new incineration process, thus reducing the total estimated cost from $169,000,000 to $135,540,000.

NAZIS INCREASE SEATS IN GERMAN TOWN ELECTIONS

BERLIN, Nov. 13.—(AP)—Adolf Hitler's Nazi party captured three communal elections today, in Saxony, Lusebeck, and the Saar. Apparently undaunted by last Sunday's unfavorable reichstag election, the Nazis showed great strength in all three of today's elections and increased their representatives by large majorities.

In Leipzig the Hitlerites captured 18 seats in the commune as compared with three in the last elections held in 1929. In Dresden they won 22 seats as compared with four in 1929 and in six other Saxon towns the results were similar.

In the Luebeck house of burgesses the Nazis increased their seats to 27 from 8. While the Social-Democrat party lost all along the line it still holds the upper hand in Luebeck. The Nazis won eight seats in Saarbrucken. They had only one from 1929 to today. Only 60 per cent of the voters went to the polls in the Saar.

U. S. HIRES GREEK LAWYERS TO AID IN INSULL CASE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ATHENS, Greece, Nov. 13.—Samuel Insull's entanglement with the state of Illinois on charges of larceny and embezzlement in connection with the collapse of his Chicago utilities empire appears to be entering a new phase. The American legation was reported to have engaged two Greek lawyers to aid in handling the case.

Andrew J. Vlachos and Charles A. Bellows, the assistant state's attorneys of Cook county who are en route to Athens to expedite extradition proceedings against Insull, arrived in Italy on Friday. At the American legation here it was said that no official notification had been received about the coming of Bellows and Vlachos. The legation understands that the warrant and sustaining documents required to proceed with the extradition hearing against Insull have not yet been dispatched from the United States.

Insull, who is under police guard at Aretaieon clinic, did not appear interested in the arrival of Vlachos and Bellows, but he was interested in the reports he receive quoting State's Attorney John A. Swanson's successor, Thomas J. Courtney, as saying that "he would proceed against the Insulls if he found that they had broken the laws." Insull whiles away his time in his hospital room by voluminous reading. He appears cheerful and vigorous.

Ask Aid of Italy.

ROME, Nov. 13.—(AP)—Confident that extradition proceedings in Athens will turn in their favor, Charles A. Bellows and Andrew J. Vlachos, assistant state's attorneys of Chicago, arrived here today to ask the Italian government's cooperation in the transportation of Samuel Insull to Chicago. The attorneys said they believed it might be necessary to touch Italian ports on their way from Greece or to travel in an Italian boat and they wanted to make sure that no complications would develop.

CALL INSULL JR. TOMORROW FOR QUIZ ON ASSETS

Samuel Insull Jr., former president of the bankrupt Insull Utility Investments, Inc., is to be notified today to appear as a witness tomorrow before Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley, before whom an examination is being conducted to disclose assets of the company.

Attorney Harold F. White, who with Attorney Lewis F. Jacobson is conducting the examination in behalf of investors, said he expected that Insull would be on the witness stand most of the day.

RUSSIA ACCUSES BRITISH OF PLOT TO INJURE STALIN

Says They Will Charge He Directed 'Hunger March.'

MOSCOW, Nov. 13.—(AP)—Izvestia, organ of the central executive committee of the soviet republic, today published accusations that the British intelligence service plans to fake "proof" that Josef Stalin directed the London "hunger march" and is organizing a civil war in India.

The newspaper asserted that the recent breaking of the Anglo-soviet trade agreement by the British government "opened all flood gates for anti-soviet propaganda" and that British leaders hoped to dissuade the United States from taking action to improve its relations with soviet Russia. The paper said:

"A fact which we shall not deny is that Stalin is not only the leader of the soviet proletariat but that scores of millions of workers and peasants throughout the world see in him their leader. Can this mean, however, that Stalin is therefore responsible for the closing of Ford's plants and the bankruptcy of Samuel Insull or for the expulsion of the British textile industry from the Indian market by Japanese competition?"

"Conclusion Is Delirum."

It added "such a conclusion is the delirium which the British intelligence service is able to present the British foreign office only in the hope of purposeful gullibility."

A report by the London Izvestia correspondent was published stating the British intelligence service, in preparation for parliamentary interpellations against the soviet government, ordered its agents in Riga, Latvia, this month "to fabricate documents and materials testifying that the comintern [the third internationale], under the personal direction of Stalin, organized the unemployed movement in England and an impending civil war in India."

An accompanying editorial said:

"When the British government denounced the Anglo-soviet trade agreement, any observer of international life shou ldhave asked himself, 'Is this act only an attempt to artificially 'improve' the Anglo-soviet trade balance, is it only a factor in the struggle between British and American imperialism for Canada or should this be regarded in a broader plan?'

Anti-Soviet Propaganda.

"It was clear the British government's act not only opened all floodgates for anti-soviet propaganda but gave an impetus to resume anti-soviet activity to all those elements which constantly are seeking to aggravate Anglo-soviet relations and which were forced temporarily to lie low."

It said the telegram from the London correspondent "indicates our old acquaintances from the British intelligence service, the same who managed to publish in London in 1919 a forged issue of Pravda [Communist party organ], who supplied Lord Kerson with forgeries fabricated in Berlin by Baron Iscule, who in 1924 'dynamited' MacDonald's government by the famous forgery manufactured by the White Guard, Drujelovski, again got busy."

Apparently the "Lord Kerson" mentioned in the Izvestia editorial translation was Lord Curzon of Kedleston, former British secretary for foreign affairs. Relations between soviet Russia and Britain in the spring and summer of 1923 presented great difficulties during his tenure of office. He obtained from the Russian government the suspension of anti-British action and propaganda and removal of incriminated officials.

CAUSE OF INQUIRY

Washington, D. C., Nov. 13.—[Special.]—Clipperton island, a tiny bit of land in the Pacific some 500 miles from Panama, has leaped into a position of international importance through a decision of the king of Italy last week awarding its possession to France.

The major international complication likely to develop as a result of the decision is whether or not hoisting of the French flag on a Pacific island will be a violation of the Monroe Doctrine. Further developments as to what action this nation will take in the event it decides that policy is being violated await completion of the state department's study of the matter.

While of no commercial value, the island has recently come to be regarded as of some importance as a potential naval air base. It has a sweet water lake in its interior which could be used for seaplane landings and it is considered possible that it could be made into a submarine base.

Ownership of the island had been the subject of desultory international dispute for many years. Originally discovered by Spain, it passed to Mexico when that nation was granted independence. Later it was claimed by France, and the dispute was finally presented to the king of Italy for decision. That was in 1909, but the war and more important matters interfered and his decision made only last week gave the island to France.

GREEK CHURCH HOLDS SERVICES FOR WAR DEAD

A form of memorial service for world war veterans new to Chicago was held yesterday at the Church of the Annunciation of the Hellenic Orthodox church, 1017 North La Salle street. The service was conducted by Bishop Calistos.

Members of the supreme lodge of the Ahepa, with Supreme President H. J. Booras of Washington, together with the ecclesiastical court, surrounded the bishop at the climax of the service. Bishop Calistos then blessed the holy wheat which was eaten by the congregation in memory of the war dead.

Hunt Bandits Who Held Family of Four Captives

Police were searching yesterday for three young bandits who tied up four members of the family of Ernest G. Schneider, 342 West 59th street, and kept them prisoners for two hours early yesterday in a search for rent collections they thought Schneider had made from the building, which he owns. They got only $22 and jewelry valued at $50. Schneider was not at home. Among those tied up was his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Anna Schneider, whose arms the bandits left free that she might hold her 9 months old son.

CUBAN OFFICIAL PUTS HURRICANE DEATHS AT 2,500

CAMAGUEY, Cuba, Nov. 13.—(AP)—The number of dead in the city of Santa Cruz del Sur, which was virtually wiped off a sand spit on the southeast Cuban coast by a hurricane and tidal wave last week, was placed at 2,500 persons today by Secretary of Interior Zubizarreta.

Gasoline was sought today by the Cuban government for cremation of bodies, reported piled in many pyres at Santa Cruz. Refugees have been pouring in here from Santa Cruz and relief work is being rushed in the area.

The sailboat Eulalia Pinero arrived here yesterday with 20 sailors who had been shipwrecked on the coast. Another sailboat, the Nueva Concha Santa, also had foundered and only one of its crew of nine was saved.

ILLINOIS RANKS FIFTH IN NUMBER OF HIGH SCHOOLS

Illinois ranks fifth among the states of the Union in the number of its high schools, figures made public yesterday by the federal office of education at Washington disclosed. The state has 1,065 high schools. Texas has the largest number with, 1,400, and Ohio, Pennsylvania and Missouri lead Illinois on the list.

Iowa ranks sixth with 991, which is 36 more than New York state has. Indiana ranks tenth with 869 high schols, and Michigan eleventh with 784.

Schurz High school in Chicago, with 3,106 students, stands fifth in the nation in point of attendance. De Witt Clinton High school for boys in New York City had the largest enrollment, 10,059. The figures are for 1930 attendance. With the exception of Schurz high, the nine largest high schools in the country are all in New York City. Austin High school in Chicago was ranked tenth, with 6,547 students, and Sterling Morton high, in Cicero, and Lindblom, Roosevelt and Lane Tech in Chicago were among the 28 schools with more than 5,000 students.

Approximately 75 per cent of the 23,230 public high schools in the country had less than 200 students in 1930, the federal report states, and the majority of this percentage registered less than 100.

Hotel Basement Fire Drives Out 50 Guests

Fire early yesterday attacked the Jed hotel, 600 North Clark street, and drove more than fifty residents to the street. The damage amounted to $5,000, according to Fire Commissioner Daniel J. Carmody. Firemen were hampered by iron bars across the basement windows and summoned additional apparatus and men who cut through the bars with acetylene torches and smashed through the cement sidewalk to gain access to the basement.

REPUBLICANS ON THE NATIONAL STAGE.

Two nationally known Republicans who survived Tuesday's election were James Wadsworth of New York and James M. Beck of Pennsylvania. Mr. Wadsworth is a former senator who is making his reëntry into congress, this time to the house of representatives. Although the Republicans lost the state for President and governor, Mr. Wadsworth's district elected him. Pennsylvania being the only great state which stuck to the Republican flag, Mr. Beck was not in great danger in his congressional district.

In view of the fact that many notable Republicans were handed their dismissal papers in the election, Wadsworth and Beck become outstanding men in the party. Smoot, Watson, Bingham, Glenn, Moses, and other Republican headliners are gone, along with such Republican irritants as Blaine and Brookhart. In losing such men as Glenn and Bingham the party has sustained a loss. The same may be said of Moses and of Watson. Whether the defeats be regarded as good or bad, they represent a pretty clean sweep of influences which have been dominant in the Washington councils of the party. It is starting from scratch again for the Republicans and it is significant that such men as Wadsworth and Beck are put in the forefront by present day conditions. Both these men, one in congress and one out, have been spokesmen for the new order in which the Republican national party will seek its reconstruction if it is wise. When the administration doctrines were being molded too much by Bishop Cannon, Wadsworth and Beck were opposed to prohibition, when too much concerned with socialistic departmentalism, they were for the reduction of government costs and activities. They are representative of the elements in the Republican party which did not succeed in heading it off from the road to defeat but which have kept alive the fundamentals of sound Republican principles.

In various of the states there are men who, even as defeated candidates, will remain alive in political life and who will be found active in the reconstruction process. Such a man is Senator Glenn of Illinois, whose defeat is attributable to the general conditions which swept his party into the minority in his state. On his own record Mr. Glenn could have been reëlected. On his party's record in Illinois he could not be. The national Republican party can regard itself as admonished and chastened. It was weakened by its service to alien precepts and dogmas. It sought strength where it could find only disaster. It not only fostered an ambitious and aristocratic bureaucracy but it vainly tried to win support naturally hostile to it, support which could be embraced only to be found destructive.

It permitted Mr. Stimson, for instance, to seek an international career which would sacrifice the party to the gratification of his magnificent egotism. Mr. Stimson as the great peacemaker was frequently in danger of producing a great war. The party offended the country by prolonged subservience to the modern bigotry of prohibition. It was apparently unable to see that Bishop Cannon, Clarence True Wilson, and the Volstead dictatorship had become too exasperating for endurance. To this obstinacy or blindness in internal affairs it added a rambling beneficence in foreign affairs which seemed forever aimless, futile, and injurious. It was plain that American interests were being jeopardized or sacrificed while no good will or friendship was being built up. The party in administration committed itself deeply to pacifism, prohibition, and economic fallacies, and quite apparently got nowhere.

In many of these activities it was trying to steal the thunder of its enemies, and quite naturally succeeded only in detonating explosions within its own ranks and to its utter confusion. It did not win the La Follettes, Brookhart, Norris, and their company by making concessions to them but only made its own supporters more bewildered. It used public funds lavishly to purchase subsidizable states and only had them turn away in ingratitude and contempt. It experimented with state socialism, increased the deficits of government, stupefied private enterprise, and didn't get a vote. It did not reconcile a single one of its enemies, and at the end of all these costly concessions to alien principles it is left with only six states in the electoral college.

When the Republican party is most itself this is a Republican country. There has been an observable trend to concentrate party authority and party responsibility in Washington. Less now than ever before does a party get its decisions from powerful men in the various states and merely execute them in administration and in congress. We have come to a larger share in the parliamentary system. Decisions are made in Washington and parties abide by them. Next March the Republican party becomes the minority party of opposition and criticism. It will then reform its lines, find its leadership, and establish the record which will test it four years from now.

FIVE BILLIONS OF DEFICIT.

Readers of THE TRIBUNE yesterday were presented with a careful study of the fiscal position of the federal government, prepared by Mr. Reuben D. Cahn. If there were any lingering suspicions that the federal budget is balanced, they must have been dispelled. The estimates of receipts have been greatly in excess of actual collections to date and just as much in excess of reasonable expectations for the future.

If Mr. Cahn has erred it has been on the side of the treasury. But making every allowance he has been forced to conclude that, so far as income taxes are concerned, the government next year will receive only 776 million dollars, a decline of more than 33 per cent from the yield which was expected of these taxes when the budget was declared to be balanced. If the shortage is only 33 per cent the country can consider itself fortunate, for the probability is that the accounts, when closed, will show an even more alarming disparity between income and outgo.

Congress and the incoming administration are confronted by this unsound and potentially ruinous fiscal position. They must act. The temptation will be to attempt to bring the budget into balance by new taxes and increased taxes rather than by reducing the outgo, but it must now be obvious that higher taxation will only make matters worse. The wheel has turned the full circle. The determination of the last congress to soak the rich and to find new objects of taxation has resulted merely in reduced federal revenues. Each day's treasury report makes it clearer that the federal government is a more expensive government than the American people can afford to maintain in the year 1932. If we are to avoid the disorganization which will follow a departure from the gold standard congress and the executive must apply the cleaver to the next budget.

As Mr. Cahn well said: "The seriousness of the financial emergency which faces the government cannot be overemphasized. A scale of spending has been maintained which differs insignificantly from the largest peace time spending rate. The revenue bill . . . has been found to be an utter failure . . . which will bring the aggregate deficit for three years up to five billion dollars without allowing for the Reconstruction Finance corporation."

The futility of trying to remedy this situation with additional taxation is as clear as the necessity for correcting it. Many of the congressmen who fostered the policy of ruin have been swept into the discard together with the administration which spent the appropriations. That is a pretty substantial hint of what the future holds for men in Washington who refuse to see the light.

DENTS IN THE HIGH HAT.

Convicts in the island penitentiary of Montreal set fire to the place Friday in an attempted jail break and clubbed down the guards who tried to check the flames. After four hours of rioting the authorities got the upper hand. The new freedom is apparently rife not only in Canada but in Great Britain. Disorderly episodes which had been regarded as peculiar evidence of American turpitude offer themselves for such explanations as the Canadians and British can find. These explanations, although imaginative, are not very good.

In Canada and in Great Britain there has been much high hatting of American inferiorities. Even Canadian and British criminals have been regarded as a superior order of criminals, a breed innately filled with respect for the law. So overpowering was the majesty of British justice that its face need only be uncovered to strike the lawless to their knees in awe. This was too good to be true. The English criminal ceases to be a comic figure with respectable home life and becomes an armed brigand in the city streets and country roads. The English are learning to stick them up. English convicts riot in Dartmoor and the provincial Canadians have learned to follow example. It will be more difficult from now on for Americans to indulge Canadians and English in their ungenerous criticisms.

Editorial of the Day

YANKEE SPOKEN HERE.

[New York Times.]

There will soon be much ringing of doorbells in New England. The ringers will not be persons in search of work but of Yankee dialect. Collectors for the New England part of the "Linguistic Atlas of the United States and Canada," undertaken by the American Council of Learned Societies and certain colleges and universities, will soon be on the road. Three eastern Massachusetts counties will be gone over with a fine tooth comb. There are no more country stores. They have been driven out by the chain stores. The old settlers and sitters that used to abound in them have to be hunted up. Will "the old resident," not talking informally in the free and easy society of the cracker barrel, be as natural and expressive in presence of the hunters as he would by the side of the big cheese under its cover on the counter? Let us hope so. The country is rich in people who have stores of dialect but use it only in the company of their family and intimates.

Sometimes one feels that dialect is the best speech, though the canned written stuff is so artificial and tedious. The eastern excavators have already dug out words of power. A writer in the Boston Transcript tells us that a thunderstorm is called a "tempest" in some parts of Maine, on Cape Cod, and here and there in Rhode Island. "Pantry" and "buttery" are rival usages. Too knowing youth on the cape prefers the former; the latter is dearer to the Berkshires. Fishermen generally say "angle worm." That seems queer, since "bait" is still in use; and "worm," "dirt worm," "fish worm" are also found. Central and western Connecticut are more poetical. They are said to say "night crawler" and "night walker." Connecticut and Massachusetts never could get along well together.

In the Bay state a "doughnut" has a hole in it; in Nutmegia the hole is in a "fried cake." Connecticut bears the palm alone in clinging to "green." The rest of New England is content with "common." "Headcheese" or "souse" is curiously called "minister's face" or "minister's snout." The poetry of corn is admirably expressed in "tassels out." Along the coast is heard a nobler metaphor. There corn "topgallants out." Infant onions are called "rare ripes." The linguistic map makers should be warned that when they come to classifying "apple dowdy," "pan dowdy," "apple slump," and a few other grand names of grander dishes they are liable to cause riots among the etymologists and gourmets of at least six states, of which Rhode Island and Providence plantations is or are the most intransigent of intransigents.

"YOU'RE WRONG," shrieks Shrieking Susan from Detroit; "you said that Henry Ford was the man who voted for Hoover. But the papers here say that Henry Ford was not registered and consequently didn't vote." Oh, very well; we may have erred in what we said; perhaps Henry Ford didn't vote for Mr. Hoover. Well, somebody did.

TWO SONNETS.

I.

THIS WINTER NIGHT.

Know you what lays behind this winter night?
Sleet on the hedgerows, ice on uncut grain;
Deep-buried seedlings waiting for the light—
And ageless lovers walking paths to pain.
For them life has not yet removed disguise;
It wears a fabric only dreamers know:
Reality is brilliant, colorwise—
Hidden beneath a praying shawl of snow.

Now can it be I hear your whispered name
As winter walks to meet the solvent spring?
I give to beauty what I gained of pain,
And I go on . . . but go, remembering.
For well I know that even this shall pass—

II.

It is not meet that I should walk alone:
This dream of you, heavy upon my breast,
Stands silent in the doorway while the stone
Of memory is carved with my unrest.
And as I contemplate the rising sun—
Thoughts trample through my lighted house to say—
"Forever shall you wear this talisman,
You cannot lift it, even for today."

So I go on, wearing the unset jewel—
Facing the future armored in the past:
No man shall call me slave or call me fool,
As long as this one certitude shall last.
The government of love has but one law:
I did not conquer, though I came, and saw.

A PETRIFIED GOPHER seven million years old has been dug up out in Nebraska with horns on its head with which it fastened itself to its hole in the ground so it couldn't be dragged out. Maybe that explains why it's simply impossible to separate the bureaucrats down in Washington from their jobs. They have horns on their heads, and when anybody goes after 'em they just crawl under their desks and stick their horns up into the mahogany, and shucks! they just can't be dragged out.

SAME BEING a very open letter to Mr. S. Claus, North Pole.—Dear Mr. Claus: Your letter received and contents noted. Would say in reply—yes, indeed, you will receive a large supply of the new model, stream line, sixteen cylinder, custom built Linebook of 1932 in a short time ready for Christmas delivery. This is to allay your fears, as you say that at a great majority of the homes you visit you have been threatened with the bum's rush unless you bring Linebook. Cheer up, dear Mr. Claus, the new model Linebook will be out around December first, spreading sunshine and happiness over one and all. Hoping you are in your usual good health, that none of your reindeer have the pip (or is that what chickens have?), and with our devoted compliments to your good wife, we remain, sincerely, et cet., et cet., and et cet.

AND ANOTHER REMARKABLE CASE of suspended animation is reported. In this most unusual case the subject had been in a strange deathlike trance for almost fourteen years. All efforts to arouse him were in vain, but yesterday he suddenly sat up in bed, smiled faintly, and seemed to recognize two or three old time friends. The patient, old Mr. John Barleycorn, said in a faint but firm voice that he expected soon to be around, as well as he was in the good old days before something hit him in the neck and knocked him unconscious.

POSTELECTION LEERICS.

The cruel election is over,
The voting all is done,
But what a lean crop of clover
For the candidates who won!

Well, anyhow, your noble Norman Thomas
Will never break a preëlection promise.

And he who claimed so many roads to mend
And so reversed the famous apothegm
Of Emerson's (please spell it with one "m").

O happy days that are to come!
I would I could have voted thrice,
Since Hoover promised paradise,
And Thomas something just as nice,
And Roosevelt the millennium;
I would I could have voted thrice.

The mills they ground so slowly
They hardly moved at all,
Yet what a grist we should have missed
If they had not ground Small!

EPIDEMICS OF MEASLES.

MEASLES has a way of coming in waves and this implies that there will also be ebbs. More than one health officer has been blamed for having a town full of measles and many another has been praised for keeping his community free from the disease when the state of affairs was due to the natural course of events. Many a health official has been praised for wiping out a measles epidemic when the disease had run its course, used up the raw material, and was scheduled to disappear regardless of what the health officer did.

In the larger cities these epidemic waves come two years apart. If the community has been free this year it may expect trouble next. A better way to put it is that a community that has suffered this year has earned escape for next year.

In recent years there has been a tendency toward a longer cycle—two and, in rare instances, three free years between the bad years. In smaller communities the ebb and flow of the disease is still more evident, but the tides are not so regular and they may be without suggestion of regularity. However, residents of smaller communities can accept the following: When there has been a comparatively long period of freedom from measles the stage is set for an epidemic, and the longer the period of freedom the greater the chance of a wide epidemic.

The measles rate is very low from July to November. It begins to mount in November, but it rarely becomes serious before February. The epidemics of dangerous, death-dealing measles are almost limited to the first half of the year, and they are almost limited to the months between Feb. 1 and the end of April.

About the only method of protection that is effective enough is vaccination. In the present state of our knowledge this method is not workable until after the disease has begun to threaten the community. Even then, while vaccination gives satisfactory results, the source of material, the nature of the procedure, and the limitations of the effects prevent the method from coming into universal use.

There are two methods: One is to make use of blood serum from a child convalescent from the disease. This method, used promptly after exposure or before it, confers a fairly long continued immunity. Every child with measles is reasonably certain to have done some harm by exposing other children. In fairness, the parents of all such children who are recovering nicely should be willing to give some of the child's blood to be used to vaccinate others.

The practical objections to the method are the unwillingness of parents and children to supply blood, the limitations of such a supply, the need of testing the blood before using, and greater need for proper preparation of the material to be injected.

The other method consists in injecting children to be protected with a little blood from the parent, or some time from some other adult. This is a much simpler and safer method and is much more liable to be on a workable basis. It confers only a partial immunity. The child may still have an attack but, if so, it will be a very mild one and, following that, there will be permanent immunity. Or it may prevent an attack, but the immunity conferred lasts a few weeks only.

LOW BLOOD PRESSURE.

Mrs. E. E. P. writes: What causes low blood pressure? Does it make one feel "all in" most of the time? What is one to do to bring it up?

REPLY.

1. Probably a deficiency of adrenal secretion in the blood.

2. Yes. One has an "all in" feeling, as well as other discomforts and symptoms. However, there is some compensation in the following facts: Persons with low blood pressure have few organic diseases; they belong to a group that has a low death rate and a long life expectancy.

3. Some raise their pressure by eating little starchy and sweet foods and living largely on meats and eggs. Some wear abdominal supporters. Some become baseball and football hounds, or fiends for hot competitions and excitement of various kinds.

MULTIPLE SCLEROSIS.

R. M. E. writes:

1. What is multiple sclerosis?

2. What are the usual causes and is it hereditary or contagious?

3. What is the usual outcome of a case of several years' standing?

REPLY:

1. A disease of the spinal cord in which there are several patches of scar tissue in the nerve substance.

2. The prevailing opinion now is that it is specific in origin, being like locomotor ataxia and general paresis in that.

3. No cure for it is known.

ACTS ONLY AS LAXATIVE.

M. D. D. writes: I have been told by a friend to take senna pods for rheumatism—six or seven pods in a glass of cold water night and morning. How do they act and what are they for? I know nothing about them.

REPLY.

This would act as a laxative. Beyond that there would be no direct effect.

GIFTS OR ADVANCES?

Chicago, Nov. 9.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Over a period of a number of years my aunt has given my daughter and myself sums of money. Some were Christmas presents. She died recently and I inherited a small sum, and from that has been deducted the amount of money she gave both my daughter and myself. Had I borrowed it she would have notes to show, and there are none. What can I do to get what is rightfully due me? L. M. K.

In some cases such deliveries of money are intended as gifts, in some cases as loans, and in some cases as advancements out of the recipient's share in the estate, but not to be otherwise repaid. The question as to where your case classifies would depend on all of the facts in evidence. If you wish to litigate the matter you should employ an attorney. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

CORRECTED ANSWER.

Chicago, Nov. 7.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—What is the limitation period on personal injuries sustained in the state of Illinois? The case I have reference to involved injuries sustained in being struck by a train. F. G.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

NOVEMBER 14, 1916.

LONDON.—Gen. Haig's troops have broken through the main German line west of Bapaume held by the kaiser's forces for two years and converted into a series of strong fortresses. Striking along a five mile front on both sides of the Ancre river, the British advanced on the whole line, at points for more than a mile, and carried by storm the villages of Beaumont-Haimel and Saint Pierre division, both considered impregnable. More than 3,000 prisoners have been passed back. Time after time the British guns had pounded those positions with tons of explosives, but still they defied the attack. For two years the German engineers had put all their ingenuity to the task of strengthening them.

LONDON.—Cardinal Mercier, primate of Belgium, has issued a protest to the civilized world against the deportation of Belgians to Germany for forced labor. The protest is dated Nov. 7 and is signed by Cardinal Mercier in behalf of all the Belgian bishops except the bishop of Bruges, with whom he was unable to get in touch.

LONDON.—Violent battles on three fronts in the Balkans are in progress, with the advantage going to the Russo-Rumanian armies in Dobrudja and to the Serbians in Macedonia, while in the Transylvanian theater the reports on the fighting conflict. The Russo-Rumanians have crossed the Danube into Dobrudja at two points south of Cernavoda and the Russian fleet has renewed the bombardment of Constanza. Field Marshal von Mackensen is reported continuing his retreat with demoralized forces and with one-third of his effectives lost. The Serbians are continuing their pursuit of the defeated Bulgarians in the Cerna bend and have captured the village of Iven, five miles north of Polog and about ten miles within the Serbian border.

PETROGRAD.—A spirited artillery battle is in progress in the Narayuvka region in Galicia, southeast of Lemberg, where hard fighting for important ridge positions has been continuing for several days, the war office announced. In the Carpathians, both in the wooded district and to the south of Dorna Watra, heavy fighting is also going on, the Austro-German forces in the former region suffering great losses when one of their attacking columns was swept back by a bayonet charge.

CHICAGO.—Julius Rosenwald, president of Sears, Roebuck & Co. and a trustee of the University of Chicago and Mrs. Rosenwald together subscribed $500,000 towards the new medical school of the university, which is to represent a total investment of from $8,000,000 to $10,000,000.

FLAGSTAFF, Ariz. — Dr. Percival Lowell, founder and director of the Lowell observatory here and an astronomer of international reputation, died from a stroke of apoplexy. Several astronomical expeditions were organized by him. Among them were an eclipse expedition to Tripoli in 1900 and an expedition to the Andes mountains to photograph Mars in 1907. Dr. Lowell was born March 13, 1855.

THE BAR ASSOCIATION IN THE ELECTION.

Chicago, Nov. 10.—Your Voice of the People editor is happy this morning as usual in his choice of a headline for my note of thanks to THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE for its most valuable participation in the effort to get better municipal court judges. In the first place, citizens certainly did not neglect the separate judicial ballot. The apparently impossible happened and two Republicans, both in the list endorsed by the Chicago Bar association, were elected.

Then take the figures. The lowest successful candidate [Hasten] received 611,478 votes, and the highest unsuccessful candidate [Bieck] 608,537. We may then consider 610,000 votes as necessary to elect, and calculate majorities and deficiencies from this figure. On that basis, the five Democratic candidates indorsed by the Chicago Bar association had an average majority of 109,285, and the seven Democrats not endorsed [two were losers] an average majority of 15,369. Of the seven Republicans endorsed [two were winners] the average deficiency of votes below 610,000 was 14,495, while of the five Republicans not endorsed the average deficiency was 110,139.

These figures in themselves are striking, and, if we compare them with the overwhelming city-wide majorities of the Democratic candidates for all other offices, we see that "it might indeed have been worse." CHARLES P. MEGAN,
President the Chicago Bar association.

THE RIGHT TO ALMS.

Chicago, Nov. 10.—I am writing to protest against your editorial, "The Right to Alms," which appeared in THE TRIBUNE of Nov. 9. While there are several statements therein that might be challenged, I am concerning myself at the moment with the philosophy you express and the principles you enunciate in the third paragraph of your editorial wherein you charge the unemployed with "failure to make the grade," and state that they are being supported now through a tender hearted generosity of society, not because of any right of support.

The obligations of justice are unmistakably exact. Man has a right to work, since wages from work are essential to his very existence. Society owes this to every man, not as a charitable gift but in strict justice. If society allows an economic order to become established which permits eleven million men to be thrown out of employment and then denies them opportunity for reemployment, if the economic order in addition permits many of these men to have their savings swept away over night so that they have nothing left with which to sustain life and the lives of their families, then society owes support to those men, in justice, not as a mere gesture of benevolent generosity.

It is manifestly unfair to lay at the door of the unemployed today the charge, "For one reason or another they have failed to make the grade." Pope Leo XIII., in his memorable encyclical, "Rerum Novarum," said: "It is only by the labor of the working man that states grow rich," which answers your charge that the unemployed have failed in their duty to support themselves and the government.

The great army of unemployed men today are asking for employment, not charity, except the charity which each of us owes to every other man as children of the same God.

AGNES VAN DRIEL,
Secretary School of Social Work, Loyola University.

WHO IS SOCIETY?

Chicago, Nov. 10.—From your editorial, "The Right to Alms," aside from its insolent effrontery, it is evident that you have missed completely one of the major implications of the stinging defeat administered to Mr. Hoover the day before. In large measure that defeat can be credited to Mr. Hoover's uncompromising and misunderstanding position with respect to unemployment relief, a position which you apparently have chosen to shoulder.

"The facts are ugly," as you state, but not the facts which you allude to. Rather, the miserly and degrading manner in which relief has been handed to our unemployed, more like bones to a dog than the just obligation of society to masses of its own who, through no fault of theirs, are deprived of the opportunity of working for the necessities of life.

"For one reason or another they have failed to make the grade" is akin to Marie Antoinette's ignorant suggestion in the absence of bread. This statement is unworthy of any decent person who, for "one reason or another," also usually beyond his immediate control, still finds himself more or less unaffected by the general depression. B. E. SCHAAR.

AS FAR AS WE GO.

Chicago, Nov. 9.—The management of the Chicago Surface Lines has revived the old slogan of "The public be damned!" with a vengeance on their Lawrence avenue and Milwaukee avenue lines by driving out helpless men, women, and children into the pouring rain last night from street cars which were arbitrarily stopped at Lawrence and Cicero avenues and at Milwaukee and Central avenues despite the fact that those cars were loaded with passengers. REBUILD G. O. P. OR IT WILL DIE, BUTLER ASSERTS

Hope of Party in Youths, Educator Avers.

New York, Nov. 13.—(AP)—Unless the Republican party is reorganized under constructive and courageous leadership, Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler said today, it will soon pass out of existence and be replaced by a "truly liberal party."

DR. BUTLER. [Moffet Photo.]

Declaring the hope of the Republican party of tomorrow lies in its youth, the president of Columbia university said in a formal statement that if the younger members will "exert themselves to seek and to produce constructive, forward facing and liberal leadership, the party, despite its overwhelming defeat, may be quickly reorganized and given new strength and new spirit for another generation of public service."

"If something of this sort cannot be done," he continued, "then the Republican party will have gone the way of the Whig party, and will soon pass out of existence because of its incapacity to face the future with understanding and with courage. Should that come to pass then a new and truly liberal party will quickly be born, composed of the very best elements of the Republican and Democratic parties."

Urges Budget Balancing.

Dr. Butler outlined a program which he said a "regenerated Republican party, or if necessary a new liberal party," must adopt. Budgets must be balanced, he said, "and not merely talked about or lamented, tariff walls must be torn down, quotas removed, and intergovernmental war debts must be readjusted in the spirit of the agreement of Lausanne signed on July 8 last, in order that the burden which these war debts now impose may be lifted from the backs of the American people."

"It is absolutely necessary," he continued, "to get out of men's heads everywhere that because any group of people constitute a self-governing nation, they also constitute a self-dependent economic unit. They do not. All that they do is to qualify as a member of an international and coöperative economic organization, the outgrowth of modern industrial conditions and of newly discovered means of communication, the object of which will be to bring prosperity to each and all, and to assure its continuance so far as that is humanly possible under the operation of established economic law."

Dr. Butler disclosed that a "group of the ablest and most disinterested men" in the party met at a private conference more than a year ago and agreed upon the positions he stated.

Defeat Predicted, He Says.

"It was the belief of every member of the group," he said, "that certain party defeat in November 1932 stared them all in the face, but that nothing could be done to avert it and nothing to improve the party's future position until that defeat had taken place and been recorded. It is that point which we have now reached."

Declaring last Tuesday's balloting represented an "overwhelming anti-vote and only in relatively small degree a pro-vote," Dr. Butler said:

"The simple fact is that since the summer of 1919 the Republican party, as represented by the vast majority of its officeholders at Washington, has been moving steadily toward intellectual, moral, and political bankruptcy. It has managed to get on the wrong side of every important question which confronts the anxious American people."

In declaring the rank and file of the party crave constructive and courageous leadership, he said "the history of the movement for the repeal of the 18th amendment proves that fact."

GIVE SPENDING MONEY TO FEED HUNGRY PUPILS

2 Small Boys Work Weeks to Earn Dollar.

Good scholarship on the part of two little boys in Palatine has earned for the Hungry School Children's fund enough money to feed a hungry Chicago school child for ten days.

Bill and Ken Birks sent with their $1 gift the following letter, written and signed by themselves:

"Our father gives us 5 cents for each 'A' grade we get on our school report cards. This is our spending money. We now have a dollar and would like you to use it in buying lunches for the hungry school children.

Suggestion for Others.

"Maybe some other boys and girls could get their fathers to do the same. We think it would be a good idea and help the fund, too."

How about it, boys and girls. There are 15,000 children going to the very schools you attend, without their lunches. If you are good in scholarship, wouldn't it be nice to give a small thank offering to help your needy schoolmates along? A hot, nourishing lunch at noonday would give them energy to study hard and, perhaps, make the scholarship roll themselves.

Fifty-two Schools Receive Aid.

A little less than $12,000 has been received by the Hungry School Children's fund since the appeal went out for help this fall. Fifty-two schools are now receiving aid. Last year 209 schools were given help from the fund.

If you wish to contribute, send your gift to the cashier of THE TRIBUNE, Tribune Tower, accompanied by the adjoining coupon.

Await Forgery Warrant for N.Y. Woman Held Here

New York policemen are expected in Chicago today with warrants for Mrs. Sarah Moise, 38 years old, a divorcee. She was arrested Friday night in the Drake hotel charged with forging checks amounting to $15,000 against the account of Mrs. C. W. Wooley of Greenwich, Conn., for whom she worked as social secretary. With Mrs. Moise at the time of her arrest was Lawrence Ives, 29 years old, said to be an ex-convict. It is expected that Mrs. Moise will waive extradition.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

GENEVA, Nov. 13.—An international agreement controlling the private manufacture of arms has been made imminent, it is predicted here, by a change in the American position. This has been that the federal government could not constitutionally shackle private enterprise.

It is understood now that the American delegation is willing to consider regulation of the private manufacture of arms on condition that the powers agree to control state manufacture. It is notorious that government arms and munition plants in certain continental countries carry on trade abroad corresponding with that which is reproached when carried on by private concerns.

An agreement will be speeded, it is pointed out, since for the first time in recent years there is a French government which is willing to consider the shackling of state subsidized munitions works.

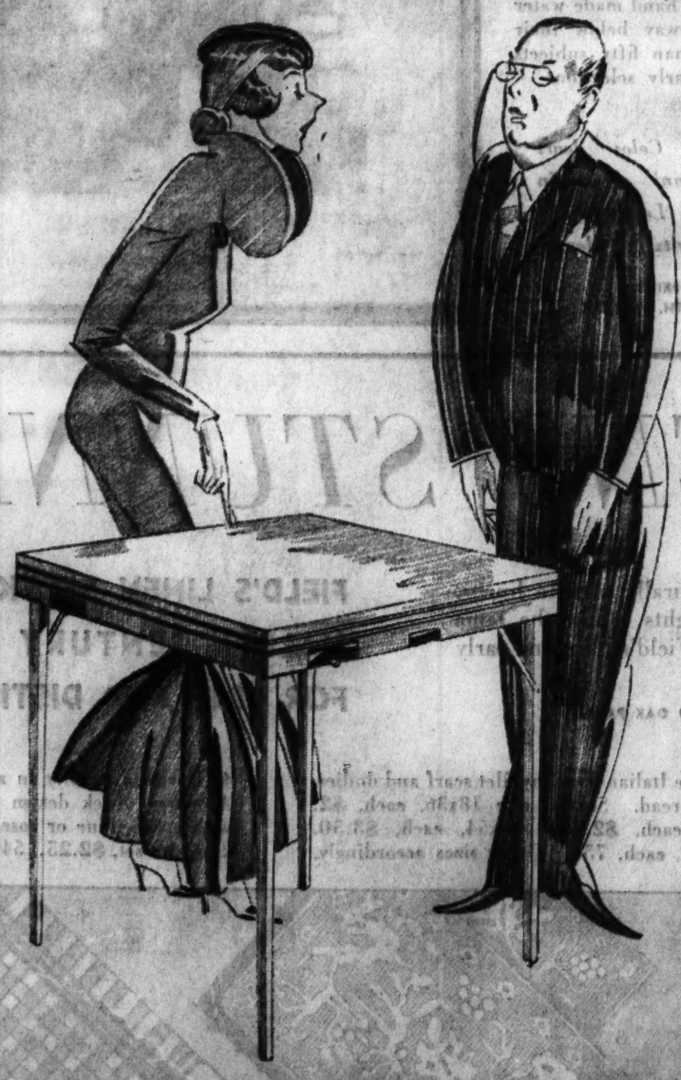
Bridge Magic

A table that Shuffles and Deals—but lets you play the cards



"You wouldn't deceive me?"
"Not for the world."
"But you said this table shuffles the cards."
"It does."
"And you say it deals them."
"Yes."
"And I suppose it snubs your partner and snarls at your opponent, and — —"
"Believe me, madam, it does not. It lets the humans have all the fun. It never trumps an ace, either. But it does do all the work.
"Look. Put one deck in the shuffle box while you play the other. When the hand's over, each player reaches into a concealed pocket and (page Mr. Thurston) there's his next hand neatly packed and waiting! No slips, no spills, no cards inadvertently turned face up—and never a misdeal!"

The magical Hammond Electric Bridge Table is made by the makers of Hammond clocks. You can see it work at the Commonwealth Edison Electric Shop. It is a good looking card table, too—and strong. The price is only $25. You must see it demonstrated to believe it.

SOUTH AMERICA ACTS TO CREATE ECONOMIC UNION

Federation of All States Aim of Movement.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

SANTIAGO, Chile, Nov. 13.—Angered by American and European indifferences to Latin America's economic sufferings, representatives of the A. B. C.—Argentina, Brazil and Chile—have instituted plans for an economic union on the southern half of this continent, as a prelude to the realization of the greater dream of Bolivar, their common patriot, of a federation of all South American states.

Peruvian and Bolivian diplomats have also participated in the conversations in which, it is reported, sufficient progress was made to justify an early invitation to a general South American economic conference.

Chile is the insurgent spirit in the movement. Nevertheless all South American countries, bitter over Washington's tariff policy and the Ottawa trade agreements, seem to be equally ready to grasp at the straw of economic independence. There is a rooted belief among them that the hour has struck for an economic pact which will restore prosperity to South America, regardless of the United States, Europe and the rest of the world.

Nations Are Friendly.

Except for the unofficial war between Bolivia and Paraguay and the frontier dispute between Peru and Colombia, there is comparative friendliness among South American countries. The major powers—the A. B. C. group—have never before been on such friendly terms as now. It is considered, therefore, a propitious moment to negotiate an inter-trading agreement.

The Chilean idea is that the conference should be preceded by a series of pacts between the group nations, so that success of the economic union shall be assured in advance to the general continental conference. These separate negotiations, it was also considered, would stimulate a "get together" spirit which has been absent in South American relations since political independence was gained.

To show what can be done in this way, Chile has just signed conventions with Argentina and Peru. The first erases artificial barriers which both countries admit should never have been created and concedes a mutual priority in trade.

Restores Trade Freedom.

The second goes even further, restoring complete freedom of commerce between Chile and Peru. These conventions have been supplemented by an agreement between Peru and Bolivia. Argentina and Brazil are both watching the operation of these treaties with a view to similar action on the eastern side of the Andes.

Chileans are elated at having won over Argentina to the economic union idea and because of the implications of the agreements it has achieved. In both and especial" that with Peru Chile's status as a manufacturing country within the South American orbit is definitely recognized.

Chile is pledged to buy Peruvian sugar and other raw products, but Peru is compromised to give Chilean manufactured articles a trial in preference to imports from America and Europe. Footwear, paper, glass, china and pottery are to be exported from this country for the first time.

National manufacturers here gave a banquet to celebrate their first shipments and are bringing pressure to bear on the new go. ernment to insist on this clause in all new treaties.

'ANDEAN RAILWAY RENEWS SERVICE; TARIFF WAR ENDS

BUENOS AIRES, Nov. 13.—(AP)—An official of the Trans-Andean railway said today he believed the railway would resume train service between Argentina and Chile on Nov. 21 or 22.

The railway was forced to suspend operation last spring as a result of the Argentine-Chilean tariff war, which took away from the line the bulk of its freight traffic.

The tariff dispute was settled yesterday when a modus vivendi was signed between the two countries. The official said the railroad would run one train in each direction weekly for the present.

Laws Conflict on Right to Invest It.

In the balance sheets issued daily by City Treasurer Kearns city officials are notified that they have invested most of the city's special assessment fund in tax anticipation warrants to pay school and municipal employes. This trust fund is one that attorneys have contended should not be used for investment purposes.

On Nov. 9 the balance sheet credited this fund with $6,925,697. The total of all funds in the treasury on that date was $97,610,754, of which $7,548,105 was in cash and the remaining $90,062,648 was invested in securities.

The city could show, according to some authorities, that the entire special assessment fund is in cash, but a proportionate division of the cash and securities among all the funds would give to it only $535,494 in cash and $6,390,132 in securities. In other words, the division would show that a little more than 92 per cent of the fund is invested in securities.

It has been contended in the city hall in the past that the special assessment fund does not belong to the city but is a fund collected by the city only for the purpose of redeeming special assessment paper given to contractors for work on improvements which are paid for by special taxes against the benefiting property. Under that interpretation, it is claimed that City Controller Szymczak had no right to invest any portion of the fund.

City funds are invested in tax anticipation warrants under a statute that authorizes the city to use for investments any fund set aside for use for some particular purpose but not immediately necessary for such purpose.

Another Statute Cited.

Fiscal authorities and attorneys, however, point to another statute that reads:

"All moneys received on any special assessment shall be held by the treasurer as a special fund, to be applied to the payment of the improvement for which the assessment was made, and said money shall be used for no other purpose whatever, unless to reimburse such corporation for money expended for such improvement."

Investments of the city in tax warrants total $76,747,178, of which $30,486,000 is in school board warrants. If the city did not hold the school warrants the special assessment fund could be credited with $2,698,251 in cash and $4,227,446 in securities. The investments were made by the controller with the consent of the city council.

C. suburban station at 71st street and South Shore drive. Police were told that a door of a suburban train which Meyers was trying to board was closed too quickly, knocking him to the platform.

Three Bandits Rob Loop Depot of Stage Line

Three armed men entered the depot of the Chicago and North Western stages at 12 South La Salle street last night, menaced the manager and a passenger and stole $100. They escaped in a car driven by a fourth man. Manley Kolbe of 514 Cornelia avenue, the manager, said that the depot has been held up twice previously. The robbers made no effort to rob the passenger, Elmer Kolm.

ASK ROOSEVELT TO PUT WOMEN IN DIPLOMATIC AND CABINET POSTS

Washington, D. C., Nov. 14.—(AP)—The National Woman's party today made public a letter to President Elect Roosevelt from their chairman, Mrs. Harvey W. Wiley, urging cabinet and diplomatic posts for women—but only for women who are for women.

"Women emphatically want only those women who believe in equality for men and women and who wish to see the theory of equal protection of the law become a fact under our government," said an accompanying statement.

"The women of America earnestly urge that you include women among those whom you appoint, and urge that these women be truly representative of women; women who believe in equality for men and women, women who are aware that equal and effective coöperation between men and women is a vitally essential principle of representative government."

ASK FOR TROOPS TO GUARD MILK TRUCKS IN OHIO

Cincinnati, O., Nov. 13.—(AP)—An appeal for troops to protect milk trucks coming here from nearby counties was made today by members of the Cincinnati Milk exchange.

It was learned tonight the dealers had conferred with Adjt. Gen. Frank D. Henderson of the Ohio National Guard and asked him to carry their request to Gov. George White. The dealers told Henderson that union drivers had been picketing highways into Cincinnati and threatening truck drivers and farmers with violence if they did not turn back.

The dealers were greatly concerned tonight when they learned directors of two coöperative organizations of dairy farmers, the K. I. O. and the Coöperative Pure Milk association, had held a joint executive meeting. It was strongly hinted a strike of milk producers was considered.

Fire Destroys Six 2-Story Buildings at Coney Island

New York, Nov. 14 [Monday].—[Special.]—Fire swept through six two-story frame buildings at the southwest corner of Surf and Stillwell avenues, in the heart of Coney Island's amusement center, early today. Damage was estimated at about $100,000. The blaze started about a mile from the scene of last year's conflagration, apparently in a building housing a bait and tackle shop.

Mrs. Joan Hardy, 21 years old, of 2358 Normandy avenue, was given first aid at the Keystone hospital last night for wrist slashes which were self-inflicted. Mrs. Hardy's husband, Frank, told police that she cut her wrists after being scolded by her mother for drinking liquor at a party in their home. Mrs. Hardy was charged with disorderly conduct and will appear in the Shakespeare avenue court today.

JACOBS URGES COUNTY TO PAY DISCHARGED AIDS

200 Work Five Months Without Salary.

Assessor J. L. Jacobs announced yesterday that he will ask for a special meeting of the county board finance committee today to provide funds to pay off approximately 200 men and women who have been discharged in his office. These temporary employes have worked for an average of five months each for the county without receiving any pay.

J. L. JACOBS.

The assessor said $125,000 would pay all of them in full. He said that none of these employes were dropped because of inefficiency, but simply because he had no more work for them to do.

All of them had been employed in making the 1931 quadrennial real estate and personal property valuations, he said, and most of this work is completed.

A week before election 42 of the employes were dropped from the rolls and last Saturday 133 more were discharged. The assessor said that at least 20 more would be discharged next Saturday.

"These people are as clearly entitled to their salaries as were the judges and clerks of election who were paid on election night, as I understand it," said the assessor. "All of them have worked long and well for the county under the worst possible rush conditions.

"Many of them put in hours which sometimes amounted to 16 a day without protest. None of them caused any demonstration because their hard earned money is not forthcoming," he continued.

"Actually I know that many of them are in real want. They have lacked carfare and even money for a sandwich during the day. They must be given some funds on which to exist and I am going to do my utmost to produce for them as they have produced for me."

STATE TROOPS PLAN TO QUIT MINES AS DEPUTIES ARE SWORN

Taylorville, Ill., Nov. 13.—[Special.]—Following a report that the last of seven companies of the National Guard on duty here are to be sent home tomorrow, the members of the striking members of the Progressive Miners' union started today to lay plans for the picketing of the Peabody mines in the Midland field, now working under the $5 wage scale.

Protection of the working miners will be up to Sheriff Charles Weineke. He has appointed two hundred special deputies to patrol the roads leading to the mines and see that picketing is prevented.

The miners opposed to the $5 scale announced that when the soldiers leave, they will resume picketing called off after one of the miners was killed by a non-commissioned officer.

The deputies recently appointed by the sheriff are said to be members of the United Mine Workers of America. That union's members are employed in the local mines.

DRIVER ADMITS CRASH BLAME; BEATEN, ROBBED

William Alix, 3219 North Cicero avenue, a cleaner and dyer, was beaten and robbed last night by several hoodlums following an automobile collision at Congress and Paulina streets.

Alix told Warren avenue police that he admitted to the other driver that he was at fault. The driver of the second car then invited him into a restaurant on the corner "to talk it over." Inside he was beaten, he said, and robbed of $132 and his overcoat.

The hoodlums, he said, then drove off with his car, which contained nine hats he was to deliver. A short time later police found the car, hats and overcoat back at the corner. Police were seeking a hoodlum known as Albert Buccieri, identified from pictures by Alix as the driver of the second car.

GRANDFATHER never had a Sales Chart

THE old manufacturer who had built a world-wide business was asked to explain his success.

"I had a good product, so I told some neighbors about it," he replied.

Today that man's grandsons are struggling with problems of sales quotas, dealer inertia, jobber relations, mass merchandising, and all of the other aches which beset our complex marketing scheme.

Grandfather never had a sales chart... never toyed with illusions of national prestige. He made a good product, and kept telling more people about it in a straightforward, neighborly way.

Many a fine American business has prospered by that method. And what a grand program it is for this day and age!

A number of manufacturers are getting back to first principles in selling. They know that business cannot slide up the bannister, but that it will climb the stairs. And the only successful method of stair climbing is to take one step at a time.

They may not be able to talk to one hundred and twenty millions of people. But they are laying an enduring foundation by telling a few neighbors now.

Philadelphia is the third market in size, but first in importance from the standpoint of sales economy. One newspaper reaches nearly every home, gives thorough coverage of half a million families who spend one billion dollars yearly in retail stores.

The Philadelphia Bulletin has grown in a straightforward, neighborly way; printing news without fear or favor; avoiding sensationalism in the handling of news; using no prizes or contests to get readers.

For thirty-seven years The Bulletin has endeavored to reflect Philadelphia... content to win readers upon the permanent basis of reading confidence.

In 1895, The Bulletin had 6,317 daily sales. Today, 510,735. (October average). This is two and one-half times the sales of any other evening newspaper; more than all morning newspapers combined.

Half a million circulation in Philadelphia means that day after day, year after year, nearly everybody reads The Bulletin.

Gymnasium Teacher in City's Schools 46 Years.

Funeral services for Frederick Ludwig Jahn, who died suddenly Saturday night in the Grant hospital, will take place at 11 a. m. tomorrow in the chapel at 3834 Irving Park boulevard. Mr. Jahn, who was 68 years old and lived at 4717 Waveland avenue, was one of the first seven gymnasium teachers in the Chicago public schools and for 46 years exerted a wide influence on schoolboys and girls to whom he taught physical culture.

F. L. JAHN.

Born in Baltimore in 1864, he was a grandson of "Turnfather Jahn," originator of the famous German gymnastic schools. Jahn the elder had been a national hero in Germany and had refused the offer of a chair of physical culture at Harvard, to remain in his native land and continue the work he began.

Studies System in Germany.

Frederick Jahn spent one year of his boyhood in Germany with his father, studying the system. Five years ago when he returned there for a visit, he received an ovation and was given an audience by President Von Hindenburg.

When he was 22 he arrived in Chicago and began his career as one of the original staff of seven gymnasium instructors in the grammar schools. His frequent repetition of the words of Thomas Paine, "Nature is my God and to do good is my religion" was characteristic of his admonitions to his students in the schools, in boys' camps, and in chautauqua work.

15 Years at Crane High.

His last fifteen years had been spent as director of physical health at the Crane Technical High school.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Meta Meyer Jahn, and two daughters, Mrs. Margaret Fassnacht and Mrs. Dorothy Chapman, both of Chicago. Burial will be in the Montrose cemetery.

Manchukuo Congratulates Roosevelt; Asks Sympathy

CHANGCHUN, Manchuria, Nov. 14 [Monday] — (AP) — Foreign Minister Hsieh Chieh-Hsih of the state of Manchukuo today telegraphed congratulations to President Elect Roosevelt in which he hoped that the new American administration would "understand the real situation in Manchuria." He added that Manchukuo offered renewed pledges of an open-door policy and welcome to American trade and investment, in return for American sympathy.

Two Girls Killed by Train at Indiana Harbor Crossing

Two Mexican girls were killed by a Pennsylvania railroad passenger train yesterday in Indiana Harbor as they were on their way to church. The girls, Leabarbo Munez, 9 years old, and Lupe Ramiez, 12 years old, stood on the eastbound track at the Lincoln street crossing in Indiana Harbor while waiting for a westbound freight train to pass, and did not see the approach of the passenger train.

MOSES HOOPER, LAWYER-BANKER, IS DEAD AT 97

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Oshkosh, Wis., Nov. 13.—[Special.]—Death this morning brought to a close the long and active career of Moses Hooper, one of the most remarkable men in Wisconsin. He died in his 97th year, reputed the oldest national bank director in the United States and regarded as dean of the American Bar association.

Although he had not been actively engaged in the practice of law during the last two years he appeared before the United States Supreme court as recently as 1927 when he was 93 and and continued to practice until he was 95. He became a stockholder and director in the first National bank 64 years ago and continued in that capacity until his death.

Attorney for Kimberly-Clarke.

Mr. Hooper for half a century was counsel for the Kimberly-Clarke company and other large concerns obtaining hydroelectric power from the Fox river. The case in which he appeared before the United States Supreme court when he was 93 years old was one of almost continuous litigation between the power interests and owners of riparian rights along the Fox river from Green Bay to Lake Winnebago.

There was long argument concerning the height of the dam across the river at Neenah which regulated the depth of the water in Lake Winnebago and affected the depth in the river and along its shore.

The aged attorney continued his client's fight and refused to permit a younger man to take the long trip to Washington to appear for him before the Supreme court.

Educated at Yale.

Born at Lyman, Me., Jan. 21, 1835, Mr. Hooper came west in 1857 after acquiring his education at Bowdoin and Yale. After a short period at Neenah, Wis., he moved to Oshkosh.

Surviving are three sons, Ben, Orin, and Edward, and one daughter, Mrs. Otto U. Lange, all of Oshkosh. He also leaves six grandchildren and three great grandchildren.

AVOID UGLY PIMPLES

Does a pimply face embarrass you? Get a package of Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets. The skin should begin to clear after you have taken the tablets a few nights, if you are like thousands of others.

Help cleanse the blood, bowels and liver with Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets, the successful substitute for calomel; there's no sickness or pain after taking them.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets do that which calomel does, and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating.

Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound; known by their olive color. Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints, and Olive Tablets are the immediately effective result. Take nightly for a week. See how much better you feel and look. 15c, 30c, 60c.

Kill that COLD before it takes root!

Danger Lies In Letting a Cold Settle In the System!

Get at It Quick, from the Inside!

Never neglect a cold. Even a "slight" cold may be the start of something serious. Treat a cold quickly and treat it thoroughly. Don't fool yourself with half-way measures. A half-cured cold is a cold never cured.

A cold calls for a COLD remedy! Preparations good for half a dozen things besides cold can't be as effective as a cold calls for. Many popular remedies often only make the cold worse because they are constipating and also make the system acid.

A cold calls for internal treatment. A cold is an internal infection and only internal medication will reach it. Local, or external applications are only surface treatments and can't reach the root of the trouble or prevent the infection from spreading within the system.

The 4 Things Necessary

Ask your doctor and he will tell you, the wisest thing you can do when you feel a cold or grippe coming on is to take Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine. This is the treatment a cold calls for. It is direct, internal and complete. It does the several things necessary. First of all, it opens the bowels, a vital step in expelling a cold. Second, it kills the cold germs in the system, drives out the poisonous infection and reduces the fever. Third, it relieves the headache. Fourth, it tones the entire system and fortifies it against further attack.

Relief with Comfort!

Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine may be taken with utter safety by young and old. It is non-narcotic and produces no bad after-effects. It does not upset the stomach, nauseate, or make the head ring or swim. Thousands yearly depend on Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine as their protection in all cases of colds and grippe. Thousands tell us that their doctors frankly admit they could write no better prescription.

Every drug store in America sells Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine in convenient, pocket size boxes, cellophane wrapped. Taken promptly a few Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine tablets will usually expel a cold overnight and thus prevent the infection from spreading within the system. Beware of the dealer who tries to sell you a substitute.

ELECTION AIDS CRUSADER AND N.O.R.P.E. MERGER

Suggestions of a merger of the Crusaders, national organization advocating repeal of the 18th amendment, and the National Organization for the Reduction of Public Expenditures appeared yesterday to be nearing fulfillment. A statement issued by J. Russell Forgan, manager of the Crusaders in the 21 states comprising the western division, called attention to the accomplishments of both organizations.

Returns of the election of last Tuesday showed that the Crusaders' recommendations of candidates for 78 congress seats resulted in 61 winners in Illinois, Wisconsin, Indiana, Iowa, and Michigan, and that all the winners except nine carried the indorsement of either the Crusaders or the N. O. R. P. E., according to Mr. Russell.

"Repeal of the national prohibition laws is so closely allied with the fight to reduce taxes and public expenditures—the millions spent in attempted enforcement of the prohibition act is a pretty big item in itself—that it is impossible to tell where the work of the Crusaders will stop," said Mr. Forgan. "We feel that our work is not done. We have merely captured the first line trenches and any cessation of endeavor of our organization would be fatal to the cause."

BY RHEA SEEGER.

CLEVER fellows, these shopkeepers, for they have established some amazing new methods for feeling the palpitating pulse of the female shopper. Red tape has been slashed into tatters, reams of reports forbidding and complicated charts have been permanently shelved . . . and the grand result, the superelevator operator!

Haven't you noticed the difference . . . Remember when you walked for miles vainly hunting for stuff that every average homekeeper needed, trying to find every day necessities that were so well concealed that even Sherlock Holmes would have been balked? Now you merely ask the operator.

These trim uniformed elevator operators are veritable compendiums of store information, besides being probably the most decorative and busy members of the personnel. Well scrubbed faces that positively glow, coiffures that make the envious female passengers patronize the store beauty salon and a friendly, efficient manner are but a few of the virtues of these fascinating paragons.

You Receive Right Answer

Ask them anything and you get the right answer; try it and see. Whether you need fancy shelf paper with dots and lace edgings, whether you are on a wild dash to effect a difficult exchange with twenty minutes as a time limit, or whether you are guiding cantankerous Aunt Emma on her annual buying binge, these good looking gals who spend their days up and down between a dozen floors unquestionably know their groceries, or dry goods, furniture, or wearing apparel.

And watch their diplomacy during rush hours; watch how deftly and courteously they shut or slide that door right under your nose. Watch them unerringly collect the right amount of children that belong to a hurried and slightly dazed shopping parent. It's positive genius, at present anything but fully appreciated.

What a boon they are to scurrying male shoppers with a list of needs a mile long, hastily shoved into their pocket by a stay-at-home mate! A few faltering questions by the bewildered in . . . , a few concise and simple directions that any one could follow, and how the aggrieved gentleman beams his thanks.

They are in some cases business barometers to watchful shop executives, these snappy, wide-awake door sliders, with statistical information that would surprise the most skillful research or survey expert. What they know about good or bad days is nobody's business! They know almost to the last beret just how many shoppers make a good day.

The elevator operator is the first fine impression you get of any shop . . . think it over, what shops are your favorites, and admit that the gracious, friendly air of the operators who welcome you as though you were a guest instead of just another shopper, are the smiling operators in that shop.

They 'Sell' The Store

There should be a very special decoration for these girls during the frantic, frenzied season, when the great stampede is on for Christmas shopping. What the long suffering operators use for patience is a mystery, but snoop as you will, they always remain the same, the modern 1932 version of the important "contact man," the official store greeter that persuasively "sells" you that shop for the rest of your shopping days. Ziegfeld glorified the American girl, but wiser and more clever Chicago merchants have glorified the elevator operator!

Women Open Seventh Year of Symphony

BY HAZEL MOORE.

In inaugurating their seventh season, the Women's Symphony orchestra of Chicago chose both a new location and a new hour. Their concert yesterday afternoon took place in the gaily balloon bedecked north room of the Drake hotel, and the hour was that of Sunday vespers. A belated start failed to dampen the enthusiasm of a good sized audience for both changes.

Conductor Ebba Sundstrom led her forces through a well paced performance of the Second symphony of Brahms, wherein the deficiencies were more a matter of individual lapse than of the performance as a whole. The Overture to Weber's "Euryanthe," which opened the program, was given a spirited performance.

Leone Kruse, who received her early training in this city, returned as soloist of the day, singing two operatic arias, "Rittorna Vincitor," from Verdi's "Aida," and "Dich Theure Halle," from Wagner's "Tannhauser." She was warmly applauded by an audience which included many of the singer's old friends.

Continuing the all-woman music making of the day, the Joseffer String quartet, assisted by Rose Lyon Du Moulin, pianist, gave their first concert of the season at the Cordon club. At least two members of the quartet had functioned at the earlier afternoon concert.

Mrs. Du Moulin appeared in a sparkling performance of the Concerto in F, for three violins and piano, by Vivaldi. The quartet had previously set a vigorous pace in the Glazounow Quartet in A, opus 46, and later closed the program with the Mozart Quartet in A. All were well applauded.

Bad Weather Forces New Hunt Club at Wayne to Delay Jumps

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE cold weather yesterday brought to an end, at least temporarily, the jolly hunts those who ride from the Dunham Woods Riding club in Wayne have been having every Sunday morning during the autumn.

The ground with its thin film of snow was too slippery for jumping, but the two dozen who had assembled for the hunt rode just the same, and enjoyed to the utmost the breakfast which is served every week after the hunt.

The Wayne hunts are very different from the ones in Wheaton and on the north shore, for most of those who take part in the Wayne hunts are just learning to jump and there is no pack of hounds, nor pink coats, nor even an M. F. H., but those will come in time, and in the meantime the hunters have more fun perhaps than they will have when they are more expert.

And they will have just as many spills, too, for whether one is an inexperienced or an expert rider, a spill is to be expected at any time and unless one is hurt badly it all comes under the head of pleasure.

Austin N. Niblack, M. F. H. of the Onwentsia hunt, has promised to send a slow pack out to Wayne as soon as the hunters there are ready to ride with the hounds, but it looks now as if the kennels at the Dunham Woods club wouldn't be needed until next autumn, for although there will be other Sundays when the ground is suitable for hunting, every one hopes, there won't be enough to make it worth while to import a pack of dogs this year from Milburn, where the Onwentsia hunt has its clubhouse and stables and kennels.

Some of those who have been riding in the Wayne hunts are Mr. and Mrs. Joy Morton II. of Geneva—they are among the few experienced ones—and his sister, Miss Jane Morton, who motors over from Lake Forest almost every Sunday: John L. Dole, Leon Wheeler, the Milton Blairs, the George Woodruffs, the John Van Nortwicks, the David McDougals, the Perry Dryfiens, the Paul Magnusons from Barrington; Charles R. Lindsay III., and the Horace Wetmores of Wheaton.

Arrange for Winter Sports.

The usual number of "Vultures" follow in cars, of course, to watch the hunters take the jumps or refuse them, as the case may be. The clubhouse, which has been a popular country rendezvous for smart society all summer, is to be open all winter and as soon as there is good skating weather there will be crowds out there over the week-ends, for there is a skating pond down near the riding ring, where the horse show was held last summer, and a curling pond in the brook.

Curling is a Scotch game which is comparatively unknown around here, but out in Wayne it is a popular winter game, and there are curlers on the little pond every Saturday and Sunday when the ice is good. The old office in the clubhouse with its huge fireplace and its marble floor is being prepared for the skaters, and preparations are under way for a jolly season this winter. There is a fireplace in almost every room, for the clubhouse is the old Dunham farmhouse and until this year there has been no other heat in the building. Mrs. Charles C. West, the former Bernice Dunham, who is managing the club, says that they have discovered several sleighs in one of the old barns, so those at the club this winter will be able to go sleigh riding, too. Some of those who have made use of the club recently are the Harold Byron Smiths, the John A. Vincents, the Potter L. Smiths, and Miss Betty Hart and her fiancé, Donald Bateman of Barrington; the Willard Boydens, the Charles S. Garlands, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Welles, the Junior Harry B. Clows, and the Junior Robert J. Dunhams of Lake Forest, the

Every little improvement we give our home right now helps us—and the other fellow, too.

In the fall the time is opportune to examine the window putty, especially in the kitchen and bathroom. Reputty anywhere you see signs of the putty drying and falling out. Wherever you apply new putty make sure that the sash underneath is painted. Keep any worn spots on window frames and sashes touched up with varnish or other interior finish, as frost running down will, if finish is worn off, soak into wood. Watch especially the corners of all your windows. LOUISE BARGELT.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

Since columnists are, it appears, to be frequent visitors to our screens, then by all means let Lee Tracy portray as many of them as possible. He has the this, that and those which make him irresistible in a likable rôle and render palatable the most unsavory characterization.

This picture, adapted from the play of the same name, reveals him as—to quote young Alvin Roberts, "a punk kid from the advertising department" of the Daily Express, who gets a break and makes good. He's the mouse who plays while the regular columnist is away, and does such a neat job of increasing the paper's circulation by his racy items, that he's handed the position for keeps. It's not long before he's recognized by the world at large as keyhole peeper and reporter extraordinary.

As such Mr. Roberts falls heir to the pleas of the guilty, the cries of the helpless, the anathemas and libel suits of the wronged and the bullets—but there, I go giving away things.

His love is Gladys, a chatter writer on the paper. His particular aversion is one Bunny Harmon, a coyly smiling, sweetly crooning and most popular band leader. The one person who puts him to shame is a blonde revue singer whose life he messes up with his conscienceless publicity. His passion for telling of anticipated "blessed events" which, according to the opinion of the world, should NOT be anticipated, explains the title of the picture.

This movie has a good line of patter and there's plenty of action. You'll like the supporting cast. [Thoughts by the way: . . . Columnists have mothers—idea never occurred to me before . . . how much Ruth Donnelly who plays the hero's secretary, looks and acts like Winnie Lightner . . . you sure do understand why Alvin becomes ill at the sight of Bunny . . .] The piece has humorous situations and some that are far from that way. All, however, Mark Twain says you should never say "however"—are treated with just the right swift, light touch.

Direction was astute and you will be intrigued with the camera work. The latter is especially worth of comment in the melodramatic night club episode toward the picture's end.

Lee Tracy is sure a godsgift to the movies. What they ever did without him I don't know!

MINUTE MYSTERY CAN YOU SOLVE IT?

BY H. A. RIDLEY

Copyright, 1932, By Mac Tyndall Co., Inc.

Dr. Fordney is professor of criminology at a famous university. His advice is often sought by the police of many cities when confronted with particularly baffling cases. This problem has been taken from his case-book covering hundreds of criminal investigations.

Try your wits on it! It takes but ONE MINUTE to read! Every fact and every clew necessary to its solution are in the story itself—and there is only one answer. How good a detective are you?

AN INTERRUPTED JOURNEY.

The room in the exclusive Hotel Royale was strewn with luggage, apparel littered the chairs and it was obvious Miss La Mar had intended a journey.

The day before she had paid a month's rent in advance. Not having seen her since, Rogers, the hotel manager, became alarmed and investigated. Noticing several spots of blood on the floor near the bathroom door he opened it and discovered her dead. She was clad in lounging pajamas; a gun lay at her feet and blood from a temple wound, which had been instantly fatal, matted her blonde hair. A broken bottle of iodine was on the window sill, a glass in the medicine cabinet had been smashed and the bath mat was missing.

The doctor who arrived with Prof. Fordney informed him the girl had been dead about 24 hours.

"When I talked with her yesterday morning," explained Rogers, "she seemed very gay and excited. I asked where she was going, but she laughingly refused any information. She seemed to have everything—money, success, beautiful jewels. . . . I can't understand her suicide!"

"No. She wore them too frequently."

After a thorough search failed to disclose the jewels, Rogers suggested, "She might have taken them to her bank."

"I doubt it. The motive for the murder was probably robbery," quietly stated Fordney.

WHY DID HE BELIEVE THE GIRL HAD BEEN MURDERED?

Pays to Take Time to Apply Powder, Rouge

Sit Down to the Task, Says Antoinette.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

I heard it argued the other day that the women who are best made up are the women who sit down to prepare their faces. The assumption is that when you sit down to the task you give a few more minutes to it. You have the better mirror light to work by and you have more of the necessary "tools" to work with before you on the dressing table.

There is no disputing that you go about the face beautifying work more leisurely and more thoroughly when you are seated for the job. The idea of performing the duty standing insinuates a brisk, business-like performance, and rather hurried one. This necessarily is the only method open to women during their business day, since our employers have not seen fit as yet to supply our wash rooms with nicely appointed toilet tables.

The best application of an argument is to try out both sides and see for yourself which works best. See if in the morning, let's say, before you leave home your face wouldn't be better made up if you sat down to the job than to slap on the makeup just before you grab your hat and street car change.

One thing you will be more apt to do when you sit to the performance is to use a hand mirror. And this, in itself, is a great advantage, pictorially speaking. You get a side view on your job. I believe the world would be spared that oft seen circular blush on cheekbones were the hand mirror brought into play during the makeup application. From a front view only one does not get the full effect of the rouge application, nor of the powder. But turn a hand mirror on underneath a good, clear light and makeup flaws show up clearly in the side view glance.

If you sit down to the job you're more apt to cleanse the face thoroughly before you put on the makeup. You will be more inclined to put on a bit of foundation cream and this, I believe, is imperative in a good performance, especially if the face is no longer very young. If the skin is dry you want this base which serves also as a protective item both summer and winter.

If the skin is oily, an astringent will be used; no cream with oily content. Then, when you powder you'll wipe the powder over the face, not slapdash it on as one does in a hurried, standing performance.

The Murder of Caroline Bundy

By ALICE CAMPBELL.

SYNOPSIS.

Neil Starkey, American biographer, is engaged by Caroline Bundy to compile the life and letters of her late father, a famous English biologist. Caroline tells Neil that her father, a man of science, was also a mystic. Miss Bundy is in poor health and acting peculiarly. She has hired a photographer, named Tilbury, as bailiff, and he and his wife, an ill bred pair, hold a strange influence over her. The three hold nightly seances in the library. Natasha Andreevy, Caroline's half-Russian niece, acts as her aunt's secretary. She detests the Tilburys. Giles Gisborne, vicar of a nearby parish, and his sister, Rachel, are friends of Neil's. Neil is attracted to Natasha, but is baffled by her odd behavior. She is giving money to a man she meets secretly. Caroline promises to visit Emily Brasecton, an old friend, in Paris. Natasha drives her to London. Natasha returns a few days later and tells Neil that her aunt gave her a pearl necklace, which she sold. She receives a wire which Caroline sent from London asking her to search for an alligator bag left in the car. The bag is not found. Caroline doesn't reach Paris. The police are notified. Her body is found in a ditch near her estate. She'd been brutally murdered. The Tilburys are left Caroline's fortune, on condition they search for the Holy Grail in the ruin of an ancient abbey on the estate which Caroline believed to be her father's wish. Natasha is arrested. It is learned that the man she's been meeting secretly was her wastrel brother, Michael, who is wanted for theft and has left the country. News is received of his death. Natasha is brought to trial. She is freed, though still under suspicion. Neil continues the murder search. He suspects Albert Stokes, attendant at the garage where Caroline's car was kept, of stealing the lost bag, which Neil knew contained papers Tilbury might be anxious to recover. Natasha disappears. Neil forms a searching party. The dogs at the Bundy estate lead the trail to a crypt in the abbey ruin.

INSTALLMENT LV.

THE CULPRIT PASSES ON.

As Neil swung back the pick for the fourth time, there was a muttered curse from the rear, and at the same time the entrance-way was blocked by a man's figure. Tilbury, a wild light in his eyes, caught at him with one hand, while in the other he levelled a glinting object.

"Get out!" he snarled, thrusting himself bodily between Neil and the door.

The pick poised aloft, but even as the guardian of the door raised his right hand, the dogs shoved between Tilbury's legs, upsetting his balance. He kicked at them savagely, and with a powerful surge they sprang for him. The revolver thundered. When the acrid fumes cleared, one of the dogs quivered on the floor, with blood pouring from his side.

Again the pick described an arc above the sleek head, but the frantic man dodged in time. Before he could take fresh aim a steel grip closed on his throat, and when the second shot roared the bullet only grazed Neil's leg. Undeterred by the red-hot shock, Neil tightened his hold. From behind a sobbing thing that bit and scratched flung itself on Neil. Sharp nails dug at his eyes, a foot encircled his injured leg with such unexpected violence that he was thrown to the ground, dragging his prey down with him.

The next events crowded hard on each other's heels. Connie clutched him by the hair and with her free hand swooped down blindingly. Somehow she had got hold of the revolver. The cold ring of metal drilled into his forehead, and he knew the game was up.

"You fool!" The sound came from Tilbury's choking lungs. "You let the dogs out, blast you! And now you've done me in . . ." There was a cough, and more blood belched from the speaker's mouth.

The running figures appeared at the opening. Gisborne bent over the prostrate owner of Stoke Paulton, while the policeman wrenched the furious Alsatian away from Mrs. Tilbury's mauled person.

"Help me clear them all out!" panted Neil. "The woman'll want tying up, but don't waste time over her. It's our job to smash in this door and see what's down in that hole."

Already he was back at his task, slashing at the boards, while one of the constables found a rope in the tool hut and with it secured the screaming Connie, whom he laid on the grassy slope beside her husband. The latter needed no attention. A bullet through the jugular vein had finished his career.

The wood gave at last. Gisborne seized a lose plank and ripped it away. In a minute more the rectangle yawned before them, with the muddy steps stretching down into the black chasm. The ladder was fetched and lowered cautiously from the last foothold. Would it touch bottom? Just—but it was necessary for some one to steady it at the top. Neil pushed forward, but the younger constable thrust him back.

"Not you, sir, with that wound in your leg. I'll go. Just you hold on to the top rung firm as ever you can, for this ladder's not any too safe."

He sank from view into the dripping darkness. After long minutes a hollow voice came up.

"There is something, sir. Yes, it is the young lady right enough—crumpled up in a heap."

In a disk of radiance Neil saw a blanched face with sunken eyes lying in what he took to be a pool of blood, but which turned out to be the scarlet beret. He lifted one limp hand. It was icy cold. A dry sound came from his lips.

Neil was not clear as to what length of time the motionless form lay, wrapped in his coat, while he and Gisborne employed every known device to achieve an apparently impossible task. Brandy had been sent for, the doctor summoned. For long minutes—or was it hours? the two men labored in the stillness of the blue dusk, watching with bated breath for sighs which never came.

Then something happened. The dog, Bistre, pushed past them, thrust out a warm tongue and licked the girl's cheek. Neil saw the lashes faintly stir. Gisborne relaxed and mopped his forehead.

"Yes," he muttered. "Barely alive. God be praised! It's more than I dared hope for . . ."

It was one in the morning before Graves gave a definite pronouncement.

"She'll pull through—but it was a close shave. Another hour would probably have done for her. There's a slight concussion and her left arm's fractured, but if no complications set in from the exposure and damp we've nothing to fear. She mustn't be moved, of course. The nurse can manage very well with Miss Gisborne's help. That leg of yours fairly comfortable?"

"I'd forgotten it," answered Neil, but at the welcome news about Natasha he felt suddenly very weak.

"Keep off it—and take a stiff peg of whisky." The doctor paused, eyeing him with embarrassment. "Mr. Starkey, though it's no fault of mine, I feel I owe you an apology over certain things I said a few nights ago. There seems little doubt now that Tilbury engineered Miss Bundy's death. Whether he actually did the murder or not, I still don't know."

"Then the woman's said nothing?"

"No—but she'll talk, to save her neck. They've got her locked up in the county jail. I expect we'll hear something before long."

Towards daybreak Neil slept, and woke at nine to find Rachel beside him with a pot of steaming coffee. He could now see Natasha, if he would promise not to talk. His heart in his mouth, he pushed open the door of the adjoining room and stood looking down on the being he loved. The features were startlingly defined by a coif of white bandages. The eyes, dark and somnolent strayed over him with slow recognition.

For moments she lay still, and then, suddenly a tremor ran through her. She made an effort to sit up, her pupils strangely dilated.

"The papers!" she whispered in acute anxiety. "Where are they?"

"I found them inside your blouse. Look, here they are," and he held up a long manilla envelope. "Now don't speak again. Everything's absolutely all right.

A deep sigh escaped her. She sank back, and before long drifted into sleep.

Presently he drew from their covering a sheaf of manuscript pages, and set himself the task of deciphering what till now he had assumed to be Theodore Bundy's hieroglyphic characters. Only the second portion, he found, was in the dead scientist's hand, the other being written in round, unfamiliar script. Each sheet bore a date, set down by Caroline Bundy—but this was no diary.

At the end of twenty minutes he realized with a shock that here in his hands was the key to an elaborate and amazing plot—that Caroline Bundy's illness, her extraordinary will, her death, all were explained by this semi-coherent mass of scribblings. Easy now to see why Tilbury was so frantically anxious to destroy a record which at one stroke would have overthrown all his carefully built plans and brought him to the gallows.

However, before going further, it will be well to give an account of Natasha's experiences from Friday afternoon onward. Here is the story she told as soon as she was allowed to speak.

When she parted from Neil, she was already turning over in her mind a tentative decision regarding Bert Stokes. She resolved to see him at once and by cajolery or threats get the truth out of him. She went to the garage, but he was not there. Finding out where he lived, she repaired to Braircliff villas, only to learn that he had put on his best clothes and sallied forth, evidently on some pre-arranged appointment. This definitely alarmed her. What if even now he were on his way to meet Tilbury and effect the exchange?

Peattie Pens a Vivid Study in Psychology

'Sons of the Martian' Has Real Characters.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

IT is not cricket to discuss the "literature" of the book jacket in a review of the contents of a book which that jacket serves merely as dust cover. But occasionally something so crassly unfair to the book is printed on the jacket as to demand a warning from the reviewer, lest the reader be wholly misguided. Such is the case in Donald Peattie's "Sons of the Martian." With extremely laudatory words from Ellis Parker Butler and A. Hamilton Gibbs is printed a sentence from Irving Fineman, who a year or so ago won a prize for the best novel offered by the same publisher as does Mr. Peattie's latest opus.

DONALD PEATTIE.

Mr. Fineman says: "'Sons of the Martian' IS delightful, the suavest piece of writing since 'The Bridge of San Luis Rey,'" thus leading the reader to expect something of the quality and type of "The Bridge." "Sons of the Martian" IS delightful. In so far Mr. Fineman is right, but it has no more relation to "The Bridge of San Luis Rey" than it has to "Eugénie Grandet" or any other tale which has its own essential reality, and to mislead readers into expecting another "Bridge" is to prepare for the book an inadequate and unfair reception.

What "Sons of the Martian" has is inherent in itself, not in any sense stemming from or even resembling the most spectacular success of recent years. There is nothing of "The Bridge's" subtlety or its spirituality, nothing of its structure nor of its style. "Sons of the Martian" is a long, continued novel with its own subtleties, its own spiritualities, and its own style.

It is concerned with the subtleties of a national and personal psychology mostly foreign to us but so delicately analyzed and made comprehensible by its author as to make of the book something long to be remembered. In it a great scientist is delicately although almost casually depicted—for the Martian himself appears only for a short time in the narrative—it is his sons who form the substance of the book. In it is depicted the beautiful mistress of a great man who has been able to hold his love and to make for herself and her son the major place in his life, and Mr. Peattie does that depiction with the utmost delicacy of psychological understanding. In it there is the proper, tensely devoted spinster sister of the great man, a woman the very essence of the spirit of France of her class and period. That typical but essentially individual psychology Mr. Peattie has analyzed with alluring skill.

As a corollary to the sister there is the young ward of the great man, the child of the wife of the Martian's dead brother—killed in the war—and a German invader, a child who has an understanding of life and love deeply rooted in her heritage, a sensible, tender, young-old girl.

The sons of the Martian are the illegitimate Anton, son of the still beautiful mistress, an Anton who is known to the world as the great musician, Kalicek, and Neil McVicker, born Jean-Jacques Lamarck and taken as a baby by his American mother back to her native land, where she married a kindly, typical American and where the boy became essentially the product of his adopted country, as he became the son of his foster father.

The book opens with a pilgrimage which Neil McVicker makes to the house of his father [who does not know of his presence in France and who has actually forgotten the child's existence so long has it been since he was reminded of it and so far away in the stars does the great scientist now live]. They are destined never to meet, but all of the lives which surround the Martian are uprooted, changed in their destinies and replanted in different designs by the advent of the young American.

The "heroine" [in the sense that she is the woman who causes most of the havoc in the book] is a cosmopolitan of great beauty and a passionate love for one of the brothers. She is, it seems to me, the only character in the book which Mr. Peattie does not depict with great skill, the only character which is anything but intensely real, no matter how casually that character comes into the book. Karen is the one false note in an otherwise beautifully conceived and executed symphony of type analyses.

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Penniless and Alone.

"I am an elderly woman, penniless and alone. I worked all my life and saved my money and then lost it in poor investments. A friend is giving me lodging for help I give her around the house, but I have no money to buy even the necessities. I need a winter coat, size 42, and a pair of shoes, size 8. Do you think you could get them for me? D. R."

Here is a woman who hardly deserves her fate. All her life she saved her earnings, looking forward to the time when she would no longer be able to work. Those savings have been wiped away and she is destitute. Can you help her?

Brushes Away Gray Hair Keeps Permanent Wave

Now you can really look years younger. Simply brush away those unsightly streaks or patches of gray. It is so easy to do—and at home—with Brownatone. Over 20 years of success recommend this proved method. With an ordinary small brush you just tint your hair back to its natural shade—whether blonde, brown or black. Guaranteed harmless. Active coloring agent is purely vegetable. Does not coat the surface. Actually penetrates the hair. Defies detection. No tell-tale, flat "dyed" look. Cannot affect waving of hair.

No need to guess. First cut a lock of hair from your head and apply a little of this famous tint. If Brownatone does not give your gray, streaked, dull, or faded hair its natural color, youth and sheen, your money back. Only 50c.

New Hunt Club Is Forced to Halt Practice

Two Big Parties for Suburbs.

The residents of Geneva and Hinsdale who often come to the city for social functions won't be leaving their own little towns for anything in the city on Thanksgiving eve, for both of those towns are to have their first large parties of the season that night. In Geneva the vestry of St. Mark's Episcopal church will give a dinner dance at the Geneva Golf club to raise funds for the church, and the committee in charge is planning to make the party an outstanding one in every detail.

Ralph W. Davis is chairman of the committee, the other members of which are Mr. and Mrs. Milton J. Blair, Mrs. John E. Kuhns, wife of the rector; Nathan D. McClure, Leonard C. Mead, Mrs. George Moseley, Mrs. Albert Newcombe, and George W. Overton. Several of these and numerous others in Geneva and Wayne are planning to have guests out from town for the affair.

The Junior Infant Welfare's charity ball in Hinsdale always is a notable social affair of every season, but this year it is to be a county fair with gay booths, games, dancing, etc., as attractions, and no great expenditure of money on decorations or refreshments. The Hinsdale club will be turned into a rustic market center for the occasion by the women in charge, including Mrs. William Wallace Kimball, general chairman; Mrs. J. J. Holcomb, Miss Jane Willis, Mrs. Robert Hasbrook, Mrs. M. L. Stockton, Mrs. John Eddy, and Mrs. Walter M. Sheldon.

Miss Cornelia Conger is giving a small luncheon at the Casino tomorrow for Reginald Townsend, who is to talk to the Women Interior Decorators' association tomorrow night at their meeting at the Petite Gourmet. Wednesday the directors of the association and the board of governors of the American Institute of Interior Decorators, Illinois chapter, will give a joint luncheon at the Arts club for Mr. Townsend.

Hospital Tea for Debutantes.

The Junior auxiliary of the Children's Memorial hospital is giving a tea this afternoon at 4 o'clock at the hospital, 707 Fullerton avenue, for the debutantes of the season, who are being invited to give them the opportunity of seeing the institution and realizing how much their interest and cooperation is needed in the volunteer work. Mrs. W. Stearns Agar Jr. is chairman of the Junior auxiliary.

The Chicago and North Shore Wellesley clubs each year give money for a scholarship to one girl, and this year they gave $150 to a second girl, so they are having a benefit card party to raise that extra $150 this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Belden-Stratford hotel. There is to be a prize to each table and tea will be served after the game.

Miss Winifred Wheeler, another one of the Chicago girls who went east for Saturday's game, is expected back tomorrow, too. She was accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Robert C. Wheeler.

The Misses Betty and Anne Smith, daughters of the Harold C. Smiths, also will be back in town tomorrow from Princeton, where they saw the game. The Smiths have moved in town from their Lake Forest residence to Mrs. Freeman Hinckley's apartment at 209 Lake Shore drive for the winter months, and Mrs. Hinckley has joined Mr. Hinckley and her daughters in Boston for the winter.

Two others of the popular young girls who went to Princeton for the game and who will be back tomorrow are Miss Isabel Gordon, daughter of the Frank M. Gordons of 1430 Lake Shore drive, and Miss Jane Fortune, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Fortune of 1451 Astor street.

The Chalkley J. Hambletons are returning early this morning from having spent the week-end at their Fish Creek, Wis., place, where they often go for week-ends even during the cold weather. Miss Jessica Hambleton has joined the ranks of "wolking gals" and goes every day to the Newberry library where she is employed.

Mrs. Higginson Rogers is leaving tomorrow or Wednesday for New York to return to Paris, where her two children are awaiting her, after a week's stay with Mr. and Mrs. James W. Rogers of 25 Scott street. Mrs. Rogers, who lived here when she was married to Bernard F. Rogers Jr., has been busy seeing old friends in town and in Lake Forest.

Large Tea for Mrs. Frost.

There will be many Chicago and north shore residents driving west to Geneva on Sunday, the 27th, for the Robert Fauntleroys are giving a large tea that afternoon for Mrs. Fauntleroy's daughter, Mrs. Inglis Folger Frost, and Dr. Frost, who will arrive the day before for a week's visit with the Fauntleroys.

Mrs. Frost is the former Elizabeth Baker and this will be the first chance her many friends here have had to meet her husband, except those who have visited them in Morristown, N. J., for they were not married in Chicago and this is their first visit here since their marriage a year ago last July.

Mrs. Samuel T. Chase asks us to announce that the monthly home-dressmakers' sale at the Rummage shop will take place a week earlier this month on account of Thanksgiving. It will be held this Thursday and Mrs. D. Mark Cummings will be in charge.

Several thousand roses will be on display at a rose show at St. Chrysostom's parish house Friday afternoon and evening for the benefit of St. Mary's Home for Children.

Descendants of Mayflower.

If your forefathers were among that gallant band who came to this country in the Mayflower you will be interested in the thirty-sixth annual banquet to be given next Monday evening at the Blackstone hotel by the Society of Mayflower Descendants. Dr. Allen D. Albert is to talk on "Progress in a Century of Progress." Henry A. Rumsey is governor of the society, Mrs. Seymour Morris is secretary, and Edgar M. Snow is treasurer.

An engagement announcement of interest here is that made in New York of Miss Bettylee Rich, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles V. Rich of 1220 Park avenue, New York, to Robert E. Kenyon Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Kenyon of Lake Forest. The announcement was made at a dinner dance at the Sleepy Hollow Country club at Scarborough-on-the-Hudson.

Miss Rich attended the Roger Ascham school, the Masters school, and was graduated from the Sarah Lawrence college last June. Mr. Kenyon was graduated from Kenyon college and attended the Graduate school of Princeton university. He is a Beta Theta Pi and a Phi Beta Kappa. No date has been set for the wedding.

The International theater is to present a comedy, "Papa," on Friday evening at 8:15 o'clock and on Saturday at 11 and again at 2.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Nov. 13.—[Special.]—Attorney General Mitchell has returned to his Washington home from from his home in St. Paul, where he went to vote. Mrs. Mitchell, who was with him there, will join him in a few days.

The assistant secretary of the treasury and Mrs. James H. Douglas Jr. went to Princeton Friday to witness the Yale-Princeton football game.

Senator and Mrs. Hiram Bingham, Senator and Mrs. David A. Reed, and Senator and Mrs. Wallace H. White all have returned to their Washington home for the session.

Parisian Waistlines May Vary, but Couturiers Agree on High Necklines

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—New laces for old are easy in these days of beauty science, but not even science has invented a way of preventing ladies from revealing sagging or thinly covered neck muscles. It is left to fashion doctors to defeat Father Time and Mother Nature in this respect. Whether the couturier had that in mind or not, it is certain that necklines are coming up in the fashion world this winter. Couturiers may place your waistline almost anywhere on your anatomy, but they are all agreed that bare expanses below the throat, for day, are taboo.

The neckline actually placed high is the obvious way they do this, but there are also a multitude of scarfs, berthas, collarettes, etc., to cover neck sins. In the sketch today are shown some of the new fashion necklines for young and old. In the upper left hand corner is the new version of the Lanvin collarette that is excellent on the simple wool or silk frock. In white piqué, it is just shoulder length and has a high stand-up collar fastened with a black velvet bow. It buttons down the center front on three buttons.

BY MARY MEADE.

"There goes the ink!"

How many times have we jumped—too late—to avert disaster from the overturned ink bottle, the paint can or the dye kettle, or have we gazed sadly down on our new bib and tucker which in some mysterious fashion has got chummy with blood, grease, rust, or what not, and which obdurately refuses to be cleaned?

But, since it is human to err, we shall probably go right on spilling on our silken revers, sitting on fly papers, dipping our elbows in mayonnaise and generally destroying our pristine attractiveness. That being the case, a campaign of stain fighting seems in order, and from the number of calls we receive each week from housewives, bachelors, and bachelorettes with spots to spare, the following suggestions for stain removers clipped and tucked into the front of your file or recipe book should be a real life saver in the event of spots.

Blood: Soak the stains in lukewarm water, then rub out gently in a succession of lukewarm waters. Hot water will set blood. Ammonia added to the water will help dissolve old stains. If a yellow color lingers, sponge with hydrogen peroxide if this will not injure the color of the goods. If it will, wash in hot, soapy water. Javelle water may be used as a last resort for white cottons and linens. Blood on blankets may be removed by spreading the spots heavily with a paste made of raw starch and cold water. Let dry and brush off. Repeat until stain is gone.

Bluing: Wash at once in several cold waters, then in warm, soapy water. If a yellow stain remains, remove with Javelle water or remove as for iron rust. Rinse thoroughly.

Candle wax and paraffin: Scrape off the free wax gently, rub with turpentine or cold lard and wash in warm soapsuds. For nonwashable materials, sponge the area with carbon tetrachloride, chloroform, or wood alcohol.

Cocoa and chocolate: Here are combinations of grease and coloring matter. If the material will wash, hot soapy water is sufficient. If a stain remains, white cottons and linens may be treated with Javelle water. For nonwashable materials, sponge with carbon tetrachloride or chloroform and follow, if necessary, with hydrogen peroxide.

Coffee: Soap and water are usually sufficient. If the stain is fresh, place taut over a bowl and pour boiling water through the stain from the height of a yard. Bleaches—Javelle water for linen and cotton and hydrogen peroxide for nonwashable materials—may be used if they will not injure the color of the material.

Cod liver oil: For white or washable goods with fast colors, boil in soapsuds containing a little hydrogen peroxide. On nonwashable materials, spread the cloth over a bowl of boiling hot water containing 1 teaspoon of ammonia. Sponge the area with soapsuds and drop hydrogen peroxide on the stain.

Cream and milk: Washable materials should be soaked in cold water, rubbed with soap, and let stand an hour; then washed in warm suds. Nonwashable materials should be sponged with carbon tetrachloride, gasoline, or wood alcohol.

Dye: White cotton and linen may be washed in Javelle water. Colored washable goods should be washed in warm suds and sun dried. If this doesn't remove the dye, soak several hours in a concentrated solution of any good soap and then boil. This is likely to be hard on colors. Silks and wools may be cleaned by applying hydrogen peroxide to which ammonia has been added.

Egg: Soak the material in cold water, then wash thoroughly in lukewarm soapsuds. For nonwashable material, let the egg dry on, then scrape off gently and sponge out the rest with carbon tetrachloride, gasoline, or other grease solvent.

Fruit juice: Fresh stains which contain only sugar and color may be frequently removed from wool and silk by sponging with warm water. With washable materials, secure over the top of a bowl and pour boiling water through the stain from a height of a yard. With white linen or cotton follow this treatment with Javelle water to bleach. With many materials with firm coloring, oxalic acid may be applied directly to the spot and then boiling water poured through. Alternate this treatment until the stain is removed. A milder bleach of white vinegar or lemon juice and sunlight often is sufficient.

Glue: Soak the material in lukewarm water for several hours. Wash in warm suds. For nonwashable goods sponge with white vinegar or lemon juice diluted half and half with water.

Grass, vegetable coloring, etc.: Silks and wools which cannot be washed may be sponged with wood alcohol over several thicknesses of clean absorbent cloth. For washable materials, put through several suds baths, and rub well. If the stain is not removed, Javelle water may be used on white cotton or linen and potassium permanganate on white or many colored goods. If a stain is left by the permanganate, remove it from wool with hydrogen peroxide and from silk, cotton, or linen with oxalic acid.

Grease: When a material is washable, simply rub the spot with kerosene, then rub out in warm soap and water. Grease may be removed from carpets by the application of corn meal rubbed into the spot and then brushed out. For wools and silk, spread the material over a clean pad and apply some fat solvent [carbon tetrachloride, gasoline or chloroform], rubbing gently from the outside of the spot to the center. If the material is inclined to be spotted by the solvent, it may be necessary to rub the whole section of the garment lightly with the solution to keep a ring from forming. Be sure to use a clean place on the rubbing cloth and a clean portion of the absorbing pad frequently during the sponging.

Gum and fly paper: Scrape off all possible, soak in water or white of egg and wash in warm suds. If nonwashable, sponge the stain with a grease solvent [carbon tetrachloride, gasoline, etc.].

This list will be concluded in this column tomorrow.

Yet Says He Can't Give Up Sweetheart.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"I am a married man with two children. I love my wife, but for years I have been in love with the bookkeeper in my office. We have both confessed our love for each other. I sometimes wonder which woman I love best—my wife or sweetheart. The latter claims to be so much in love with me that she will never marry another.

"I am in a mess, Miss Blake. I want this girl and I want my wife and children, also. I wouldn't make them unhappy for the world. The girl has often tried to break off our companionship and is trying to look at things in the right light, as she is very sensible. She is willing to make any sacrifice to make me happy.

"We are both in a blizzard and cannot find the way out. Tell us what to do, but don't ask me to give up the girl. I love her too much. I'd go insane without her. OTTO."

Why ask my advice, Otto, if you have your mind dead set against what you are most likely to hear? There's nothing else to do but give the girl up. If you can't give her up for your own sake, for your wife's sake or for your children's sake—then, try to be a man for the girl's sake. Better that you go insane yourself than be the cause of wrecking the happiness of four other human beings. However, insanity will not ensue if you restore enough human character to your being to make the sacrifice. On the contrary, your future sanity will be better assured.

Granted you got into the mess as the result of daily propinquity; that the girl has an attraction for you that is hard to combat; even that, in your opinion, you can love the two women at one and the same time—there is still a duty you owe yourself, society and the two women principals in the case, to say nothing of the two youngsters who probably now look up to you as a pillar of everything that is fine and great.

You agree that you wouldn't make your wife and children unhappy for the world. How are you going to avoid making them unhappy continuing this other relation? How are you going to make the girl happy? Or yourself? You're in a blizzard, you admit. You're never going to get out of it until you restore to each of these separate individuals their moral right to happiness.

Let the girl go. Encourage her to go. Give her a chance to work out a legitimate pursuit of happiness. You're not the first man confronted with the problem. But the bigger and better among you victims of the eternal triangle put the happiness of others first.

Parents Prone to Desire the Perfect Child

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

Doesn't it seem fair not to expect more from the children in self-restraint, in thoughtfulness and in politeness than we practice ourselves? It's a theory of mine that we do expect more. Because we're older, we're in command of children and we have to teach them so much that we get into the habit of sitting in judgment on them most of the time. We do too much correcting—notice faults too much. It gets to be distinctly a habit of mind or attitude.

This critical attitude is true of the subject of manners, which we touched on only lightly yesterday. Two or three angles of the fault finding habit happen to have come to my notice lately.

One is in the matter of interrupting. It's considered quite too awful for a child to interrupt a grown person. In ordinary conversation in a living room or at the dinner table we frown down on such a procedure. Yet any one of us will interrupt a child again and again.

And worse it is when we're out with a small child and meet a friend—and talk and talk and talk. The children may get restless and tired and stand and fidget, but they are not expected to interrupt "when mama's talking." Yet we will try their little legs and self-control almost beyond endurance. And many a small child has had an "accident" because "children mustn't interrupt."

Then, there's another thing. How do you listen to a story the children may be telling you or what happened during the math. exam. or why their school lost the football game, or how the dancing teacher has planned the class party? Haven't you seen other parents—even if you haven't done it yourself—get that scrutinizing look and say right in the midst of such an absorbing recital, "When did you get that cut on your cheek, Joan?" or "Tommy, did you wear that dirty shirt to school?" or "Helen, you must not forget to cut your finger nails tonight"?

That story is as important to the children as any grownup recital, but we wouldn't think of barging into one with "You do need a shave, Bill," or "For the love of Mike, Jane, why did you get a finger wave again?"

Manners shouldn't be one sided in a family when there are children. But they often are.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Chicago's Bears failed to take second place in the National Professional Football league yesterday as they had planned. The best they could do against the Spartans of Portsmouth, O., was another tie, their fifth of the season. The final score was 13 to 13. Fifty-five hundred watched the game.

After getting a touchdown in the first quarter the Bars succumbed to the driving attack of the Spartans in the second period and left the field at the intermission trailing, 13 to 7. Each eleven took advantage of the strong southeast wind during its point manufacture.

Portsmouth again had the wind in the third quarter, but was held safely in midfield. Then in the last quarter the Bears resorted to passes and scored their tying touchdown. Tiny Engbretsen, who had kicked the first point after touchdown and in so doing had made his fifth in a row, missed the attempt for what would have been the winning point.

No Other Scoring Threats.

Neither team threatened other than the times touchdowns were scored. The Bears had a weight advantage in the line but, nevertheless, needed all seven of their linemen to halt the spectacular plunging of John Cavosie and Ace Gutowski and the off tackle flashes of Dutch Clark and Glenn Presnell. Clark was the most elusive back on the field.

Clark reached his peak performance when he set the stage for Portsmouth's second touchdown with a run of 40 yards after he had gone back to pass and found no receiver open.

Portsmouth used only six linemen for its scrimmage defense. The full back and the center backed up the line and the other backs spread out in a row about 15 yards behind the line. This formation was effective except on lateral passes which twice fooled the defenders of the ends of the scrimmage line for long gains.

Grange Twists Ankle.

Red Grange twisted his ankle just before the opening kickoff and did not get into the lineup. Joe Kopcha, a regular guard, also was on the bench. Roy Lumpkin, one of the mainstays of Portsmouth defense, received a bad cut on his face from a cleat, but stayed in the game.

This tie game, the Bears' fifth, probably sets a league record. The Bears have two victories against one defeat, and while the Spartans also have been defeated, they have won four games. This is the difference between second and third places.

The Bears marched 62 yards for their first quarter touchdown. George Corbett, Keith Molesworth and Bronko Nagurski hammered away to reach Spartan territory. Then Molesworth shot a lateral to Corbett for a gain of 26 yards. On third down Dick Nesbitt went through center for 19 yards, being stopped on Portsmouth's 6 yard line. On the next play Molesworth split the center of the line on a quarterback sneak for the touchdown. Engebretsen kicked the extra point.

Spartans March to Goal.

The Spartans received the kickoff and never relinquished possession until they crossed the Bears' goal line. Starting from their own 28 yard stripe Portsmouth did not make a single gain of more than five yards until deep in Bear teritory, but the steady momentum of its drive did not diminish. Gutowski finally lifted a pass to Clark for 12 yards, which placed the ball on the Bears' 20 yard line.

Gutowski plunged for one yard and then Clark went around his right end for a first down 8 yards from the Bear goal. An offside penalty cost the Bears five yards, but Gutowski, Presnell and Clark could go no farther in three tries. On fourth down Clark passed to Presnell in the end zone for a touchdown. Clark's drop kick for the extra point was wide of the posts by two feet.

Portsmouth kicked off to the Bears and, when the Spartans got possession on their own 47 yard line after Moles-

New York, Nov. 13.—[Special.]—A field goal by Benny Friedman gave the Brooklyn Dodgers a 3 to 0 victory over the Chicago Cardinals today. The Brooklyn captain booted a place kick from the 15 yard line in the first quarter. A crowd of 17,000 attended the game at Ebbets field.

It was a bitter struggle from beginning to end. The Cardinals were fighting to win the first game of their eastern invasion and the Dodgers to break a five game losing streak in the National Football league.

Cards Lead in First Downs.

The Cardinals offered such a stubborn defense Brooklyn made only four first downs and two of these were on passes. The Cardinals collected nine first downs, but most of these came in the middle of the field when they didn't matter.

Grossman played an important part in the Brooklyn triumph, his quick kicks time and again catching the Chicago defense off guard to send the Cardinals back deep into their own territory. Walter Holmer, former Northwestern star, played a brilliant game for the visitors, his punting and forward passing being a threat throughout.

Friedman, on first down, dropped back, and, faking a pass, swept off tackle for a gain of 11 yards and the initial first down of the game. Two plunges yielded only one yard and Friedman resorted to the aerial game. His first pass was knocked down, but the next throw went straight to Riblett, who was downed as he caught the ball on the 7 yard line.

Two bucks at the line produced a yard, and, when a pass failed, Friedman decided to play safe and make a try for a goal from the field. Standing on the 15 yard line he sent over a perfect placement, to give his team the only points scored all afternoon.

SING SING TEAM REGISTERS ITS HIGH SCORE, 46-0

Ossining, N. Y., Nov. 13.—[Special.]—Sing Sing prison's football team is progressing so well it set its all-time record high score today, beating the Bronx Parkway eleven, 46 to 0.

Two New York City policemen, Collins, formerly of the Union college grid squad, and Ekert, formerly of Fordham, played with the Bronx club, along with a scattering of Manhattan, Ohio State, and New York U. graduates. The presence of the patrolmen provided Sing Sing an additional stimulus to score, for its best showings have been made against teams containing football playing officers.

Hayes made three touchdowns, Alabama Pitts two, and Sando and McLaughlin made one apiece.

TALKING IT OVER

BY ARCH WARD.

Chevigny was quoted in this column as picking the Notre Dame team of 1930 as the greatest he has seen, professional or amateur. His remarks were particularly interesting in view of the fact that he makes a livelihood out of the professional game.

RALPH JONES.

The Cardinal coach compared the Notre Dame team of 1930 and the Green Bay Packers of 1932 man for man. His conclusion was in favor of the last team developed by Knute Rockne both collectively and individually.

The conductor of this column has received hundreds of letters from readers commenting on Chevigny's ratings. Professional players, college coaches and fans who lay it on the line every Sunday have had their say.

A Green Bay rooter writes in to say that he always suspected sports writers were a little balmy and that he was thoroughly convinced since publication of Chevigny's statements. Another berated Chevigny for mentioning Notre Dame and the Packers in the same breath. Others applaud his frankness.

There, of course, never will be a decision, because no college team is going to accept a challenge from a professional team.

We could carry on the argument for weeks with the ammunition on hand, but it will be concluded with a letter from Ralph Jones, coach of the Chicago Bears. This is what Mr. Jones has to say:

"Now that the argument of whether a leading college team can beat a leading National league team is revived by my good friend Jack Chevigny, new coach of the Cardinals, I, too, would like to make a few remarks.

"Having coached football at Wabash, Purdue, and Illinois during my 21 years in the game, and being now in my third year in the professional league, I believe I am in a position to make some comparisons.

"It is a fact that few college players who were outstanding stars in college have entered the National league and made good at once as, on the face of it, it would seem that they should make good. This inability to make good at once is mainly due to the fact that they are called upon to play against eleven men who were also great players in college.

"It no doubt is true that one could name a college player now who would appear to be a better individual performer than a particular National league player, but with few exceptions, when the real test comes it doesn't work out that way, and the real reason is that no player in college is ever called upon to face a defense such as is put up by the professionals.

"No college team was ever put together that could or would have the nerve to claim that its first string eleven was composed entirely of the greatest, or even the near greatest, players in the land. If that, by any stretch of imagination, were true, there would be no trouble in picking the All-American team.

"To take any college eleven and compare it man to man, or as a unit, with a pro team isn't equitable for the reason that a college doesn't pick its players, and the pro teams do. We have in mind the best college eleven and the best pro eleven.

"Jim Jones might enter the National league and prove superior to Johnny Brown, a veteran pro; it has been done—but that is the exception that proves the rule.

"But where the average college star is up against it at first, is the defense he meets. In this regard there is absolutely no comparison, and here, as I see it, are the reasons:

"No pro team can afford to keep a player weak on defense no matter how good he may be on offense. The pro player is given a great deal more latitude in his defensive play than a

Pick Site Today

COACHES and officials will meet this morning in the offices of Secretary A. H. Pritzlaff to choose the site of the Chicago Public High School league championship football game between Morgan Park and Englewood next Saturday.

Mount Carmel High school, en route to its second successive Chicago Catholic High School league football championship, stopped at Loyola stadium yesterday, picked up a 7 to 6 victory over De Paul academy and went on its way to the finals, where it meets St. Mel next Sunday. St. Mel qualified for the final game when Fenwick triumphed over St. Ignatius, 12 to 6, at Crevier stadium to give St. Mel the west section championship.

St. Mel's idleness yesterday was caused by a protest of the first Fenwick-St. Ignatius game, which was ordered replayed. St. Mel concluded its sectional schedule last week, winning three games. It was tied once. St. Ignatius, its first defeat by Fenwick thrown out, occupied second place in the standings with two victories and one tie.

Record Is Broken.

De Paul, leading high scoring team in the Chicago district, gained some solace in the defeat. When it scored in the second quarter, De Paul ruined Mount Carmel's season record of not having been scored on in eight games. De Paul's touchdown was scored by Bill Steinkemper, star full back, in his only attempt to carry the ball during the game.

Steinkemper, suffering from a hip injury, donned his uniform and took a place on the bench. In the second period De Paul reached Mount Carmel's 1 yard line. Three attempts failed to put the ball over. Then Steinkemper limped across the field, took the place of Wally Hehn, regular half back, and a moment later the ball was over for a touchdown. Steinkemper then returned to the bench.

Bad Pass Ruins Chance.

But De Paul's hopes of a tie game were shattered when it tried a pass for the extra point. The pass clicked, but the receiver, Bill Muellner, was standing far out of the end zone. However, Mount Carmel might have administered a worse defeat, for after several scoring opportunities it marched down the field to De Paul's 1 yard line. With four attempts to make the yard, the gun went off ending the game.

Mount Carmel wasted little time in turning on the power. On the opening kickoff Jim Murphy, half back, sent the ball to De Paul's 30 yard line. De Paul lost ten yards on two attempts and then punted, John Fogel, Mount Carmel center, picked up the ball on the 35 yard line and raced to the goal line for a touchdown. Murphy then kicked the extra point.

Fenwick took the lead early in the first quarter in its game with St. Ignatius. Thompson, who replaced Craft at quarter back, caught a 20 yard pass from Wiltenback and ran five yards to score. Fenwick's second touchdown came in the second period, Norris running around right end for ten yards.

St. Ignatius did not score until the last quarter when Full Back Sullivan caught a pass behind the goal line.

Oakland, Cal., Nov. 13.—(AP)—Bob Carey, Anderson, Ind., race driver, finished second in the 150 mile auto championship at Oakland speedway today to amass a point total of 815 and clinch the national driving championship.

Carey, who trailed Wild Bill Cummings of Indianapolis by 100 yards in a thrilling finish, led the field of drivers in points and became national champion in the eyes of the A. A. A.

Third place in today's race went to Ernest Triplett of Los Angeles, Fred Frame of Los Angeles, Memorial day winner at Indianapolis, and Howard Wilcox of Indianapolis failed to finish because of motor trouble. Nine others of the 15 starters were eliminated.

Cummings by his victory boosted himself from seventh to fifth place in the national standings. The race was punctuated frequently with dangerous skids and two participants were injured in a smashup. Lester Spangler of Los Angeles and his mechanic, Spider Matlock, both were injured when Spangler's machine turned over on the 12th lap. Spangler suffered a fracture of an arm and a broken finger and Matlock was cut and bruised.

Cummings established a new world's dirt track record for 150 miles of 1 hour 39 minutes 29 4-5 seconds, A. A. A. officials announced after the race. His average speed was 90.40 miles per hour. The old record of 78.94 was set by Red Schafer at Syracuse, N. Y., eight years ago.

Carey established a new world's record for 100 miles of 1 hour 4 minutes 25 seconds, against his own previous record of 1 hour 5 minutes 34 seconds.

HALL VICTOR IN PLAYOFF; ENTERS U. S. CUE MEET

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 13.—(AP)—Allen Hall of Chicago became the second of two representatives of the northern division to earn the right to enter the world's three cushion billiard tournament when he won two of three playoff matches here today. Clarence Jackson, who won the northern divisional competition, is the other entry from this division.

In the playoff necessitated by a three way tie, Hall defeated Charles McCourt of Cleveland, 50 to 40, in 61 innings and Earl Lookabaugh of Chicago, 50 to 45, in 65 innings. Lookabaugh defeated McCourt, 50 to 37, in 53 innings, in the other playoff match.

Horton Smith Wins Capital Golf with 216

Washington, D. C., Nov. 13.—(AP)—Horton Smith, Oak Park, Ill., today shot a 69 for winner's money in the national capital open at Kenwood Country club.

HORTON SMITH.

At that he was six strokes over perfect figures for the 54 holes. But his 216 was made in the face of a stinging gale that blew many shots awry and turned hands blue.

Tony Manero of Elmsford, N. Y., had 222. Then came Francis Gallett of Wauwatosa, Wis.; Johnny Golden of Noroton, Conn., and Tommy Armour of Detroit, tied at 223.

Hagen Out of Money.

Al Houghton, Kenwood pro, finished in sixth place with 225, and after him, tied at 226, were Johnny Farrell of Quaker Ridge, N. Y.; Al Watrous of Birmingham; John Kinder of Greenbrook, N. J.; Eddie Williams of Cleveland, and T. Phil Perkins, only Englishman in the contest.

Smith, continuing the winter pilgrimage, went Pinehurstward with top money of $700; Shute with $500, Manero with $300, Gallett, Golden, and Armour with $133 each; Houghton with $100, and the other leaders with $70 apiece.

Smith Better Each Round.

The 23 year old Smith played increasingly better golf to win. His first round brought him a 74, his second a 73, and the last the money making 69, one under par. No other golfer equaled par figures on any round.

To get his 69, Smith shot four birdies, more than making up for the three holes on which he went one over par.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The Blackhawks and the New York Americans last night opened the 1932-'33 hockey season in Chicago by battling at the Coliseum to a 1 to 1 tie. A crowd officially announced as 7,200 witnessed the overtime inaugural.

Both of the goals were made by the defensive players. In 10:35 of the first period Teddy Graham rammed home the Chicago counter in a solo effort and in 19:40 of the second session Duke Dutkowski, who played with the Hawks when professional hockey was born in Chicago in 1926 in this same Coliseum, took a pass from Normie Himes and batted in the tying marker. There was plenty of hard and able playing thereafter, but threat after threat died on the verge of realization.

Satisfied by Switch.

Representatives of Maj. Frederic McLaughlin, who took his team back to the old Chicago "cradle of hockey" following a controversy with the Chicago Stadium, which had been the home of the Hawks for two and a half years, said the results of the switch had been encouraging and that with a gathering in excess of 7,000 at the Coliseum the organization could make more money than could be gathered from the Stadium with 5,000 more customers. About 12,000 attended the opener at the Stadium last year, but this was far from the average for the year, it is said.

The players were obliged to operate on a rink 100x80 as compared with the 110x85 area used at the Stadium, but this seemingly made for more personal clashes, all of which appeared to please the spectators.

Interesting Game of Hockey.

The ancient structure was well seated, the ice was in perfect condition and the premises had been cleaned up to the satisfaction of the most fastidious. Between the first and second periods a shout of "We want the Stadium" went up, but this was marked down as the work of a claque engaged for the purpose. Even so, the idea died out, and the rest of the way the fans settled down to watching what proved a rather interesting game of hockey.

No Loafing in 70 Minutes.

The Hawks showed themselves to be in good shape for the long campaign. All fought hard and none loafed at any point in the 70 minutes of play. In the matter of skill it would be difficult to choose from the three lines, though the Ripley-March-Romnes trio seemed to please the fans most. All expect to improve their

Stadium to File Suit for $150,000 Against Hawks

Suit for $150,000 damages will be filed in Superior court today by the Chicago Stadium corporation against the Chicago National Hockey Team, Inc., Sidney N. Strotz, Stadium president, announced last night.

The suit is based on alleged breach of contract and breaking of a lease. The Stadium contends it holds a lease signed by Maj. Frederic McLaughlin, which calls for the Blackhawks to play out the present season in the west side arena. The Hawks opened their home schedule at the Coliseum last night.

McLaughlin contends the Stadium broke the lease when it failed to abide by the agreement in fixing dates for the season. The Stadium will contend that there was no disagreement over dates and that the Blackhawks club was given the dates it requested.

Boston, Mass., Nov. 13.—[Special.]—The Green Bay Packers defeated the Boston Braves, 21 to 0, today before a crowd of 25,000, the largest in the history of the pro game here.

The Packers scored all three touchdowns in the first half on a bewildering aerial attack with Arnold Herber, formerly of St. Regis college, passing to Roger Grove, Verne Lewellen and Johnny Blood.

Early in the first period the Packers marched from midfield to the Braves' 15 yard line, where Herber came in for Englemann and passed to Grove for a touchdown.

Half way through the second period Green Bay marched 95 yards to the second score, three passes figuring in the advance and the last one from Herber to Lewellen bringing the score from the 21 yard line.

A 23 yard pass from Herner to Blood, standing alone in the end zone, accounted for the final touchdown almost immediately after the second.

GIANTS WIN, 27 TO 7.

After Art Schiebel had plunged seven yards to give Stapleton the first touchdowns, the Giants countered with two touchdowns in that quarter, one in the third and one in the fourth. Cagle scored twice for the Giants, once on a 70 yard run and again on a pass from McBride. Tom Jones, Giant lineman, recovered a fumble for another score and McBride passed to Burnett for the fourth. Molenda kicked three goals for the Giants. Ken Strong added the extra point for Stapleton.

Wesleyan Has Firm Hold on Grid Crown

Smothering State Normal, its traditional rival, 14 to 0, on Armistice day, Wesleyan virtually clinched the conference championship. The defeat toppled the State Teachers from undisputed conference leadership into fourth place.

Wesleyan, blessed with a heavy line and speedy back field, must beat Shurtleff college Saturday at Bloomington in order to win the championship. It is pressed closely by another strong and relentless team—McKendree of Lebanon.

McKendree Wins.

McKendree whipped Eastern State Teachers of Charleston Saturday, 50 to 6, to win its fourth consecutive victory. Wesleyan and McKendree now are the only undefeated, untied teams in the conference. Augustana, which won its fourth victory by defeating North Central, 7 to 6, last week, has been tied once.

Millikin university landed in fifth place by whipping Elmhurst, 13 to 0. Macomb Western Teachers won their fourth game by defeating Shurtleff, erstwhile conference leaders, 13 to 0, at Alton. St. Viator moved into a tie for ninth place with Bradley Tech and Lake Forest by whipping Illinois college, 13 to 7, while Bradley turned back Monmouth, 20 to 14, at Peoria.

Other conference results last week included the scoreless tie between Carthage and Eureka and the 6 to 0 victory claimed by De Kalb Northern Teachers at Wheaton.

End Season Saturday.

This week, with its seven conference games, will all but conclude the season. Knox and Monmouth will supply the nightcap with their annual Thanksgiving day contest at Monmouth.

MINNESOTA DAILY URGES PAY FOR VARSITY PLAYERS

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 13.—(AP)—Terming football at all large universities "a business proposition," the Minnesota Daily, student paper at the University of Minnesota, asks editorially "why not pay the deserving workers."

"The most important cog in the money making machine is the football player and his only return is 'that tired, aching feeling' and a lot of slush about 'fighting for the dear old alma mater.' Why not pay the deserving workers?"

Publicity which can be turned to profit is obtained from the gridiron by "only a mere handful of players from each college" and the rest of the men have been "marking time as far as preparation for their future is concerned," the Daily says.

Snow Starts Blackbirds on Way to South

BY BOB BECKER.

It was "bye bye blackbird" last week when the freezing temperatures and winter storm invaded Wisconsin and Illinois to tell the lingering flocks of birds that they had better get started for the south. The "bye bye blackbird" refrain could be sung with absolute accuracy because thousands of birds of that species streamed through the cold air, taking advantage of northwest winds to travel southward from northern marshes.

It was the second time this fall that loop office workers could step to a window and watch birds go over the loop in an interesting migration. During October we had a storm which produced a similar sight. At that time the number of species of birds on the wing was large. When winter cracked the whip a few days ago we were able to see only blackbirds and hawks.

Many Stay On North.

The blackbirds are, of course, quite independent of the regular migration schedules which many of our song birds follow. Long after scores of summer residents have gone to warm, pleasant countries far to the south of us the grackles and blackbirds bum around in large flocks, swarm over the marshes and continue to stay in the north if the weather isn't too severe.

However, last week's storm was apparently too much for many of the birds. So down they came in straggling flocks or in a great billowing wave which didn't clear the tops of Chicago's skyscrapers by many feet. At 1:25 o'clock in the afternoon we looked out to see just two blackbirds flying down the Chicago river and behind them came a marsh hawk, just taking it easy as he worked his wings for a few beats and then soared in the strong wind.

Grackles Hide in Marshes.

Both the grackles and the blackbirds have been making a lot of fuss in the duck hunting marshes along the Illinois river. A few days ago when we were along the Sangamon river a flock of anywhere from 1,000 to 2,000 grackles stayed around our blind and gave us the most terrible exhibition of squeaking, croaking and wheezing that we have heard in a long time.

The birds covered the dead timber near us for hundreds of yards on all sides. Although we fired a shot into the air to scare them away the relief was only temporary because they were back again in a few minutes. With the grackles numerous and with long necked cormorants skimming over the blinds, the ducks have had some queer company in the Illinois river marshes.

McMillen, Dusek Arrive for Mat Bout Tomorrow

Dusek and McMillen forgot to wrestle and started dugging each other when they met here last September. They were suspended six months by the state athletic commission, but the ban was lifted when they promised to wrestle according to rules.

Some of the other wrestlers on the card also arrived yesterday. One was Everett Marshall, the Colorado platinum blond. Marshall meets George Zaharias, the Greek from Pueblo.

Hans Kampfer will trade holds with Joe De Vito. Two other matches complete the card.

SHADE AGREES TO STADIUM BOUT WITH BATTAGLIA

Dave Shade left Chicago yesterday for New York after signing a blanket contract with the Chicago Stadium for a bout with Frankie Battaglia, Winnipeg, Can., middleweight. A date for the match will be set as soon as Battaglia accepts terms.

Shade will be unable to box for several weeks because of an eye cut received while defeating Sammy [Kid] Slaughter of Terre Haute, Ind., at the Stadium last Friday. In whipping Slaughter, the New Yorker avenged his only defeat in nine contests this year.

A double windup features the weekly amateur boxing show tonight at the Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street. Jimmie Cummings and Anton Hedmond are paired in one bout and Gene Weiss and Steve Dusek in the other. Five other fights and one wrestling match will complete the card.

TROJANS NEAR SECOND STRAIGHT TITLE ON COAST

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 13.—(AP)—Southern California was the only undefeated, untied major team in far western football today. The Trojans are within striking distance of a second straight coast conference title and the right to represent the west in the annual New Year's day game for mythical national honors.

BEARS RALLY IN FOURTH PERIOD TO TIE SPARTANS

Clark raced to the Bears' 13 yard line after dropping back to pass and failing to locate a receiver. Gutowski plunged for a yard and Clark grabbed a pass for six yards. In two more line plays the Spartans made first down on the Bears' 3 yard line. Gutowski smashed over for the touchdown on the next play. Clark drop kicked the extra point for a 13 to 7 lead.

Corbett and Carl Brumbaugh combined to give the Bears the start for their fourth period touchdown. Corbett's pass toward the sideline gained 10 yards, and Brumbaugh raced 35 yards more to the Spartans' seven yard line. Then Bronko Nagurski, the powerhouse of the Bears, went into action. On his first smash at the line Bronko made all except six inches of the ground needed. His next plunge was stopped on the one yard line. The third time Bronko carried the ball he dived over the pileup and into the end zone.

Brumbaugh held the ball for the try for point, but the oval squirted from Engebretsen's foot and the Bears' opportunity for victory vanished.

The Bears made 14 first downs to 10 for the Spartans. The Bears got seven first downs on running plays, six on forward passes and one by penalty.

It's Up to Minnesota to Halt Wolverines Saturday.

Illinois and Wisconsin shot off the Big Ten fireworks Saturday in conference competition. They had help from Ohio State in providing unexpected thrills, but the Buckeyes' defeat of Pennsylvania, of course, doesn't help their case in the Big Ten.

Illinois defeated Indiana, 18 to 6, for one of the major upsets of the season. The victory was the first at home since 1929 and the second this year. In 1930 the Illini won only one conference game and in 1931 they lost all their conference games. Illinois must be on the upgrade, but it can be added that Indiana, all season, has played up and down football.

Hoosiers Due for Good Finale.

After tying Ohio State, 7 to 7, and defeating Iowa, Indiana lost to Chicago in the season's first major upset. Following a revival of hopes by a great fight against Michigan a week ago, when the Wolverines won, 7 to 0, Indiana now has slumped to a new low. If the order of events continues, Indiana will make a great fight against Purdue to finish the schedule.

The Illini were superior in everything except punting, but the running of Gil Berry balanc t this item. Illinois was scored on first but the points were handed back when Indiana called for a forward pass deep in its own territory and Froschauer intercepted the ball and carried it to Indiana's 2 yard line.

Berry's running accounted for the second touchdown and his passing was the basis of the third. He had excellent cooperation from Jack Beynon, who marked up one run of 61 yards in addition to catching Berry's pass for the last score.

Badgers Capture Thriller.

Wisconsin's victory over Minnesota, 20 to 13, was contrary to most predictions. The game was a thriller of the type which comes along once a season. The Badgers haven't played an indifferent football game this fall unless it was at Ohio State. Ohio held a weight advantage which the Badgers could not overcome, but even so, Wisconsin came out of that struggle with a tie based on Red Peterson's touchdown run on return of a kick. Wisconsin's only defeat was accomplished by Purdue by the margin of a kick after touchdown.

Mickey McGuire opened an afternoon of thrills by returning the opening kickoff 87 yards for a touchdown. He closed the afternoon by scoring the winning touchdown in the last 30 seconds on a pass from Joe Linfor. In between he caught another Linfor pass for the middle score of the Badger series. Wisconsin comes nearer playing to 100 per cent of its ability than many of the conference elevens. And it should be added that its attack fits its material. In blocking and tackling the players have improved week by week, and these are the essentials of football.

Michigan Nears Title.

Michigan continues on its way, whipping Chicago, 12 to 0. Michigan's defense, which has been penetrated only once in five conference games, continued to function perfectly. While running and passing plays from scrimmake collapsed, Harry Newman took the ball over for two touchdowns with the aid of excellent blocking. The first was a return of a kick and the second followed a pass formation on which no receiver was in the open. It was the duplicate of the play which paved the way for Michigan's victory over Indiana.

Michigan now meets Minnesota in the final of the year Saturday. If Michigan wins, it will hold undisputed possession of first place in the Big Ten. If tied, Michigan will share first place with Purdue, provided that Purdue wins from Indiana. Saturday the Boilermakers had no difficulty in beating Iowa, 18 to 0. If Michigan loses to Minnesota, and Purdue wins, the title will go to Purdue.

Notre Dame Superior.

Northwestern and Notre Dame added another chapter to their football feud which rivals that of many universities which have competed together for longer periods. Notre Dame won, 21 to 0, scoring on the opening kickoff when Melinkovich raced 95 yards, and adding another in five more minutes on a forward pass. This pass came on fourth down, with 12 yards needed, and was good for 22 yards. The third touchdown was pushed over in the fourth period. It came on fourth down and five yards from the goal line.

Ohio State added further laurels in non-conference competition by defeating Pennsylvania, 19 to 0. Penn previously had lost one game, a 19 to 12 defeat by Pittsburgh. Ohio's third touchdown was made by recovering the kickoff in Penn's end zone, an unusual play. Both teams are eligible to recover the kickoff, but Penn's backs forgot this and Varner dropped on the ball.

Nebraska held Pittsburgh to a scoreless tie, which should eliminate the Panthers from national consideration despite victories over Army and Notre Dame. Ohio State also has held Pitt scoreless. One week ago Nebraska barely nosed out Iowa, 14 to 13, proving again that comparative scores mean nothing.

Princeton on Upgrade.

Princeton finished its season by tying Yale, 7 to 7. Princeton has lost two games, won two from minor opponents and tied Cornell and Navy in addition to Yale. The season marks definite upturn of Tigers' fortunes under Fritz Crisler, serving his first year as head coach.

The battle of undefeated teams—Brown and Columbia—left Brown on top by the margin of a point, 7 to 6. Outplayed for three periods, Brown marched 80 yards to its touchdown. Colgate defended its record by whipping Syracuse, 16 to 0 and keeping its goal line uncrossed. Harvard beat Holy Cross in effort to salvage something from the season's wreck before meeting Yale.

Alabama Poly defeated Florida, 21 to 6, and since Vanderbilt and Tennessee played a scoreless tie, now leads the Southern conference.

Southern California had no difficulty winning from Oregon, 33 to 0, and remains in a tie with the University of California. Southern branch, for the Coast conference title. However, U. C. L. A. does not boast a perfect record as do the Trojans, for last Friday St. Mary's upset California, 14 to 7, in non-conference play.

DICK TRACY—Resolved!

HOW LONG WILL IT BE BEFORE I CAN GET OUT OF HERE, DOC?
WELL—THAT ALL DEPENDS, TRACY. PERHAPS TWO WEEKS.
TWO WEEKS? WHY—YOU COULDN'T KEEP ME IN HERE TWO WEEKS IF YOU CHAINED ME IN!
YEAH? AFTER ALL—TWO BULLET WOUNDS AREN'T TO BE SNEERED AT, YOU KNOW.
OF COURSE THE ONE ON YOUR SHOULDER IS QUITE SUPERFICIAL—BUT THAT LITTLE PERFORATION IN YOUR BACK—WELL—IT WOULD HAVE KILLED AN ORDINARY MAN
NO MATTER WHAT THE DOC SAYS—I'VE GOT TO GET OUT OF HERE! I'VE GOT WORK TO DO. THERE'S A LITTLE TYKE THAT'S EATING HIS HEART OUT IN A CELL BECAUSE OF THIS SHOOTING. I'VE GOT TO CLEAR HIM!

Northwestern to End Season Against Iowa; Rentner Out

Northwestern university will face its final opponent, Iowa, next Saturday at Dyche stadium without the presence of Ernest [Pug] Rentner in the back field lineup. Rentner was bumped hard and sustained two broken ribs early in the Notre Dame game last Saturday.

Wildcat scouts returned from Iowa City impressed by the improvement shown by Iowa while assimilating an 18-0 defeat at the hands of Purdue. It is likely, however, that the Northwestern running game will be called into play more in this contest than it has in the past when Purple linemen were working at a weight disadvantage.

Fight to Escape Cellar.

Northwestern is generally conceded to have a better team than its record shows, but cannot afford to slip next Saturday. A defeat would topple the Wildcats into the cellar. The Hawkeyes are yearning for the chance to climb out of last position, which has been theirs for the last three seasons.

One of the sophomore backs may get a chance to fill in for Rentner. Harry Leeper is the most likely candidate to start against Iowa in Rentner's place.

Coach Dick Hanley praised his men for their performance against Notre Dame. He rgarded the work of Al Kawal and Jake Sullivan as the feature of Northwestern's play. Ollie Olson's kicking and the defense shown by the tackles and ends also came in for favorable mention.

Praises N. U. Defense.

"Except for three lapses, our boys played almost a flawless defensive game," Hanley said. "Kawal will be the best guard in the Big Ten in another year or so. How that little Jakie Sullivan can do all he does is a mystery to me, but he does and I'm not the only one to be amazed at his play."

Aside from Rentner's injury the rest of the squad came out in good shape. The Wildcats will report at the regular practice hour this afternoon, but today's work will not be strenuous.

MAROONS ON SPOT AGAIN.

Having faced the two leaders of the Big Ten on the last two Saturdays, the Maroons now must meet the third place eleven, Wisconsin. But the Maroons are by now thoroughly inured to meeting tough teams, and three consecutive defeats haven't taken away their elastic optimism.

Next Saturday's game on the Midway will have added interest because there is a good possibility that it may be the last time that Coach Stagg will send a Maroon team into action. And there will be that much incentive to the team to give their coach a pleasant lift.

Practically the same team which was used at Ann Arbor will take part in the Badger battle. Hugh Mendenhall and Pete Zimmer suffered minor hurts last Saturday but they are expected to be ready for the season final. Walter Maneikis, guard who was injured three weeks ago, probably will not be available, however.

Though the Maroons had secret hopes about beating Michigan, their defeat, almost a single handed affair of Harry Newman's, did not dash them particularly, since the Wolverines accumulated only four first downs.

WOLVERINES IN SHAPE.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 13.—[Special.]—Michigan will launch preparations for its last and probably hardest battle of the season with a light drill tomorrow afternoon. Minnesota is conceded a chance of upsetting Michigan's title ambitions, but this is a large order for the Gophers in view of the fact that the entire Wolverine squad will be in shape for the game at Minneapolis on Saturday.

Willis Ward, sophomore end, suffered a slight injury to his ankle in the Chicago game, but the remainder of the team came through without a scratch. The two Johns—Kowalik and Regeczi—are feeling more like themselves again and should be ready to start against the Gophers.

The four days of practice before Michigan leaves for Minneapolis will be confined to sandpapering the edges of the attack and no chances will be taken with injuries.

PURDUE EYES INDIANA.

Purdue's victory over Iowa marked the thirty-ninth game in which the Boilermakers have scored one or more touchdowns and the thirteenth without defeat.

The Boilermakers returned here this noon apparently in good physical condition with the exception of Paul Pardonner, quarter back, who suffered a leg injury. Although it is hoped that Pardonner will be in shape for the Indiana game, Coach Noble Kizer plans to groom James Peelle, junior quarter back, for the possible starting assignment.

ONLY TWO BUCKEYES HURT.

Columbus, O., Nov. 13.—[Special.]—Ohio State's first string football players will witness their first full football game of the season tomorrow when the freshmen and reserves open their annual series.

The varsity will rest until Tuesday so that all will be in perfect condition for the final game with Illinois at Champaign on Saturday.

Only Hinchman and Cramer suffered more than the usual bumps and bruises in the victory over Pennsylvania. Both, however, will be able to practice during the week in a modified form.

When Ohio meets Illinois it will mark the 21st game in their series, started in 1902 and unbroken since 1914. Illinois holds the edge in victories with 11 to Ohio State's 7. There were two ties.

ILLINI EXPECT AIR DUEL.

Champaign, Ill., Nov. 13.—[Special.]—An Illinois football team which, in the opinion of Coach Bob Zuppke, appeared as if it had begun to find itself as it clicked against Indiana rested happily today before beginning preparations for the Ohio State game here next Saturday.

It is predicted that the Buckeye-Illini battle will be largely waged in the air. Illinois scouts reported Ohio State's decisive victory over Penn was chiefly due to the passing combination of Hinchman and Gilman.

The Buckeyes completed 10 out of 16 against Penn and Illinois 10 out of 20 against Indiana, with Capt. Gil Berry throwing accurately to Beynon and Froschauer.

Jack Beynon clearly won his spurs at quarter back and Zuppke will stick to the back field combination of Berry, Beynon, Froschauer and Walser or Snook. Beynon's punting at yesterday's standard greatly improves the effectiveness of the Illini. Pete Yanuskus will be ready but will be held to relieve some back later.

FIRE DESTROYS WHITNEY OFFICE, TURF RECORDS

Lexington, Ky., Nov. 13.—(AP)—Fire believed to have started in an overheated furnace in the basement, this morning destroyed the one story frame office on the C. V. Whitney farm six miles from here on the Paris pike. Damage was estimated by Frank Jones, business manager of the farm, at between $17,000 and $20,000. The loss was covered by insurance.

The greatest loss was in the destruction of breeding records of famous Whitney sires and dams. As far as could be learned, no copies of the records were kept.

college man. This is mainly due to the fact that the pro man has had more experience.

"The pro player is more capable, for this reason, of working better with the man on either side of him, as well as back of him. It is not uncommon for these men to exchange assignments to fit an anticipated move by the offense. This comes only with experience. It is true some college men have the knack of doing this and they, as a general rule, are the ones who make good in the big league.

"The pros are continually changing their defense during a game. For example: As you come out of the huddle and line up you may meet any one of the following defenses: 6-3-2, 6-2-3-1, 6-2-1-2, 7-shallow diamond, 7-deep diamond; 7-2-2 deep or shallow. The question may arise, why not line up and call the signals without going into a huddle, to enable seeing how the defense will be set?

"The answer to this is, that when the defense meets this situation they do not get set. They move around, and it is not uncommon to see tackles, ends, and guards, moving around and the secondary men shifting about with apparent laxity, when in truth they are extremely alert to converge at the point of attack.

"In closing I would like to say that professional teams are at times criticized for their lack of hysteria in action. Experience has taught them that the cool, calculating player is the efficient one, the guy to look out for."

CHICAGO TEAM BOWLS 3,613 FOR WORLD'S RECORD

The De Barry Insurance bowling team established what is claimed to be world's bowling record last night in the Classic Bowling league when it scored games of 1,128, 1,243, and 1,242 for a total of 3,613. The total surpasses the former record of 3,561, established early this year by the Robert M. Sweitzers in the Bruck league.

The team game average was 1,204, the individual average 722, and the individual game average 240. Louis Levine set the pace with 781, Harry Kaad was second with 762, and Jake Lenzen was third with 745. George Notz helped along with 703, while Joe Burke, off with a 152 start, managed to collect 622 with a 269 finish.

The league race failed to tighten as the leading Lorenz Knitting won three from A. J. Cermak, and the Green Rivers dropped two to the S. and L. Motors by margins of 4 and 1 pins, respectively. Scores:

The smaller skating area didn't seem to hamper the players, especially the Hawks, who took the puck into the Americans' defensive zone repeatedly, beginning with the opening faceoff.

Several minutes had elapsed before the spectators got to let out a real louud holler, however, the first actual excitement of the season coming when Romnes and Ripley precipitated a scramble which made Woltera dance about right merrily. The effort eventually was repulsed, though, and the fans quieted down for a spell until Gottselig got a shot without molestation from the New York defensive forces.

Scores on Solo Effort.

The Hawks' first home score of the year came rather unexpectedly. Graham, standing in his defense position, beheld the puck deserted between the blue lines and with great dexterity dashed for it. He picked up the disk, swerved to his left a bit, and when he got about 15 feet in front of the net took his shot. The puck lifted perfectly and sailed past Worters' right arm, about 2½ feet above the ice. The official time of the goal was 10:35.

Shortly after the goal, Wasnie, Fillmore and Keating ganged on Gardiner for a few hot seconds, but Chuck stood off the foray. The main business during the remainder of the opening session was stirred up by March with a long, accurate shot which nearly got by, and a merry sally by Thompson and Gottselig, which missed a score by a split whisker.

During the period the Hawks were the aggressors most of the time, but couldn't cash. March and Romnes had the puck to themselves in front of the net after six minutes of play, but they couldn't get the disk flattened out for any good purpose, and eventually it rolled away. A few seconds later Romnes got through the defense, but Worters, by instinct alone, stopped his closeup shot. Later on March, Ripley and Bostrom took wicked shots. Somehow Worters' pads were in the way.

The last five minutes saw some pretty rough play. This resulted from an accident to March. The little fellow, for several seconds unnoticed by the officials and players, was discovered sprawling near the Hawks' cage, registering great pain. Play was suspended while first aid was given and Mush was assisted from the ice. It later was revealed that Sheppard had taken what the Hawks claimed was a sly whack at his right ankle.

The third period was a hard fought affair, enlivened by a slow whistle policy on the part of the officials.

Unable to Break Through.

The Hawks stuck to team play, rarely resorting to long shots. The biggest threats were developed by Cook, Holmes, and Jenkins at the outset of the session, an artistic though futile short pass attack by Bostrom, Gottselig, and Thompson, whichnarrowly missed production, and a stirring foray by Romnes and Ripley in which a two ply closeup bararge failed because of a couple of miracle

As soon as the overtime got under way the Americans revealed they had abandoned their notorious tendency toward defensive hockey by making it miserable for Gardiner for a couple of minutes, with Sheppard, Patterson and Filmore the fomenters. The wicked behavior was halted only when Patterson was escorted from the rink with a large gash over his eye.

The tide turned a bit when Cook made a stirring solo attempt, followed by a rush negotiated by Holmes and Jenkins, both of which ended on Worters' dancing boots.

DE PAUL FIGHTS ST. THOMAS TO SCORELESS TIE

Fumble Stops Minnesotans on 2 Foot Line.

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 13.—[Special.]—De Paul university of Chicago and St. Thomas battled to a scoreless tie in the mud here today.

The undefeated Chicago team outweighed its opponents several pounds to the man but was unable to get going on the muddy field. When its running attack failed, De Paul took to the air, but completed only two of 19 passes, because of the slippery ball and slow footing.

Fumble Costs Touchdown.

A fumble cost St. Thomas a chance for a touchdown late in the second period. St. Thomas took the ball on its own 40 yard line after an exchange of punts and Walsh and Weides went to the 25 yard line on running plays. A pass, Walsh to Egan, and another, Walsh to Schnieder, advanced to within two feet of the DePaul goal, but on the next play Weides fumbled and the ball was recovered in the end zone by De Paul for a touchback.

In the third quarter De Paul completed a 31 yard pass, Steffen to Oldani, to reach St. Thomas' 27 yard line, but the next pass was intercepted by Walsh.

St. Thomas made 8 first downs to 4 for De Paul. The Chicagoans were penalized 80 yards to St. Thomas' 25.

Ernie Butcher Hurt.

ALL GRAINS RISE AS ORDERS TO BUY INCREASE

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Constructive influences have brought about a pronounced change in sentiment among grain traders. Buying orders for wheat and all grains have appeared in greater number in the last few days and advances in wheat do not meet with the same resistance from sellers as they did in the last several months.

More disposition to buy is in evidence and, despite the two holidays in the last week, orders in the hands of commission houses were enlarged. Many of these orders come from the public, who have waited for the passing of the election, to buy wheat, believing that the market will gradually do better. Strength in stocks and cotton, with increased buying, has also been an important factor and even the small increase in the steel orders is having an instructive influence.

Longs Anticipate Profits.

Trade expectations are for better markets, with an irregular upward tendency. The theory is that 50c wheat, far below the cost of production, should eventually pay good profits. Wheat has had a maximum decline of 18c a bu from the recent high point of 60c, with all futures at one time selling below the 50c level. There has been an advance of around 4½c from the low point, with prices the highest since Oct. 25 on wheat and Oct. 18 on corn.

At the close on Saturday wheat prices were 2 to 2⅛c higher than the previous week, with corn up 1¾ to 2c, oats ⅝ to ⅞c and rye 2⅞ to 3¼c. Even barley, in which there has been no speculation until the last few days, has become active and advanced.

Foreign Exchange a Factor.

A significant factor in the last 10 days has been the unsettled condition of the foreign markets and fair buying of Canadian wheat by Europe and the Orient, China taking a fair quantity.

An improvement in the flour business, with the recent record purchase of 825,000 barrels from southwestern millers by a large eastern baker, equivalent required 4,000,000 bu of wheat, is an indication of a change for the better in the milling trade. Continued light receipts from the country and the terminal markets have given a fair warning to the trade that farmers are tired of selling wheat below cost. Canadian farmers, however, are selling liberally for the season.

Another important factor was the reduction in the Canadian crop in the three western provinces to 411,000,000 bu, while for months the trade has figured on 425,000,000 to 440,000,000 bu, compared with 284,000,000 bu last year.

Drop in Crops Expected.

Some of the optimism comes from the fact last summer France, Germany, Italy, and Spain had crops far above normal. Canada had a very large crop, and so did our northwest. There were very poor crops in the winter wheat districts in the Balkan states, but generally speaking yields were above normal, which might not be repeated.

Looking far ahead, there is the worst drought in western Kansas, parts of Oklahoma and northern Texas in years, suggesting a smaller acreage than recently, and unless there is an abundance of moisture to carry the wheat there already germinated, Kansas and the southwest is in for another short crop. All of these factors suggest a steady reduction in supplies. The most unfavorable feature in the situation is the absence of export demand, which is most important.

Week's Wheat Prices.

December wheat in Chicago closed Saturday at 45⅝@45⅝c, May, 50⅜@50⅝c and July, 51⅞@51⅞c. A feature was that the weekly offers on wheat and other grain showed a profit at the close. Offers on December wheat for this week have sold at 47⅞@51⅞c and bids at 39½@43c. May offers sold at 54½@57c. Prices for the week follow:

	December.	May.	July.
Monday	44 -45⅝	49¼-50⅜	50⅝-52
Tuesday	Holiday
Wednesday	43⅜-44¼	48⅝-49¼	49⅝-50⅝

Saturday	44⅜-46⅛	50 -51⅛	51⅛-52¾
For week	43⅜-46⅛	48 -51⅛	49⅛-52⅜
Prev. week	41⅞-44¼	46⅞-49⅜	48¼-50⅜
Last year	56⅛-58¾	61⅜-73	61⅜-73¼

1931	44⅛-69	48¾-72½	49 -73¼

Corn Situation Mixed.

Investment buying of corn has enlarged, the market has gained friends, and prices have advanced, in sympathy with wheat and in the face of a bearish government report, showing 358,000,000 bu more corn in the five leading states than a month ago.

Eastern railroad officials have refused to grant the emergency rate of 50 per cent below the regular tariff during the winter months to facilitate a big increase in the export movement. The question, however, may come up in another form. Unless lower rates are secured export business is likely to be curtailed. Domestic consumption and general waste, because of low prices, is expected to enlarge.

Movement from the country is liberal, despite low prices, but is expected to decrease inside of thirty days, unless prices advance, as farmers by that time will have disposed of their surplus, for which they lack storage room. December closed at 26⅝@26⅞c; May, 31⅝@31¾c, and July, 33⅜c.

Industries Buy Oats.

Industries were credited with buying oat futures on weak spots and professional and commission house buying improved moderately during the week, with selling pressure limited. Movement from the country remains small. Prices strengthened in sympathy with other grains, with December closing at 16¾c, May, 18⅞@19c, and July, 19¼c. Changing operations from near to distant futures featured trading at the close.

May Reduce Dividends of Life Concerns

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 13.—After withstanding three years of depression, the country's life insurance companies are preparing to take further steps to make their financial stability doubly certain regardless of what the economic future may hold. Indications are that some actuarial adjustments and a general downward revision of dividend payments will result.

Insurance executives are unanimous in their assurances that hardly anything that could happen now would even threaten the fundamental soundness of their institutions, and they frankly express their pride over the manner in which their companies have been able to ride out a storm that caused serious damage among nearly all other types of financial venture. It is convincing proof of the contentions they made for insurance during more prosperous times, they say.

Dearth of New Bonds.

One of the principal difficulties facing the insurance companies is the comparative dearth of new bond flotations in the eligible classes. The investment program of an insurance company is based primarily on maturities. It is the aim to place funds in such a way that a certain proportion will mature each year—this proportion to correspond to the estimated requirements of the company at that time, both as to reinvestments and disbursements.

New offerings of eligible bonds having been scarce in the last three years, the companies have had difficulty in reinvesting the proceeds of maturities that have fallen within the period as well as in investing the millions of funds coming in through new underwritings. Instead of being able to invest in bonds yielding from 3½ to 6 per cent they have been obliged to keep millions of dollars in cash, in short term low yield government obligations and in call loans returning about one-half of 1 per cent.

Must Make Cuts.

This means, as company executives have pointed out, substantial reductions in investment income. From this income the companies pay dividends—mutual companies to their policyholders and stock companies to their stockholders. Dividends have been particularly important to the mutual companies, for whether they are taken out by the policyholder or are allowed to accumulate with interest with the companies, they have amounted to a substantial reduction in the actual cost of insurance.

Indications are that nearly all the mutual companies will be obliged to reduce dividends for the coming year. Many of them could continue paying these dividends from surplus funds but uncertainty as to the future makes executives fear that such a course might not be wise.

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 13.—Mexico will use the $7,000,000 advanced by three foreign oil companies on petroleum taxes to strengthen the peso and aid agriculture and large and small industries, Alberto Pani, the finance minister, announces.

He issued a financial report reviewing the steps taken to rehabilitate credit, offset the economic crisis and balance the budget. He declared that "fantastic estimates" made before he took office might have produced a deficit this year had not drastic steps been taken to curtail expenses.

Referring to the loan, he said:

"The first effect will be felt on the monetary situation. Deposited in the Bank of Mexico in dollars, it will help effect necessary stabilization and will produce manifestly favorable effects on the expansion of credit and thus on the national economic situation.

"Among the investments projected are the first requisites for renewing activity in the institutions of agricultural credit, and activity fundamental to the economic life of Mexico since it concerns the majority of the population.

"The organization of an urban mortgage bank becomes more necessary each day. This would finance the reëstablishment or organization of numerous industries that are needed in all the cities of Mexico.

"The national system of credit will be completed by the establishment of the popular bank, which has been hanging fire since 1926." [The popular bank will be founded mainly on the idea of aiding small industries.]

MEAT PACKERS' INSTITUTE OPENS MEETING TODAY

The twenty-seventh annual convention of the Institute of American Meat Packers opens this morning at the Drake hotel with an address by John W. Rath, president of the Rath Packing company, Waterloo, Ia., and chairman of the board of the institute. Several hundred packers from all parts of the country are here to attend the convention sessions which will be held today and tomorrow, closing with the annual dinner tomorrow night.

Sixteen men who have served for fifty years or more in the packing industry will be the recipients of gold buttons commemorating their years of service at the opening session. The presentations will be made by Frank A. Hunter, president of the Hunter Packing company, East St. Louis, Ill.

CORD AND COHU CHARGES FLY IN AVIATION ROW

La Guardia Assails Auto Maker.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 13.—The fight for control of the Aviation corporation gained a new impetus today.

Representative Fiorello H. La Guardia, following a meeting with a committee of fifteen pilots representing all important air lines entering the east, made public a letter to Postmaster General Walter F. Brown. He charged E. L. Cord with being at the head of interests that are attempting to obtain control of the company in order "to repeat their attempts of tearing down the standards in the flying and motor personnel of air transportation."

At the same time, Lamotte T. Cohu, president of the Aviation corporation, issued an appeal to stockholders "in their own interest and in the interests of safety of airplane travel" to refrain from sending their proxies to Mr. Cord. The appeal was made in a six-column newspaper advertisement urging stockholders to send their proxies to the officers of the company.

Prepare Merger Plan.

The management interests, headed by Mr. Cohu, have been preparing a merger into the Aviation corporation of the transport lines of North American Aviation, Inc., and the Trans-American Airlines corporation, for the purpose of giving the Aviation corporation an alternate route for its southern system.

A hearing is scheduled to be held in Wilmington or Dover, Del., tomorrow before Chancellor J. O. Wolcott on the company's motion to have set aside an injunction granted to the Cord interests last week restraining the company and North American Aviation from consummating the proposed merger.

La Guardia Letter.

In his letter to the postmaster general, mailed on Saturday, Mr. La Guardia reviewed the alleged difficulties encountered by Mr. Cord with pilots and mechanics on his air lines regarding wage cuts and asserted he would assist the employés in resisting any efforts made by the Cord interests to lower their pay or to destroy their efficiency.

Pointing out that Mr. Cord once had appeared before the house committee on appropriations and had testified that he could materially reduce the cost of transporting air mail, Mr. La Guardia said subsequent developments showed that Mr. Cord's proposed economies could be effected only at the expense of drastic wage cuts among pilots and mechanics, thereby "resulting in the demoralization of the entire industry."

STATEMENT BY CORD

In a statement made public here last night, E. L. Cord, head of the Cord corporation of Chicago, asserted that he had received numerous letters and telegrams offering him support in his fight with the management of the Aviation corporation.

"Desperate efforts are beig made to becloud the real issue involved," Mr. Cord asserted. "I am asking stockholders of the Aviation corporation for their proxies in order to protect their own interests as well as that of the Cord corporation.

"Stockholders in any corporation should have the right to elect new directors annually or more frequently if necessary. Why should a small group of bankers, who have little or no investment in the stock of the Aviation corporation, only about 7 per cent, be allowed to continue to control its affairs and assets and dictate its policies for their own benefit against the rights of the owners of the other 93 per cent of the Aviation corporation stock?"

Mr. Cord charges those in control of the big aviation company "through mismanagement, inopportune and ill advised investments, and unsuccessful stock operations, have lost over $37,000,000 of the company's funds.

OIL INDUSTRY GAINING DAILY, BEATY ASSERTS

Houston, Tex., Nov. 13.—(AP)—Amos L. Beaty of New York, president of the American Petroleum institute, which begins its annual convention here Tuesday, arrived today, bringing good news for the industry.

"The oil business is getting in better condition every day," he said. "There has been a vast improvement in the last 12 months. We're not out of the woods yet, of course, but we're headed that way. I think the oil industry is ahead of any other major enterprise in coming out of difficulty. Most of the companies are making money, just a little, but money just the same."

The two most important matters to come before the convention, he said, will be the subjects of gasoline tax and gasoline tax evasion.

Rail, Utility Commissioners Hold Convention This Week

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 13.—Trading in a new coffee contract on the New York Coffee and Sugar exchange will begin tomorrow. The contract is exclusively for coffee produced in Colombia and will be known as the Colombian coffee or "H" contract. Trading will be in the delivery months of December and thereafter. Although no ceremonies will mark the opening of trading in the new contract, it is expected that a large group will be assembled on the trading floor.

The important coffee contracts traded on the exchange now are the Rio and Santos contracts, with Brazilian coffee as the basic grades.

Since the exchange started trading in coffee on March 7, 1882, 475,000,000 bags, or 62,700,000,000 pounds, have changed hands on the exchange. Brazil continues to be by far the largest producer of coffee, with an average annual production of 20,000,000 bags.

The importance of Colombia as a coffee producing country has become more pronounced in the last few years. Her exports now approximate 3,000,000 bags a year. The United States consumes 90 per cent of Colombia's production.

The new contract is for the delivery of 32,500 pounds of Colombian coffee. Fluctuations will be in hundredths of a cent a pound, with each point fluctuation equivalent to $3.25 a contract.

STANDARD OIL FORMS ALCOHOL MAKING CONCERN

New York, Nov. 13.—(AP)—Standard Oil Company of New Jersey has formed a separate unit for manufacture of alcohols from petroleum, it was announced today.

Standard has produced alcohol as a by-product for several years and has now sold this department to a new concern, called Standard Alocohol company. The sale follows an agreement ending litigation between New Jersey Standard and the Petroleum Chemical corporation on patents covering the manufacture of certain petroleum alcohols.

CHICAGO TRADE PICKS UP MORE THAN SEASONAL

Orders for Holiday Goods Increase.

A temporary irregularity in trade conditions, due to the influence of election and Armistice day, a more than seasonal pickup in the sales of electrical appliances and a moderate improvement in the demand for steel products, characterized the last week in Chicago, according to trade observers of the Chicago Association of Commerce.

The distribution of wholesale merchandise was much slower. Fewer buyers were in the market, but advance orders for toys and holiday goods showed an increase. With the marked change in weather, there was anticipation of larger purchases by country merchants of winter clothing, shoes, hats and gloves, both for men's and women's wear. Trade in the retail department stores was confined in the main to necessity purchases. Mail order house sales displayed a moderate improvement.

Steel ingot production was maintained at approximately 20 per cent of capacity. Scrap material continued to sell in a fair way, and some of the larger users stated that they had accumulated big stocks.

More than seasonal activity was shown in the sales of electrical appliances and household lamps for the last month, according to a survey conducted during the last week. Instead of the anticipated preelection drop in October, there was a decided increase, varying from 10 per cent to 60 per cent over the business done in September. Durin the month the working force of one of these manufacturers was larger than at any time during the 22 years that the company has been in business.

World Bank Governors in Plea for Gold Standard

BASEL, Switzerland, Nov. 13.—(AP)—Governors of Europe's central banks who met today at the Bank for International Settlements expressed the unanimous opinion that the gold standard is the only basis on which the world economic situation can be bettered. The bankers discussed financial problems to come up at the world economic conference which will probably be held next year.

Steel Output Holds Up on Auto Demand

Cleveland, O., Nov. 13.—(AP)—Steelmaking operations were maintained at 21 per cent last week, almost solely through automotive requirements for new models now being put into production, the magazine Steel said today.

Cleveland mills expanded 1½ points to 35 per cent; Pittsburgh, with some support from tin plate, rose 1 point to 20; Birmingham and Buffalo were a shade stronger at 25 and 22, respectively; Chicago and eastern Pennsylvania were steady at 13 and 13½, and Youngstown eased 2½ points to 17.

Market Listless.

"This maintained steel rate, however," the magazine continued in its weekly survey, "is contrary to the increasing listlessness of the market situation. Rolling of automotive material should hold up for several weeks, and tin plate mills continue to anticipate first quarter shipments, but the shrinkage from other consumers may prove decisive.

"An element of strength is derived from the fact that United States Steel corporation unfilled orders increased Oct. 31 for the third consecutive month despite a higher rate of production. September output of steel ingots, at 17.3 per cent, was a gain of 3 points over August; October at 19 per cent was a rise of almost 2 points; the first half of November has averaged 21 per cent.

Industry Confident.

"Thus far the result of the national election has had no effect on the markets, except the negative one of prolonging the indifference of most buyers. The industry, however, is confident that if the improvement since August is basic, it will survive, and that recovery of business is as essential to the new administration as the old, and hence new policies will be tempered.

"Expanding automobile assemblies are largely seasonal, and with the exception of Plymouth and Chevrolet, the outpouring of new models is rigidly restricted to dealer and show requirements. But the aggregate of these minimum schedules will lift November considerably over the all time low of 50,000 units in October and probably also insures an active December."

BRITAIN, FRANCE, GERMANY UNITE IN BUILDING PACT

BERLIN, Nov. 13.—(AP)—Approval of plans for the formation of two consortiums to promote coöperation between French, German and English industries was given in the last session of the Franco-German economic commission.

A delegation of French business men, headed by Raymond Patenotre, undersecretary of state for national economy, has been in Berlin for two days seeking methods to promote trade in the electrical industry.

WALL ST., WITH ELECTION OVER, RENEWS ACTION

Stocks Hold Recent Price Gains.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 13.—Freed at last from the cares of an unsettling political campaign, the stock market is bidding once more for popular favor as an up and coming concern. Two of the three major sessions clocked off since the election have been marked by broad and vigorous price advances, and the abbreviated affair which wound up the week went out with the leaders doggedly holding their newly won ground in spite of profit taking orders.

Not since the July-September "push" struck its stride has the professional bull element appeared so confident of its position. Talk of another "confidence inspiring" drive is heard about the board rooms. There are skeptics in the party, of course. The spectre of a "lame duck" congress in the offing, the big treasury deficit and its terrifying threat of new taxes, the war debt and tariff problems still unsettled, and above all the knowledge that corporation earnings figures are not going to be especially favorable cause anxiety.

Traders Are Wary.

While the financial community is not disposed to borrow undue trouble on any of these counts, it has allowed its enthusiasm to get out of bounds prematurely too many times in the last two years, when it was compelled to pay through the nose for its folly, to go too far on the face of incomplete returns.

The rank and file, therefore, are inclined to sit back for the time being and leave it to the professionals to "show me." No better evidence of this attitude is needed than the fact that only 2,631,980 shares were traded in on the "big day" of the new movement so far—last Friday.

Whatever it may lack in numerical following, however, the new "push"—if such it may be—is not wanting in robust propulsion. THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S averages on fifty representative stocks jumped 5.34 points in the two full sessions and added fractionally to the showing yesterday. The market, in fact, has been gradually working higher for more than a week, Wall street having long since accepted the outcome of the election as a foregone certainty and resigned to the situation accordingly. Examination shows that the averages have registered gains in six of the last seven

To the Holders of the above-described Bonds:

The Minister of the Treasury and Public Credit of the Republic of Colombia has issued a statement to the effect that he desires to negotiate with the holders of the Bonds of the various Colombian loans but that it has been impossible for him to do so because there exists no central agency representative in fact of the Bondholders. Pursuant to this definite indication by the Minister, and at the request of the holders of a substantial amount of these bonds, the undersigned have agreed to act as a Committee for this purpose.

Not only would it be impractical to initiate negotiations with the Colombian Government and the various Departments and Municipalities except through a single Committee representing the holders of all of these bonds, but also this procedure will result in a very considerable saving in expense both to the bondholders and to the various borrowers concerned.

Copies of the Deposit Agreement and appropriate forms for Letters of Transmittal, may be obtained from the Depositary or the Secretary of the Committee. The maximum amount of the compensation and expenses of the Committee which can be charged to the Depositors is limited to one per cent. No cash payment thereof can or will be required from the Depositors except upon withdrawal by the Depositors of the deposited bonds as provided in the Deposit Agreement.

BEVERLY CREST BONDHOLDERS TO GET XMAS GIFT

Will Receive Around $4 on Each $100 Bond.

BY AL CHASE.

Owners of bonds in the Beverly Crest apartments, at the northeast corner of 105th street and Hale avenue, has been notified of a somewhat premature—but probably just as much appreciated—Christmas gift in the shape of a disbursement amounting to a little over $4 for every $100 bond. This will be made, it is stated, immediately upon surrender by bondholders of certificates of deposit properly indorsed.

This unexpected disbursement is the result of the Fort Dearborn Mortgage company playing the rôle of Santa Claus and putting in the stocking of the bondholders' protective committee a first mortgage loan of $15,000 to finance the reorganization of the Beverly Crest bond issue.

The Fort Dearborn Mortgage company, by the way, was organized a few months ago by the Chicago Title and Trust company, the First National bank, and the present Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company. With funds supplied in large measure by the Reconstruction Finance corporation, it is doing an important work in financing reorganizations for committees which otherwise couldn't secure the necessary cash.

Not Confined to Banks.

This work is not confined, as some think, to banks and the Chicago Title and Trust company, according to George H. Dovenmuehle, president of the Fort Dearborn Mortgage company. Most of the lending is direct to committees.

In a letter addressed to the bondholders by T. E. Williams, secretary of the bondholders' protective committee, of which Holman D. Pettibone, president of the Chicago Title and Trust company is chairman, it is stated that the $15,000 loan made by the Fort Dearborn Mortgage company is payable on or before three years from Oct. 1, 1932, at the rate of 5½ per cent and commission of 3 per cent.

This is to pay costs of the foreclosure proceedings, committee reorganization expenses, delinquent taxes, and other items. All of the taxes, both general and special, Mr. Williams states, have been paid and a reserve established for 1931 taxes, not yet billed.

Trustee Now Has Title.

The foreclosure sale was held on June 11, 1931. On Sept. 11, 1932, fifteen months later, title to the Beverly Crest property was vested in the bondholders' protective committee. Following out the reorganization plan this title now has been conveyed to the Chicago Title and Trust company, as trustee, under that institution's liquidation trust plan.

Each bondholder is requested to turn in his certificate of deposit and in exchange will receive a certificate of beneficial interest for the amount of the bond plus defaulted interest. This will amount to a certificate for $107 for every $100 bond. As already stated, a disbursement of 4 cents per unit, or approximately $4.28 for every $107 certificate, will be made. Vernon M. Welsh of Kirkland, Fleming, Green & Martin is attorney in the reorganization.

The Beverly Crest apartments were financed with an Equitable Bond and Mortgage company bond issue of $85,000, which has not been reduced. Default occurred April 15, 1930. Ninety-eight per cent of the bonds have been deposited.

WARNER BROS. PICTURES SHOW LOSS FOR YEAR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 13.—Warner Brothers Pictures, Inc., and subsidiaries, reported today for the fiscal year ended Aug. 27, 1932 a net loss of $11,224,550, after interest, amortization and depreciation, and after allowing for a profit of $2,870,503 arising from the retirement of debentures and subsidiaries funded indebtedness. This compares with a net loss of $7,918,605 in the year ended Aug. 29, 1931.

Phoenix Mutual Life Insurance.

Please give me what information you have regarding Phoenix Mutual Life Insurance company of Hartford, Conn.—J. A. H.

Phoenix Mutual Life Insurance company (Hartford, Conn.) was incorporated as a stock company in Connecticut in 1851. In 1889 it was made purely mutual.

Growth has been steady. Insurance in force at the close of 1931 was $636,866,000, against $294,349,000 at the close of 1920, $65,873,000 on Dec. 31, 1901, and $3,108,000 on Dec. 31, 1862.

Management is able. President Walsh has been in the insurance business since 1882, and with Phoenix Mutual since 1890.

Policy holders' surplus is sufficient and the reserve basis is strong. Mortality rate is favorable and expenses are low.

Income in 1931 was $35,605,000 and disbursements, including $3,934,000 dividends to policy holders, were $25,750,000.

Admitted assets on Dec. 31, 1931, totaled $160,164,000. Invested assets totaled $161,546,000. Of the latter 5.6 per cent was in real estate, 39.6 per cent in mortgage loans, 18.2 per cent in policy loans, 32.4 per cent in bonds, and 4.2 per cent in stocks. Bonds were carried at amortized values and stocks at "convention" (June 30, 1931) values.

The company is licensed to do business in 37 states of the United States. It has an excellent reputation.

Crucible Steel.

Please give me a report on Crucible Steel bonds due 1940.—A. L. C.

Net loss for the first half of 1932, after interest of $333,000, was $1,682,000. Net income in the corresponding 1931 period, after all charges, was $483,000. Loss before interest of $677,000 in 1931 was $1,339,000. Interest was earned 9.15 times in 1930 and 41.39 times in 1929.

On June 30, 1932, current assets were $19,126,000 and current liabilities were $2,962,000. Cash was $1,318,000, inventories were $15,637,000, and notes payable were $2,000,000. Working capital was $16,163,000, against $18,304,000 the year before. Funded debt totals $13,250,000.

The $10,000,000 5 per cent debentures, due 1940, are a business man's risk.

A higher rating will probably have to be preceded by an improvement in cash position, which would probably result from a return to profitable operations or some liquidation of inventories.
